The Maple Dell baseball club, of the Lower Cascades, played The Dalles club last Sunday, and beat it by a score of 21 to 19. It was very poor ball all around.

The rates of toll on the Mt. Hood road are for a four horse team, $3. for a two horse team $2.50 one horse team $1.50 saddle horse $1. pack animals 25 cents each.

Persons desiring to make application to make final proof on homestead or preemption claims can save themselves a trip to The Dalles by calling at this office.

The ball game Thursday, between The Dalles club, and a pick-up nine from this place was not marked by brilliant playing. The score stood, Dalles 3, Hood River 11.

Mr. J. H. Middleton and family will arrive here from Boise city Idaho, Tuesday next. After a short visit here we understand they will go to the Sound and thence to the Sandwich Islands.

Mr. Mason and wife arrived here Monday from Texas and have moved down to the Paner. Mr. Mason bought a lot in Winans addition, of M. V. Harrison, and is evidently here to stay.

A small force of men are cutting out the streets through Idlewild, and will clear River street through Waucoma, so that one can see from the top of the slope in Waucoma to the western boundary of Idlewild.

Sunday the 21, the Cascade Locks base ball club, will cross bats with the Stoddard Mill club, on the grounds in Pleasant View. The game promises to be a hotly contested one and there will be some good playing.

Captain Blowers has treated himself to a horse and buggy, and seems to get whole lots of solid comfort out of them. The horse a handsome chestnut (in color only) is a good stepper, and takes dust from none of them.

The remarkably cold weather for the season has had the effect to cut down the yield of strawberries, and it will not be quite as large as anticipated. The principal portion of the crop has been gathered, only the late patches now yielding anything.

The excursion which was to have come from Portland tomorrow, has been postponed until June 21st, on account of the rainy weather. Of course it is not raining here to amount to anything, but down in Portland there is a different state of affairs.

Dr. Crosswait, and Mr. A. T. Wheeler of Portland were here Wednesday and Mr. Olinger showed them around the valley. They are looking after farm property near town. Mr. Wheeler says he will send his family here to spend the summer if he can rent a house.

The big stick of timber on its way to the worlds fair, passed here Thursday. It was loaded on four flat cars, was 111 feet long and four feet square at each end. There is nothing remarkable about the stick except that it is being shipped east, for there are thousands of trees on the coast that even this big fellow would not make a ramrod for. The tree is to be exhibited in New York, after which it will be taken to Chicago, dressed up and polished, and used for a counter in a beer hall.

The 10th annual reunion of the Oregon Pioneer Association will take place at the exposition building in Portland the 10th inst. This being the semi-centennial of the arrival of the home builders in Oregon, it will no doubt be the grandest occasion of the kind ever occurring in the state.

The GLACIER would like to have a correspondent in every neighborhood, not only on this side of the river, but at White Salmon, Trout Lake, Gilmer, Chemung, and Chemung with and points across the Columbia. We want local news, and not essays, for we have not room for the latter.

The Sunday night east bound passenger train over a man named Hart, a fisherman, near Rooster Rock. His head was severed from his body, and he was otherwise so badly mutilated that his remains were gathered up in a mail sack and taken to The Dalles and from thence to Portland.

Hon. E. L. Smith left by the 11:45 train Monday night, to attend the annual meeting of the Supreme Lodge A. O. U. W. at Detroit. He will visit his daughter Anne, at Oberlin Ohio, and may possibly bring her home with him to spend the vacation. He expects to return about the 1st of July.

Blowers & Crowell have just placed an order direct with the manufacturer in Boston for $3,000 worth of boots and shoes, thereby cutting off the commission paid middlemen, and will give their customers the advantage of it. Will retail at Portland wholesale prices. When the goods arrive call and be convinced.

Complaint is made that two boys robbing some distance up the valley and whose names we withhold in hopes that they will in the future give no credit for complaint are in the habit of pointing their rifles at the house of a neighbor or some of his family. The boys probably mean no harm, but it frightens the children, and they should stop it, before they get into serious trouble.

