UNICEF Sales Set Record

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. — Record sales of 13 million UNICEF greeting cards and 175,000 UNICEF calendars confirmed widespread support for the United Nations Children's Fund in the U.S.A. this year, the U.S. Committee for UNICEF announced here today.

Card sales increased by 23 per cent over 1962's record high. The UNICEF calendar was sold out early in December. The committee received mail orders totaling $1,275,000, an increase of 19 per cent over last year. Volunteers in all 50 states sold 4,650,000 cards on consignment — 33 per cent more than in 1962. The gross income increased by 22.2 per cent to a total of $2,300,000.

Proceeds from the sales will strengthen UNICEF's assistance to over 500 long-range programs for needy children and mothers in more than 100 developing countries, a U.S. Committee spokesman said. In terms of aid, through UNICEF $1 can mean the vaccine to protect 100 children from tuberculosis; or a month's supply of vitamin capsules for 20 children or mothers; or enough antibiotics to save eight children from the blindness of trachoma; or a daily cup of milk for 17 children for a month.

LONDON—Britain's Princess Margaret and her husband, Lord Snowdon, are shown arriving at St. Paul's Cathedral here for the recent memorial service for the late President John F. Kennedy. Princess Margaret, who is expecting her second child in April, is still one of the most fashionably dressed women in London and is continuing an active social life. (UPI)

Princess Margaret Said Stylish Mother-To-Be

By MARGARET SAVILLE
United Press International LONDON (UPI) — The most stylishly elegant and possibly the prettiest mother-to-be around London these days is Princess Margaret.

Not for Margaret are the large, tent-like tweed coats and adaptable pleated dresses the Queen and her cousin Princess Alexandra are wearing as they await their babies.

Princess Margaret, expecting her second child in April, still looks like a fashion model with her high heels, slim straight skirts and the latest line suits.

The 33-year-old princess has a little longer to go before her confinement than her sister the Queen whose fourth child is due in February or March, and Alexandra, due for a January child. But she's making the most of her style sense and on her it looks good.

When Margaret accompanied Queen Elizabeth to the opening of the Goya art exhibition earlier this month she was smart in a chestnut brown, Chanel-type velvet suit with a gold lame shirtdress, its scarf tossed over her shoulder.

Radiantly Lovely
Recently she was radiantly lovely in a princess style evening gown topped by a casual mink stole at a Covent Garden premiere. One evening the princess went dancing with her husband, Lord Snowdon, at a West End hotel wearing a white empire-line dress touched with silver beads.

An important part of the present "Margaret look" is a new hair style, short and pretty which effectively draws the eyes of the beholder upward, as do her fuzzy fur or leather hats, all with Paris inspiration. Friends say the princess, with her always glowing complexion and extra-bright blue eyes, never has looked more attractive than she does just now. "Positively blooming," as one put it.

Has Doctor's Approval
In continuing her social and other activities, Princess Margaret has the full approval of her and the Queen's gynecologist, Sir John Peel. He likes his patients to remain active through the pregnancy period. He recommends lots of open air exercise, especially walking.

He limits smoking and use of alcohol. The princess, never a particularly heavy smoker, reportedly is down to three cigarettes a day, one after each meal. She still sips an occasional glass of champagne and will have perhaps one evening whiskey and soda until just a few weeks before the birth.

The princess carried on just about the same regime when she was expecting her first child, Lord Linley, now 2, and had an exceptionally easy birth. Her labor lasted less than eight hours and within 20 minutes after the baby's delivery she announced she was "feeling fine."

From the looks of things she's still feeling fine and apparently sees no reason not to keep on enjoying herself for awhile yet.

Ashland Couple Has Visitors
ASHLAND—Christmas guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Dick Gillespie, 1425 Oregon Street, were their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Gillespie and son Brent, Livermore, Calif., their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Ross and son Brian, Anacortes, Wash., and their son Clinton of Corvallis.

Polish Dance Company Scheduled in Portland

PORTLAND — Poland's world-famous dance company, "Mazowsze," is next up in the series of exciting imports being presented in Portland by Celebrity Attractions. The S. Hurrok production is scheduled for one performance only at the Public Auditorium on Tuesday evening, January 7.

"Mazowsze," which takes its name from the Central region of Poland and is pronounced "Mah-zoff-shuh," has been in existence for only 13 years, but in that time has gained an international reputation. Since its premiere in 1948, it has been acclaimed by audiences totaling some six million from Moscow to New York. The fantastic reception accorded the troupe by press and public during its brief visit to the eastern United States in 1961 resulted in the current tour which will include some 35 cities of this country and Canada.

