Alba Truffle Festival On Senior Center Program

The Truffle Festival in Alba, Italy will be subject of slides to be shown to Senior Activity Center Arm Chair Travelers Monday, December 15 at 1:30 p.m. in the center at 601 East Jackson Street. John Snider, former Medford mayor will show the scenes and narrate his experiences and impressions of culture and industry of Alba, Medford's Sister City.

The former mayor also will show pictures of a trip to Rome and other cities of Europe made by him and his family earlier this year.

Dr. Frank Roberts, program leader, has noted an increased attendance at the travel programs which will be continued each Monday through the holidays, though some of the other center programs will be cancelled. Jesse Anderson showed pictures last Monday of Iceland, Finland, Denmark, Sweden and Norway.

The center knitting class will convene next on January 1, Mrs. Edward Barnett, instructor has announced.

The Tuesday oil painting class will meet December 17 to plan work on paintings discussed by Hal Bishop, guest instructor last week giving lessons on drawing and painting from life models. Mrs. Nettie Williams, the regular teacher of the group served refreshments assisted by Mrs. Laurence Heckett.

Spanish class members will meet at 10 a.m., Wednesday, December 18 and will decide then when the next two meetings will be held, because of conflict in dates of Christmas and New Year's Day.

The center executive board will meet with city council and other officials Wednesday, December 18 at 2 p.m., in the City Council rooms instead of meeting on Thursday afternoon as previously scheduled. A discussion will be held on the future of the center.

Shuffle board teams are to play Thursday morning and the Senior Center Orchestra will practice at 1 p.m. Last week the orchestra played for the Christmas party of the Shipmates Class of the Methodist Church and orchestra members were dinner guests.

The contact bridge group will play Saturday, December 21 from 1 to 4 p.m.
