

$5,616 Donated To Local Heart Fund

Residents of Jackson County donated $5,616.06 to support the Oregon Heart Association, Mrs. Earl Bigalow, 1964 county chairman, has announced.

The amount was part of the more than $37,000 given by Oregon residents, during 1963, according to James Warinner, Medford campaign chairman. Of this amount $43,000 was realized from the February Heart Fund drive.

Almost 65 per cent of all funds contributed to the state association is used to support research projects in Oregon. Only 8 1/2 per cent of the Oregon total was used for administrative purposes, while 12 per cent went for professional and public education programs and 9.3 per cent was expended for community service projects.

Gifts realized from memorials, as well as bequests and contributions to the February Heart fund have helped provide such major advances as open heart surgery, the heart-lung machine, artificial heart valves, drugs to reduce high blood pressure and improved methods of treating heart attack, heart failure and stroke, Mrs. Bigalow said.

Collins Discusses On-Farm Recreation With Area Stockmen

CENTRAL POINT — Charles Collins, executive vice president of The California Oregon Recreation Development Association, Medford, told the Jackson County Stockmen's Association Thursday afternoon that the farmer and general public benefit from on-the-farm recreation developments.

The farmer can make money from recreation although it is not a "boom type thing," Collins told the 73 people present. Such a development would not require much investment if approached slowly. It is possible to make $3,000 from this sideline during a three-month season, he said.

The people need to get acquainted with nature and farm life. Those with medium incomes cannot afford super-deluxe accommodations at some resorts and motels, the parks and recreation expert said. However, the farmer should charge enough for his facilities to make a fair profit, he emphasized.

Collins listed basic requirements for operating such a guest ranch and the types of recreation developments which would be profitable to the farmer.

Basic requirements include:

- (1) having enough time from farm chores to cater to guests and have farm personnel who like people;
  - (2) a scenic and comfortable ranch;
  - (3) an area for fishing, hunting, swimming or digging Indian artifacts;
  - (4) having skills in music, arts and crafts;
  - (5) having a broad acquaintance in trade, social or church groups to obtain verbal advertising; and
  - (6) having access to professional help from such organizations as the Forest Service, Bureau of Land Management and National Park Service.
- Basic types of farm recreation programs include (1) vacation ranches, (2) convalescent facilities for ill or handicapped people, and (3) picnic and sports areas.
- Water-skiing areas in this region are in much demand, Collins pointed out. Group or club leasing of fishing and hunting areas is becoming increasingly popular.
- Reaching Customers
- Advertisements in trade journals, recreation and vacation travel publications is one way to reach potential customers, the parks and recreation official said.

"This is a pioneering type of venture, so the farmer or rancher should start small and not invest too heavily at first," he emphasized.

Austin Klahn, range specialist with the Rogue River National Forest, summarized past developments in range studies, range management problems related to cattle grazing and plans for detailed studies on range allotments in the various local districts.

The stockmen's association voted to adopt a joint membership dues system as proposed by the Oregon Cattlemen's Association at its recent convention in Baker. Action followed talks on OCA membership benefits by OCA representatives and an explanation of the new dues system.

Klamath Falls Murder Trial Slated March 9

KLAMATH FALLS (UPI) — The first degree murder trial of Eugene A. Beierle, 47, of Klamath Falls has been scheduled to start March 9 in Klamath County Circuit Court.

Beierle pleaded innocent to the charge Thursday after Circuit Judge Donald Piper refused a request to set aside the indictment.

Beierle is accused of shooting his wife, Gloria, 23, Nov. 22.

Lake Creek Eyes and Knives

The first meeting of the Lake Creek Eyes and Knives 4-H Club was called to order by Cheryl Stanley recently at North's Chuck Wagon where the leaders and club members had their dinner.

Margaret Goodwin gave a report on her trip to Portland for dairy judging.

Karen Huggdahl gave a quiz on questions written by a junior model. After discussion on the questions, refreshments were served and the meeting was adjourned.

The next meeting will be at Mrs. Kenyon's house. Sharon Huggdahl, Reporter

Desert Pegasus

Record books were returned at a recent meeting of the Eagle Point Desert Pegasus 4-H Horse Club. President Phillip McGuire opened the meeting held at the Eagle Point community building.

Twenty-one members were present. Alyce Kranbeal gave a talk on the "Objectives of the 4-H Project." Les Kranbeal followed with a talk on the "Care of Horses."

Mr. Dunn, club leader, spoke about the condition of some of the horses. He pointed out that the horses should not be too fat nor too thin.

Preparations were made for a Christmas party.

Mr. Dunn spoke to the club about the English methods of riding instruction. He suggested that the members adopt some of these methods.