The company of 100 includes both dancers and chorus, accompanied by a full symphony orchestra, as well as native musicians who play on stage. The thousands of colorful costumes are authentic, many made in the very villages where the particular song or dance originated. The youthful and energetic company emphasizes the humor and vitality of the Polish folk song and dance, long famed for its melodic and popular content.

When the "Mazowsze" visited New York in 1961, Critic John Chapman summed up the reception by writing in the New York Daily News: "All of the musicals of Broadway put together could not offer the joyous zest, the dancing skill, the wondrous costumes, the happy humor and the delightful music which came to us all in one package."

Family Visits At York Home

ASHLAND — Spending the holidays in Ashland with their parents are Mr. and Mrs. Victor York and two sons, John and Eric, Corvallis, Ore. They are dividing their time between Mrs. York's parents, Dr. and Mrs. Marshall E. Woodell, 650 Leonard Street, and the senior Victor Yorks, 227 West Hersey Street. Also visiting the Yorks are their daughter, Mrs. Katherine Montgomery, and her two children of Chico, Calif.

Open House Marks 50th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. William Dobyns, 515 Jackson Street, who were married December 13, 1913 in Jacksonville in the Jackson County Courthouse, were honored at a recent open house for which their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. William Dobyns Jr., Gold Beach, were hosts.

An open house held at their home, 515 Jackson Street, observed the golden wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. William Dobyns.

The late Judge Frank Touville had officiated at their wedding, and the parents of both attended.

The hosts were assisted by sisters and a brother-in-law of Mrs. William Dobyns Jr., Mrs. Myrtle Snoddy, Eugene, and Mrs. Elmer Weiss, Central Point.

Eighty-five guests called on the couple during the hours of one to six o'clock. Among the callers were those from Albany, Sweet Home, Eugene, Tillamook, Glendale, Talent, Phoenix, White City, Eagle Point and Medford.

Mr. Dobyns had been employed by the California Oregon Power Company, (Pacific Power and Light Company) for 33 years when he retired in 1957. For 12 years the couple lived in Medford before moving to Glendale, Ore., for 27 years. After his retirement they lived for six years in Sweet Home where they operated a market, before returning to Medford to live.

They also have a son, Arthur William Dobyns, who is employed by Arabian American Oil Company in Dhahran, Saudi Arabia, who was a visitor here during the past summer.

Wedding cake was served for refreshments.

Debbie Pruett and Cheryl Dobyns were in charge of the guest book. Kathi Dobyns assisted about the rooms and Vicki Dobyns was in charge of the gifts. Mr. and Mrs. Harold Littrell also assisted during the reception.

Meeting Postponed By Westside Unit

A meeting scheduled by Westside Home Extension Unit for January 2 has been postponed to January 9, officers of the unit have announced.

The session will be held at 10:30 a.m. in Presbyterian Church, Central Point.

Indoor 'Landscapes' Are Easily Arranged

For either a centerpiece or a floor-level attraction, you can make your own landscape scenes with professionally grown combinations of clay-potted foliage and flowering plants such as ivy, table palms, philodendron, Chinese evergreen, red begonias, ferns, cacti, sedum and succulents.

Your florist can supply you with combinations that go well together in large clay pots. Or you can select suitable groups of individual plants in clay pots and be your own landscape architect.

New Year's Party Planned by Council

A New Year's Eve party for members of Rosebud Council, Pythian Sunshine Girls and their guests has been planned.

A business meeting will be conducted at 7 p.m., and dancing will be conducted from 8 p.m. to 12 midnight, when a buffet dinner will be served.

Lodge Dinner

JACKSONVILLE — Members of the Jacksonville Historical Independent Order of Odd Fellows and Ruth Rebekah Lodges met December 22 for their annual Christmas dinner served in the lodge dining room. About 45 guests attended. Children were given gifts of candy.

WWI Auxiliary To Sponsor Dance

The Department of Oregon, Auxiliary to Veterans of World War I, will sponsor a dance Monday, December 30 at 8 p.m., in the theater building at Veterans Domiciliary, White City.

Music for dancing will be provided by the Musicians Union, Local 597. Those who need transportation may go by bus at 7:30 p.m., from the Greyhound Depot.

Reids Away

ASHLAND — Dr. and Mrs. John N. Reid and sons John and Tom and daughter Laurie Ann drove to Oceanside, Ore., to spend Christmas with Mrs. Reid's mother, Mrs. A. R. Tartar, who recently moved to the coast from Ashland.
