Status-Symbol Limousines Due For Cutback in Economy Order

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Budget Bureau said it was a cutback but to Washington's status-conscious bureaucrats it was more of an amputation—their cherished limousines had to go.

Sensitivity To Poison Ivy. A geologist, Edward A. Gribi, Jr., writes me a very helpful letter, telling me of his wide experience with poison ivy, which he is constantly encountering as he walks through brush and deep grass.

likely to injure the skin around the shoe tops. Curiously, he says a man should wash the inside of his watch band with soap and water because the oil tends to accumulate there and to cause a distressing patch of inflammation.

Another good point he makes is that he can prevent a rash from coming if he can wash the exposed portions of his body with soap and hot water within from four to eight hours after he comes in from a trip.

Overseas Rules. Overseas, the Budget Bureau said, ambassadors or chiefs of major missions will be allowed a limousine if their responsibilities require a car of that class.

Editor's Note: The following dispatch by UPI's religion writer describes the origins of some of the shrines that will be visited by Pope Paul VI during his visit to the Holy Land next month.

By LOUIS CASSELS United Press International Pope Paul VI is going to Palestine with the same motive that has animated millions of other Christian pilgrims during the past 2,000 years.

In his own words, he wants to see "the holy places where Christ was born, lived, died and ascended to Heaven after His resurrection."

Because he is a widely-read scholar, the Pope is not likely to be disappointed — as some pilgrims are — by the discovery that it is often necessary to settle for probabilities and approximations in identifying the localities where biblical events took place.

city for the past 20 centuries, with new buildings constantly being built on the ruins of old ones. Archaeologists estimate that at least 20 feet of rubble now lie over the streets where Christ walked, and over which He carried His cross.

Some of the sites now pointed out in Jerusalem as holy places are of very dubious authenticity. For example, the place where Jesus ate His Last Supper with His disciples is identified in the Bible only as a large upper room in a private home.

Tradition points to a cave in the Judean hillsides as the site of the manger. This usually surprises Western Christians who have been nourished on Christmas art depicting the nativity scene in a stable attached to an inn.

The particular cave which Bethlehem guides point out as the birthplace of Jesus has been a place of pilgrimage for Christians since at least 150 A.D., and possibly before that.

More Reliable Tradition. Much older and vastly more reliable is the tradition which identifies the site of Calvary, where Christ was crucified, and the adjacent garden tomb in which he was buried.

Most scholars agree that it is highly probable that both of these sacred places are encompassed within the huge Church of the Holy Sepulchre, where Pope Paul plans to celebrate Mass on Jan. 4. The church was built by the Emperor Constantine in the early Fourth Century, on a hill which had been known among Jerusalem Christians for generations as far back as Constantine could trace — as the site of Christ's death and resurrection.

As the Pope visits other places connected with the life of Christ, he repeatedly will encounter the same situation that prevails in Bethlehem. He can go to the little suburb of Bethany, about a mile and a half from Jerusalem, and be sure that it was here that Jesus visited his friends, Mary, Martha and Lazarus. But he may be somewhat less convinced when local guides point out a particular underground chamber as the burial vault from which Lazarus was called forth.

Aliens Must Report Addresses Next Year

PORTLAND — Each alien in the United States in January must report his current address, according to the U. S. Immigration and Naturalization Service, Portland office.

The annual alien address report program usually causes a sharp rise in the number of applications for naturalization, according to District Director Alfred J. Urbano. Through the U. S. almost 30 per cent more applications for naturalization are received during January, February and March than during other months.

Aliens not required to report are diplomats, those accredited to international organizations and those who have entered temporarily as agricultural laborers.

Report forms are available at all post offices and offices of the Immigration and Naturalization Service during January.

Scout News

Cub Scout Pack 6. The acceptance of Cub-donated canned goods by Captain Angel of the Salvation Army highlighted the annual pre-Christmas meeting of Cub Scout Pack 6 at the Washington School gymnasium Friday.

Captain Angel pointed out that the boys' donation would greatly help in filling the many Christmas baskets to be given out to needy families this year.

The meeting was given over almost entirely to the Christmas theme. After the opening flag ceremony by Joanie Oliver's Den 4 and the presentation of awards, Bruce Braaten led in singing Christmas carols. All the Cub Scouts participated in the trimming of the Christmas tree with decorations made by the boys at den meetings.

After the tree was trimmed, Santa made a surprise appearance and passed out apples to everyone. The meeting was then closed by Cub Master Everett Ballard.

A Christmas Prayer

Let us pray that strength and courage abundant be given to all who work for a world of reason and understanding; that the good that lies in every man's heart may day by day be magnified; that men will come to see more clearly not that which divides them, but that which unites them; that each hour may bring us closer to a final victory, not of nation over nation, but of man over his own evils and weaknesses; that the true spirit of this Christmas Season—its joy, its beauty, its hope, and above all its abiding faith—may live among us; that the blessings of peace be ours—the peace to build and grow, to live in harmony and sympathy with others, and to plan for the future with confidence.
