The Deceived Coachman.
A Family Coachman, who was Driving the Master and Mistress on his first trip, shaved the wheels off of two Private Carriages, tubbed a Grocer's horse, and crowded several vehicles to the curbstone to escape him. He was about to run over a Policeman with 10,000 feet of lumber on his back when a Policeman Arrested him for Reckless Driving, and the Master observed that it Served him right.

"But it is your Fault!" Protested the Driver.

"Why, I have not said a Word."
"That is true, but you failed to Inform me as we started out that you did not own the Whole Earth, and I have been Driving Accordingly."

MORAL:
It is a Mean Trick to Deceive a Coachman in that Manner.—Detroit Free Press.

Waiting to Be Eaten.

Of the natives of New Georgia or Rubiana, Capt. Cheyne avers that human flesh forms their chief article of diet. The doctor observes: "It is difficult to speculate on the reflections of the victim, as he lives from day to day in constant expectation of his fate." There is reason to believe that this expectation does not produce the agonizing terror which most Europeans under the circumstances would experience. In
