Tax Installments Are Due on Trucks

PORTLAND — Highway use tax installments are due Dec. 31, according to A. G. Erickson, district director of the Internal Revenue Service for Oregon.

All Oregon truck and bus owners who have elected to pay their highway use tax in installments must pay them by Dec. 31. A notice of payment due is being sent, Erickson said.

A Form 2290 should be filed on all taxable vehicles by the end of the month following the month they were first used on public highways. However, liability for highway use tax arises only once each year on each taxable vehicle.

Therefore, the new owner should check to see if the use tax has already been paid by the previous owner for the current year. If it has, the new owner incurs no liability for tax on his use of such vehicle for that year.

Erickson reminded truck or bus owners who first became liable for the federal highway use tax in November, or who put additional vehicles into operation in November, that returns should be filed for such vehicles by the end of December. The tax may be paid in full by Dec. 31, March 31, and June 30.

Additional information may be obtained at any Internal Revenue office.

Oregon Supreme Court Decisions

SALEM (UPI) — A "Sky Flyer" toy which propels a dart by means of an explosive cap when the toy is struck on a hard surface, is not an attractive nuisance, the Oregon Supreme Court ruled Thursday.

The high court upheld a decision in Multnomah County Circuit Court by Judge Dean F. Bryson denying damages to James Hassebrook, a minor, who was struck in the eye by the toy.

Hassebrook's guardian had sought damages from Pearl O. Norman, a neighbor, after the accident.

The high court said the lower court's refusal to permit a demonstration of the toy to the jury was a matter within the judge's discretion.

The high court also upheld a decree dismissing George and Irene Van Natta's complaint in a suit to quiet title to tax foreclosed property in Columbia County was affirmed by the high court.

The Columbia County Circuit Court of Judge Avery A. Combs was upheld by the high court ruling.

Conviction Affirmed Conviction of William Junior Eyle, before Umatilla County Circuit Judge William W. Wells, on a charge of using a motor vehicle without authority, for which he was sentenced to one year in the penitentiary, was affirmed by the Supreme Court.

Also upheld was an order from the Benton County Circuit Court of Judge Fred McHenry denying Mary Beelman's motion for a change of custody of her minor daughter from the child's father. In 1961 the high court upheld an order transferring custody from Mrs. Beelman to Boyd Beelman, the father.

The Bill would provide for the gratuitous return of a portion of the land originally donated by the city for construction of a VA hospital. Duncan noted that any legislation which included a gratuitous provision always received a certain amount of opposition, but he felt in this case it wouldn't affect passage of the bill.

Duncan pointed out that the companion bill (S1263) sponsored by Sen. Wayne Morse and Maurine Neuberger is currently before the Senate Government Operations Committee.

Roseburg Property Transfer Is Nearer

WASHINGTON — Congressman Robert B. Duncan (D-Ore.) said today his legislation to transfer certain property from the Veterans Administration to the City of Roseburg has moved another step forward.

Duncan announced that Congressman William L. Dawson, chairman of the House Government Operations Committee, has referred his bill (HR5185) to the Government Activities Subcommittee.

"I have contacted the subcommittee chairman, Congressman Jack Brooks, and asked that hearings be held at the earliest possible date," Duncan said.

"All Federal agency reports are in on the transfer and the City of Roseburg has agreed to the terms suggested by the Veterans Administration. There is nothing left now to hold up speedy consideration of the bill," Duncan added.

The Bill would provide for the gratuitous return of a portion of the land originally donated by the city for construction of a VA hospital. Duncan noted that any legislation which included a gratuitous provision always received a certain amount of opposition, but he felt in this case it wouldn't affect passage of the bill.

Duncan Introduces Bill To Help Vets

WASHINGTON — Congressman Robert B. Duncan (D-Ore.) has introduced legislation to liberalize restrictions placed on veterans pensions. Duncan said his bill is aimed primarily at helping veterans of World War I.

"The major objective of my bill is to introduce a measure that can be passed and will provide additional benefits for aged and needy veterans while there is still time for them to enjoy it," Duncan said.

He pointed out that the bill, sponsored by the Veterans of World War I, is so embroiled in controversy it is doubtful whether it can pass the Congress, and if it does, a Presidential veto is "possible, if not probable."

Duncan's bill, if enacted, would declare any veteran over 65 "permanently and totally disabled," and thus eligible for non-service connected pensions, subject to income limitations. It would also liberalize these limitations for certain totally and permanently disabled single veterans and widows without children.