We are selling glassware and crockery cheaper than it was ever sold in this place. We have a full line of fruit jars, and we are selling 2 quart Mason jars complete, at $1.50 per doz., 1 quart $1.20 per doz. Perfection, qts. $1.40 per doz. all other goods correspondingly low. Call and get quotations on sugar. The fact is we will not be undersold by anyone who does business on business principals. BLOWERS & CROWELL.

Last week Mr. Heald found a mass of cells formed of dried mud, on one of his trees near the roots. He detached it and found it full of small worms, and of course his curiosity was aroused as to whether another fruit pest was on hand. He sent the whole business to Professor Washburn at Corvallis. The professor pronounced the cells those of the mud-wasp, and the worms the larvae of some insect which the wasp had imprisoned for food for its own young.

The report reached here Monday afternoon that Robert Husbands had been struck on the head by a falling pulley, at the upper mill, and fatally injured. Soon after the report reached here Bob himself showed up. He had a couple of ugly cuts, and had received a hard blow in the stomach, but a little time will repair all damages. Had the cuts grown on the way down as the story did he would have been cut in two before he got half way from the mill.

The Dalles school had a plenty Thursday coming here on the Steamer Baker. Those in charge had made no arrangements of any kind, had no place for holding their picnic and in consequence, the crowd got separated, and did not find one another all day. The day was the warmest we have had for a month, but the whole country is shaded and every acre is a picnic ground so that though divided our visitors enjoyed themselves thoroughly.

James Langille's building is finished and the shelving and counters in the store were completed Monday, the work being done by Straubman Bros. and in such a manner that they can justly feel proud of the work, as it would be difficult to beat it. The ceiling is oiled and varnished and the walls back of the shelving painted in colors. It is decidedly the neatest store room in town and is a splendid location. Mr. Hanna will occupy it in a day or two.

Conductor Fowler found a tramp in a carload of merchandise at Blalocks Monday night. The fellow had opened a case of champagne and a lot of canned goods and was doing the grand tour in fine shape. Fowler got him into the caboose and reported him, receiving instructions to take him to The Dalles. Just the other side of the summit about six miles from the city, and while the train was running twenty miles an hour, the hobojumped and escaped.

Last week Captain H. C. Coe and wife transferred the property lying between the state road and the railroad, including the unsold portions of Waucoma, to T. J. Watson, who will plat and place it on the market. This rounds out his property making Idlewild easily accessible, and the three townships really one. We think another year will see many cottages dotting the beautiful slopes, and in the near future Hood River will extend for more than a mile along the railroad.

The Coming Line.

The Chicago, Union Pacific & North Western Line offers the best accommodations to the traveling public enroute to Chicago. Through trains, fast time, magnificent sleeping cars, elegant dining cars, colonist sleepers, reclining chair cars and handsome day coaches.

Fourth of July Rates.

For the Fourth of July tickets will be sold to any rail station within 300 miles on the U. P. lines at the rate of one fare for the round trip. Tickets will be sold on July 2nd, 3rd, and 4th, good to return up to and including the 7th.

FOR SALE.

Six acres of land adjoining the town of Hood River on the south, price $225. Also lot 6, block 7, in Winans addition to town of Hood River, price $40. Address Arthur Disbrow, Mt Hood Oregon.

A Lost Boy.

