HONOR WASHINGTON WITH GOOD PROGRAM

The program in honor of "the Father of our Country" as rendered by the younger citizens at the school on Tuesday morning was enjoyed by scores of the young citizens parents and many friends besides. Many of the smaller tots made their first appearance before the public at this time—and did themselves proud. The spirit of the occasion as expressed by our little friends gave more than common delight to the Women's Relief Corps of this city who attend in a body. The various numbers of the program as given by the grades follows:

- Recitation—Harold Whitney.
- Recitation—Fred Koutney.
- Recitation—Ralph Djmick.
- Recitation—Victor Koelme.
- Recitation—A Song For Our Flag, Frances Lefler.
- Recitation—Something Better, by Helen Knight.

Recitation—The Twenty-second of February, Ruth Kauffman.

Recitation—Which General, Harold Langdon.

A True Soldier, Helen Williams.

Dialogue—Meaning of the Colors, Frances Lefler, Jeanette Pook, and Helen Knight.

Dialogue—Our Flag, Helen Knight, Mary Koutney, and Ruth Kauffman.

Dialogue—The Minutemen, by ten boys.

Exercise, with the words of Washington, by ten girls.

Recitation—Betsey Ross, Katherine Pook.

Song, Beautiful Flag of the Free, Phyllis and Lazion Simson.

Colonial Play—Fourth, Fifth and Sixth grades.

The Little English Boy—2 boys in Third grade.

Song—Washington, by Lorene Braden.

REAL FACTS ABOUT LUMBER PRICES

SIX MONTHS AHEAD OF ALL OTHER GREAT Living Commodities, Lumber took its tumble.

Lumber is down 50 to 80% from after-war prices and the public is entitled to the reduction.

NO DEALER, or for that matter, no merchant has a just right to sell his goods for the replacement price when things are going up unless he is equally willing to sell at the replacement price when things have already gone down.

When you do business with us you are going to be given every advantage of the reduced price. We mean by this the replacement price. Call us, phone us, write us — we can serve you best, as we do not quote war time prices, but on the other hand protect you with replacement values.
