GOOD HIGHWAYS

IMPROVED ROADS ARE URGED

Permanent Highways Will Turn Tide to Rural Sections and Increase Production of Food.

"Propaganda urging a change of the present method of federal aid in the construction of good roads has made its appearance," said Thomas J. Cusack of Meriden, Conn., to Washington Post reporter. "It is now proposed to establish a national highway system, to be wholly constructed and maintained by the national government. It is doubtful if such a change would ever be advisable, but it is certainly not expedient at this time in view of the condition of the treasury.

"It is desirable to have a system of hard-surface roads throughout the country, and this result can be obtained under the present system. Highway use is very largely a local matter. The growth and development of a community is greatly increased by the construction of permanent roads in or adjacent thereto. No system

A Standard Dump Truck for Road Building.

should be adopted that would benefit a few at the expense of the many. For that reason the local communities should contribute their share of the expense of the construction.

"We are told by competent authority that freight can be transported cheaper on short hauls by motor trucks than by rail, but on long hauls the cost of transportation by truck is prohibitive.

"In April, 1917, the declaration of war caused all road building to cease.
All bond issues that had been voted for road construction were held in abeyance, and nothing was undertaken until after the signing of the armistice to resume construction of highways.
The war awakened the people to the necessity of permanent road building and demonstrated that it would be necessary in the future to build roads that would withstand the heavy truck traffic.

"The present system of federal aid has not been given a fair opportunity to demonstrate its merits. It began operation under abnormal conditions, which grew worse. The road to be improved must be a 'rural post road,' as defined in the law, to be any public road, a major portion of which is now used, or can be used, as a connecting link not to exceed ten miles in length of any road or roads now or hereafter used for the transportation of the United States mails.

"Nothing will turn the tide of humanity back to the rural communities more effectively than the construction of permanent highways. Nothing will encourage the production of food products more than roads that can be traveled all the year."

STATE ROAD HELP OLD IDEA

First Money Paid for Highway Improvement Made by Kentucky 75 Years Ago.

It is often said that the use of state money for the construction of roads is of quite recent origin, says a bulletin from the American Highway association. The New Jersey state aid law of 1801 is sometimes referred to as the first instance of such use of state funds in this country. As a matter of fact, state money was spent for such purposes more than 75 years ago. Kentucky paid out over $2,000-000 for road improvements between 1820 and 1840 under the direction of a state highway engineer, who drew a salary of $5,000 a year, a very large sum for those days.

The roads built then were 24 to 30 feet wide between the ditches. The surfaces were constructed of broken stone, and the bottoms were of large stones wedged together to make what road builders call a telford foundation.
About 1850 business conditions in the country became bad and this work stopped. When it was resumed in 1908 such a long period had elapsed since the earlier state aid work that 1908 is usually fixed as the beginning of state road work in Kentucky.

AFTER "THE GRIP," or in A Cheerful Note.

"All things are full of iniquity and vice; more crime is committed than can be remedied by restraint. We struggle in a huge contest of criminality. Daily the passion for sin is greater. The shame in committing it is less" . . . This is not the outcry of one who looks with alarm upon the orgies of the profiteers, the operations of the auto bandits, the greed of landlords, and the pernicious activities of the grafters, gamblers, market manipulators and crooked politicians. It is the philosopher Seneca's description of conditions in Rome 2, 000 years ago.

Lalla Rookh.

The story of Lalla Rookh in short is this: She was the supposed daughter of Aurangzbee, emperor of Delhi.
She was betrothed to Aliris, sultan of Lesser Bucharia. On her journey from Delhi to Cashmere she was entertained by Feramorz, a young Persian poet, with whom she fell in love, and unbowed was her delight when she discovered that the young poet was the sultan to whom she was betrothed.
The story is beautifully told by the Irish poet, Tom Moore. The title of the poem is "Lalla Rookh."

Tree as Nursemaid.

"The larch or tamarack, is the best 'nurse,' " said the forester, who was busy planting a double line of little larches on the edge of a new plantation. He explained that the strong, quick-growing larch was the best tree to protect others from frost and drought. "And if you are planting a beech hedge," he added, "it will pay you to plant white-thorn on the windward side, for the white-thorn will protect the beech and can be cut back later when it has served its purpose."

Tiles of Pearls.

Mother-of-pearl tiles, for bathrooms or other decorative use, are the new invention of Albert and Caesar Vull-lerment, of Philadelphia. The shells of pearly mussels are crushed to powder and mixed with just enough cement to render the material plastic. It is then molded into tiles or slabs, and the surface is ground and polished for a pretty finish.

Remove Blood Stains.

To remove blood stains from cloth saturate with kerosene and, after it stands a while, wash in warm water.
A paste made of common laundry starch and water will remove blood stains without a trace. If not entirely removed by the first application repeat once or twice.

The city of Calgary, Alberta, received its name in 1876 from Col.
Macleod, then in command of the royal northwest mounted police at that point. He named it after his old home, Calgary, a small estate on the Isle of Mull, Scotland.