Last Saturday L. E. Morse moved his family out to Sandy bottom, on the west fork of Hood river. On the other side of Winans' place is a gate across the road, and just beyond it the road turns sharply to the right, crosses the middle fork, and turns again to the right and follows down the stream. Mr. Morse's little five-year-old boy got off the wagon to close the gate, and it is supposed loitered along the road until on coming to the turn in the road and not seeing the wagon, he became alarmed, and instead of following it went straight ahead following an old Indian trail. He passed an Indian camp crying, and some of the Indians called him but he paid no attention to them. Mr. Morse became alarmed at the boy's not appearing, and went back to look for him. Lin. Winans and the Indians immediately joined in the search, and followed his trail up the river. At one place a bluff came down to the water in such a shape that it could not climb over it, or get around it without getting in the river, which at this point was quite deep, but the boy managed it in some way. Proceeding up the river, Mr. Winans found a piece of ribbon which the boy had worn on his neck, and also saw where he had slipped down a steep bank into the river just below a steep bluff, and here hope was abandoned, but his trail was found a short distance up and soon after he was found still following up the river and nearly up to the foot-log at Disbrow's place, distant from the starting place about 2 miles. He was wet all over, and had no doubt been in the water where it was over his head. The stream is a strong one, dangerous for a man to lose his footing in, and how this little fellow escaped, unless like John Hay's "Little Breches" it was "angels" is a mystery. The child's persistently following the river is explained by the fact that he knew his father's house was by the side of the river, and he no doubt thought he was on the stream that passed. There were glad and thankful hearts when the little wanderer was found, for even the most sanguine of the searchers scarcely dared to hope that he could escape the dangers of the river.

Cloud Cap Inn.

This famous resort will be opened for the reception of guests next Monday, the 18th inst. Mr. Will Langille assisted by his mother, is in charge, and this is sufficient guarantee that guests will receive every attention and the best of treatment. Will, is the best informed man in Oregon concerning Mt. Hood, having been at Cloud Cap in the capacity of guide ever since that famous hostelry was opened. The tourist who visits Oregon, and goes home without visiting Mt. Hood, makes a sad mistake. From Portland to this point the ride up the Columbia is an ever changing delight, and from here over the most magnificent road on the coast the trip is a revelation. The Inn itself is situated on the summit of a narrow ridge, facing the Eliot glacier which is distant less than half a mile, and the exploration of which is a thing never to be forgotten. The ascent of Cooper's spur, from which all eastern Oregon is visible, is easily made, even by ladies, and requires only a few hours for the round trip. The rates at the hotel are we understand, reduced to $3 per day, and the round trip can be made from Portland, with one day at the hotel for $16. Those who have visited Cloud Cap and the Eliot glacier, pronounce it the most delightful trip in the world. Nine hours ride by rail and stage, from Portland you are set down in the realms of eternal ice. No description can do it justice, the only way is to go, see, and realize the beauties of Mt. Hood and then try to tell.

Mill Notes.

THE MILLS, June 12, 1901.

EDITOR GLACIER:

Mr. W. S. Gaddis arrived here from North Powder Tuesday, and will have charge of the Oregon Lumber Co's books.

The Miller Bros. on the Morton place have a new Whitman steel hay press, and have baled hay on hand at $15 per ton.

Miss Mollie Miller has been visiting friends in the valley for two weeks, returning home Tuesday.

Mr. William Ellis, while working on the frame breaking a jam, Wednesday, was thrown off a high trestle and almost killed. Doctor Barrett was called and did everything possible for him. He states that while Mr. Ellis has received severe internal injuries, he may recover.

Mr. Markley killed a very large bear Thursday. The bear came to visit him while at work with the above un hospitable result.

Mr. E. C. Miller met with a very painful accident Wednesday evening. While repairing the flume a 2x6 scantling fell from above striking him on the nose.

The flume has been broken down every day for a week, caused by large jams forming.

Only $60.00 To Pueblo and Return.

To those desiring to attend the opening of the Colorado Mineral Palace at Pueblo July 4, the Union Pacific will sell tickets at one fare for the round trip on July 1st and 2d. Tickets good to return until and including July 20th.

The undersigned being located near Hood River, wishes to inform parties who may be desirous of having surveying done, that he is a practical surveyor of many years experience, and that work entrusted to him will be performed with dispatch and correctness. He takes pleasure in referring to Mr. A. S. Blowers, (who for years was county commissioner in Minnesota,) and for whom he did county work as county surveyor, as to his ability. Parties writing me at Hood will receive prompt attention.