The measure would increase from $70 to $90 the monthly regular aid and attendance benefits for veterans unable to care for themselves, and would exclude income earned by a veteran's wife from being computed in figuring the veteran's pension.

The Congressman pointed out that his bill resulted from a year's study of veterans legislation. "It was also stimulated by many conferences and conversations with veterans of W. W. I. throughout the district," Duncan said.

Conviction Affirmed Conviction of William Junior Eyle, before Umatilla County Circuit Judge William W. Wells, on a charge of using a motor vehicle without authority, for which he was sentenced to one year in the penitentiary, was affirmed by the Supreme Court.

Canadian Tries To Locate Uncle Here

The Yuletide season is the season for thinking of families. This is probably why Mrs. Marie Cox of Uptegrove, Ontario, Canada, is trying to find her uncle, M. F. McDermott.

A query was received by the Hotel Grand, where McDermott once made his home in Medford. He has not communicated with his niece since December, 1950, she informed Earl P. Hammond, manager of the hotel.

The hotel's files do not go back to 1950 and the ownership of the hotel has changed during that time. Hammond has been manager for three years.

If anyone has information which might lead to the whereabouts of McDermott, Hammond has asked that he be contacted so he can help the woman who appears eager to locate her uncle.

A call, also, was received at the Mail Tribune Thursday night from Lillian Jones of 5815 SW 84th St., South Miami, Fla., who is trying to locate a cousin, R. E. Golden.

Bert Pree, who has been in the real estate business in Medford for seven years working with other realtors, has opened his own real estate offices at 701 W. Sixth St.

Mrs. Pree recently became a licensed broker. Associated with Mrs. Pree at the new location is Dorothy Ricks, who has worked with real estate firms in Medford for two years.

Verlin E. Glawe, 32, of 331 Orr Drive, Central Point, was reported in critical condition today at Sacred Heart Hospital suffering from injuries received in an automobile accident about 6:30 p.m. Thursday.

According to Oregon State Police, the Glawe vehicle was northbound on Table Rock Road when it attempted to make a left turn onto Wilson Road, hitting a southbound car operated by Daniel Clifford Tisch, 18, of Hayward, Calif.

Tisch, who suffered a fractured arm, and his passenger, Mary Lou Elbert, Route 2, Box 320, Central Point, who suffered lacerations, were both reported in good condition at Sacred Heart Hospital.

State police investigated one other accident last night. Pamela Sue Martin, 16, of 55 Fifth St., Central Point, suffered a slight cut on her forehead after her vehicle collided with one operated by Carroll Barclay Johnson, 40, of 2638 Howard Ave.

The accident occurred at the intersection of U. S. 99 and Mace Road about 9:45 p.m., police said, as the Johnson vehicle stopped for traffic to clear so he could make a left turn onto Mace Road.

Many English Teachers Ill Prepared to Teach

EUGENE — Many people now teaching English classes are ill prepared to do so, according to Dr. Albert R. Kitzhaber, professor of English at the University of Oregon and the newly-elected president of the National Council of Teachers of English.

He addressed the annual luncheon meeting of the NCTE College Section at the convention of the Modern Language Association in Chicago. Dr. Kitzhaber was installed as NCTE president at the organization's Thanksgiving meeting in San Francisco.

Scholars of language and rhetoric and literature from the colleges and universities must agree to work closely with the people who are teaching English in the schools, and with specialists in English education, he said.

He pointed out that summer institutes are helping to improve the preparation of teachers already in the field, but added that federal funds were needed to support such institutes.

Little Likelihood "I doubt that the specter of a 'national curriculum' which we often see raised, should alarm us. Considering how hard it is to get English teachers to agree on almost anything, I think there is little likelihood of any such monolithic course of study emerging."

Dr. Kitzhaber is the director of the Project English center at the University, which is part of a federally-financed program to improve the English curriculum. Project English, he said, has been a promising development, but he added that panels which review such proposals should be made up of persons who have a comprehensive knowledge of English as an academic discipline.

Commenting on "the present uneasy status of the college freshman English course," he said that many English departments are faced with the prospect either of upgrading the traditional freshman English course or of getting rid of it.

A great many Americans show little understanding of the value of literature and indeed are often hostile to it, he continued. "It is literature and the other humane studies that help to provide us with the sense of our own identity."

Bert Pree, who has been in the real estate business in Medford for seven years working with other realtors, has opened his own real estate offices at 701 W. Sixth St.
