The Family Council

Editor's note: The Family Council consists of a judge, a physician, three clergymen, three editors and a women's editor. Each article is a summary of a family disagreement presented to the Council. The Council deals with problems, major and minor, encountered by guidance counselors and social workers. Edited by Mrs. Alma Denay. (Copyright by General Features Corp.)

Mr. S. C. — I'd contest the will by offering to keep the boys together.

Mrs. S. C. — I can see the wisdom of the will and accept it.

Mr. S. C. — Our son is a flier and our daughter-in-law has her pilot's license too. They have two beautiful little boys. In view of the fact that Neil and Gert go off alone a lot, sometimes on hazardous trips, they drew up wills. To my amazement, they want one boy to go to our other son, one to Gert's sister. How can they dream of separating the tots? I'd contest that will in court.

Mrs. S. C. — This is a painfully morbid subject and we certainly pray nothing happens to keep our children from raising their own youngsters. But I hope The Council can calm my husband down. He assumed, since Gert's mother is dead, that we'd take over if, God forbid, the worst happened. But Neil knows we're not equal to it physically. Besides those other homes have children, young patient parents with similar ideas.

Open House Slated At Oregon State

Corvallis — Open House will be held Jan. 25 by Oregon State University to let high school students and their parents review academic offerings and career opportunities.

The program will center around school and department meetings and campus tours.

Special sessions are planned on admissions requirements and procedures; student housing; financial aid—scholarships, loans, and employment possibilities; and student activities and organizations.

Each of the schools—agriculture, business and technology, education, engineering, forestry, home economics, humanities and social sciences, pharmacy, science—will hold meetings and question-and-answer periods in the afternoon. Professors in every department will be available for individual conferences.

The program is especially designed for high school seniors and their parents but anyone interested is invited. It was stressed.

Larry H. Smith, a senior from Tillamook, is student chairman for the Open House. Faculty chairman is Dr. Dan W. Poling, dean of men.

French Ultimatum Threatens Being Of Common Market

BRUSSELS, Belgium (UP)—The European Common Market today faced a French ultimatum that threatened its very existence.

The crisis—the worst since France vetoed Britain's application for Common Market membership 11 months ago—was based on a deadline in efforts to set unified farm prices and subsidies for the six market nations.

A meeting of Common Market agricultural ministers went into its third day with no sign of a break in the impasse between France and Germany, the body's two most powerful members.

French President Charles de Gaulle warned last July that France would "review" its Common Market policies unless the farm question were settled by Dec. 31, but later French statements had been interpreted to mean the deadline was not firm.

French Agriculture Minister Edgar Pisani warned the other delegates Tuesday, however, that the deadline "is not a legend or a fantasy." He then left abruptly for Paris to consult his government, saying only that he might return to Brussels today.

Observers said the implied threat was that France would quit the market or boycott its ministerial meetings — a crippling blow — unless the deadline is met.

Trade experts said that if the Common Market ceased to function Western Europe's economic expansion could grind to a halt. They said this could have a serious effect on Western defense planning.

The Common Market, formed six years ago as a step toward a single European economic community, is composed of France, Germany, Italy, Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg.

France, which has large surpluses of farm products, wants to keep down government price subsidies and sell its cheap agricultural products to Germany and other Common Market nations. It wants the protection of high tariffs on farm products from non-market nations.

Such a program could make France the most powerful nation in Europe, on the basis of agricultural and industrial wealth.

Germany wants high government farm subsidies and low tariffs. The German government is fearful of losing the farm vote if it drastically reduces the current high farm price supports. It favors low tariffs in order to continue buying much of its farm produce from non-market countries like the United States and Denmark, which are good customers for German manufactured goods.

Pay Cutback Would Cause Many To Quit

By ZAN STARK United Press International SALEM (UPI) — A cutback in legislators' pay could cause many lawmakers to resign and others to abandon plans to seek re-election.

The result would be the loss of many of the state's most dedicated and hard-working legislators.

The pay issue has split the legislature. Some lawmakers believe they are performing a public service, and should not receive much pay. Others believe, just as sincerely, that even the higher pay scale now in effect is not adequate.

Almost all agree that the public has no idea how hard most of the lawmakers work. One of the Senate's most respected and hard working members said privately he would have resigned if a pay increase had not been approved earlier this year, and he will quit if his pay is cut.

Another legislator says his business income suffered so much during the session he needed the salary and expense money to feed himself and his family.

Both are immune to the normal partisan abuse they suffer as legislators, but feel the pay issue is a matter of principle. Some legislators are quite wealthy. Others are not.

There is no relation between wealth and dedication to the job. Included in the ranks of "workers" and the few "playboys" are those who are financially independent as well as those who have to watch their pennies.

While a pay hike from $50 to $250 a month seems big, and a per diem allotment of $20 seems monumental compared to the old expense formula, it still isn't very much.

The salary and expenses for most lawmakers this year will total $5,000. Next year the total will be $3,000. That's $8,000 for two years. Some lawmakers on interim committees will receive additional money for attending meetings—but it will just cover their expenses.

Few private businessmen would think of hiring a $4,300-a-year man to run a $600-million-a-year business. The argument that legislators work only four to six months a year doesn't hold—because if they do their job, they're at it all the time, not just while the legislature is in session.

There was a lot of jockeying involved in the introduction of legislative pay cut bills in the recent special session.

Few legislators would admit it, but the fact is the House approved a pay cut bill only after being assured the Senate would not act on it.

100 Cuban Families Will Be Relocated

NEW YORK (UPI) — More than 100 Cuban refugee families will take off from Miami before Christmas on "Flights in Freedom" planes sponsored by Church World Service, relief arm of the National Council of Churches.

The refugees will go to new homes in St. Louis, Boston, Atlanta, the Greenville-Columbia, S. C. area and Chicago.

Since Jan. 9, 1963, 22 "Freedom Flights" — sponsored jointly by Catholic and Protestant groups — have taken Cubans out of their crowded, inadequate dwellings in Miami to new homes and jobs in other cities. Los Angeles, with 11 flights, leads the American cities welcoming them.
