Divorce Rate in Jackson County Is Above Average

The divorce rate in Jackson County is not an enviable one. Although it has not reached the size that it has in some parts of the country, it is, nevertheless, higher than average.

As a result of family split-ups locally, there are now 2,662 men and women in the county who are listed as divorced or separated. Of the total, 2,107 are divorced and 555 are separated.

The figures are based on a survey recently made by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare and on data gathered by the Department of Commerce.

Local Residents Noted

They show that, in Jackson County, 50 local residents out of every 1,000 over the age of 14 are either divorced or separated.

That is a higher ratio than is reported for most of the United States, the average being 43 per 1,000. In the State of Oregon, it is 48 per 1,000.

Growing attention is being paid to the divorce situation because of the effect that it has on the lives of so many adults and, more especially, on their children.

400,000 Divorces in U.S.

In the past year there were more than 400,000 divorces in the United States. They have markedly changed the lives of 800,000 men and women and of their nearly 500,000 children.

While the number of divorces keeps going up, in line with the expansion of the population, there has been no increase in the rate itself.

Actually, the divorce rate per 1,000 people has been dropping since 1946, when the all-time high of 610,000 divorces was recorded.

This avalanche was attributed to the marital difficulties connected with hasty war-time marriages and with the long separations that ensued.

Some Have Remained

Many of the people who found that their marriages were not made in heaven, and who were subsequently divorced, have remarried, the figures show.

According to the Government's figures, for every person in the United States who has been divorced and who has not remarried, there are 2.5 others, once divorced, who have remarried.

Assuming that Jackson County is average in this respect, there are an estimated 3,388 additional men and women locally who have gone through divorce.

Crown Zellerbach Warns Investors

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Crown Zellerbach Corp., surprised by a five-point rise in its stock because of rumors it has a new miracle drug in the works, Wednesday tried to head off speculators.

A company spokesman said even if the experimental drug Dimethyl Sulfoxide, or DMSO should live up to the effects attributed to it, "commercialization of the chemical as a drug would have little effect on the company's overall sales volumes and earnings."

However, stock purchasers were apparently unimpressed with the stock, which closed Tuesday at 55½, soared to 60½ on the Pacific Coast Stock Exchange Wednesday.

A Crown-Zellerbach public relations man reported: "Our annual business is more than $600 million, of this, the chemical division does only $2 million. What's all the fuss about?"

The University of Oregon Medical School in Portland has been testing DMSO.

Doctors said the chemical, derived from wood, has bright possibilities in the field of medicine but that much testing remained to be done before it could be marketed. Its possibilities include help in human organ transplant, pain killing and the potential of transporting medication in the human body.

Oregon AFL-CIO Chief To Retire

PORTLAND (UPI) — J. D. (Ross) McDonald, will retire Jan. 1 from his fulltime salaried job as president of the Oregon AFL-CIO, he announced Wednesday.

However, McDonald said he will keep the title of president and may even run for re-election when his term expires Dec. 1, 1965, McDonald is 68.

He said after he gives up his $195 weekly salary he will work only under special assignment from James T. Marr, executive secretary of the Oregon AFL-CIO.

McDonald has been a fulltime lobbyist since the 1953 session. He first went to the Oregon Legislature in 1937 to work for a meat inspection bill.
