Normal Institute Proceedings.

THE DALLES, Aug. 17, 1891.
EDITOR GLACIER: We have been having such a pleasant and profitable time this week that, as our mind turns to your beautiful village, we feel that you should at least share some knowledge of it through the columns of your worthy paper.

You have already had our day programme, and space will not permit us to enter into detail.

First and last, let it be said to the credit of Superintendent Troy Shelley, that he has been untiring in his efforts to secure the best instructors for the day work, and to enlist the services of the teachers and others for evening entertainments, which have been one of the principal features of the work. Nearly all of the first grade teachers of the county have had an interesting paper on some live topic.

The Alta club, consisting of nine young ladies, and the Glee club, composed of five members, have rendered some beautiful selections in singing each evening. Mrs. Wetzel, well known as one of Portland's best singers, has favored the institute with some songs and will sing at the Congregational church, where the evening exercises are held.

Col. Nevius will talk this evening on "Figs and Thistles," and M. S. Long, the noted elocutionist from Portland will read Thursday and Friday evenings.

Prof. W. A. Wetzel, county superintendent of Multnomah county, and Prof. J. H. Ackerman, assistant superintendent of the schools of consolidated Portland, are our instructors. They just lift us out of our boots, as it were, and we know we will return to the school room and do better work. The former has presented the subjects of reading, writing, spelling and history with such energy as to really make us see new life in them. His "Use of Words" surpasses anything we have ever heard. The latter has those solid subjects, arithmetic, grammar, geography and physiology, and with his deep knowledge of them and magnetic influence in presenting them, he inculcates in us the very living principles so necessary to successful work.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith French brought several nice boxes of peaches to the teachers while in session yesterday. They were taken from their own trees, and we were justified in returning a vote of thanks, for they were the nicest we ever saw.

The weather has been hot, and how attention has been so undivided in class work is the comment of all.

Up to the present there are fifty teachers enrolled, and many visitors have been in attendance every day.

C. L. GILBERT, Teacher.

H. Todd Bingham, a well-known lawyer of Portland, was white fishing washed off the rocks on Long Beach, last Friday, and drowned.

Mr. John Burnett is again editor and proprietor of the Sunday Welcome, he having purchased the plant of that journal Wednesday.

The Knights of Pythias in Oregon sustain a heavy loss in the death of Ward Stevens, grand keeper of records and seals of the order, who died in Portland Saturday last. Mr. Stevens was also a prominent member in the Ancient Order of Workmen, and closely identified with other societies.

T. A. Hudson of The Dalles has been appointed general agent of the Anchor Steamship line for Oregon and Washington.

A five story building in New York city collapsed last Saturday and 70 persons met their death in the ruins. The ruins took fire and burned to death all who were not instantly killed. The building had been condemned thirteen years ago but had not been taken down.

The editor of this paper and Captain Coe left last Saturday for the mountains on a prospecting expedition. They are expected home some time next week.

William A. Munly, private secretary to his excellency, Governor Penneyer, and Miss Elizabeth Buckenmeyer, one of Portland's most popular young ladies and until recently a teacher in the public schools, were married Tuesday at St. Mary's cathedral, by Rev. J. F. Pierens, V. S., and in the evening left on their bridal tour.

Five Fossil schoolma'ns have been married within the last six months, and one other will soon be. As a hint to those interested we will say that the Fossil primary department is still open. Now, ladies, one at a time, please.—Fossil Journal.

On Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays of each week between September 16 and October 17, the Union Pacific will sell excursion tickets to Portland and return at one and one-half fare for the round trip.

Visit the Exposition.

HOW SIR RICHARD DIED.

Stately as bridegroom to a feast
Sir Richard trod the stage of fate,
And, bowing to the crowd, untied
The love locks from his hair in air
Took off his watch. "Wife that to Noh!
I've done with time," he proudly said.

'Twas bitter cold—it makes him shake.
Said one, "Ab! see the villain's look!"
Sir Richard, with a scornful frown,
Cried, "I'm not dead, my body shook!"
Giving a gold piece to the slave,
He laughed. "Now praise me, master
knaave!"

They related, with a sneering smile,
Unto a black boy, long and grim;
But no white shroud nor badge of death
Had power to draw a tear from him.
"It needs no lock," he said in jest,
"This chamber where to-night I rest."

Then crying out, "God save the king!"
In spite of hiss and shout and frown;
He stripped his doublet, dropped his cloak,
And gave the head-man's man a crown;
Then "Up for heaven!" he proudly cried,
And bowed his head—and so he died.

A Cataract in Labrador.

The interior of Labrador undoubtedly is the largest unexplored area on this continent. Up the Grand river, which empties into the Atlantic ocean at Hamilton inlet, are the Grand falls, which, if everything is true about them that is reported, are the most stupendous falls in the world. They are only about 160 miles up the river, but only two white men have ever seen them. Mr. R. F. Holme three years ago went from England to visit the Grand falls.

He organized a little party to accompany him inland, and arrived within about fifty miles of the falls, when he was compelled to return on account of the failure of his provisions. The Labrador Indians say these falls are haunted, and they carefully avoid them, believing that they will die if they look upon them. The two white men who have seen them are Mr. Maclean, who, as he was ascending the river in 1832, was stopped by the falls, and Mr. Kennedy, who over thirty years ago had charge of Hudson Bay post, in Labrador. Mr. Holme says the height of the falls is not certainly known, but in some respects there is little doubt they are the greatest in the world.—Goldthwaite's Geographical Magazine.

Rousseau the Landscape Painter.

As we stand before a great landscape by Rousseau like the "Ravines of Apremont," lately in the collection of M. Marmontel, or of the "Hoar Frost," in that of Mr. Walters at Baltimore, one must call up a powerfully built man of middle size with a full brown beard; a wide, high forehead, which his friends declared Olympian; a shapely, straight nose; hair worn rather long, after the fashion of forty years ago; direct, limpid gaze from eyes of unusual largeness and grayish blue color, and a mouth whose lines indicate the absorbed man and the reticent. He was an extremely thoughtful man, not by any means smileless and the furthest remove from stupid; he was one of those who are hard to win for a friend, but once a friend, eminently the person with whom to pass weeks in the pursuit of a worthy study. There is the sympathetic man who talks, and the sympathetic man who is silent. Rousseau was the latter. Yet he could talk, and talk well, on nature, art and music, and he wrote a charming letter.—Charles De Kay in Century.

Small Farms.

One of the mistakes of the times is the popular belief that everything in a business way must be big. The idea has grown out of our haste to grow wealthy and from superficial calculation, such as, if one acre pays $100, 100 acres would pay $10,000. Men seldom make such money out of very large orchards, and while a source of envy to small holders they are often, in fact, just holding on or are running ahead on borrowed capital. The men who make money and are getting rich out of horticultural pursuits are those who do not attempt more than they can look after personally. From ten to eighty acres are the sized tracts which pay the highest per cent. of profit, if they are properly conducted. The idea that a living cannot be made out of small place has retarded many from going into a business in which they might now be making an independent living.—California Fruit Grower.

When Pluck Was Slang.

This word affords an instance of the way in which slang words in the course of time became adopted into current English. We now meet with pluck and plucky as the recognized equivalents of "courage" and "courageous." An entry in Sir Walter Scott's "Journal" shows that in 1827 the word had not yet lost its low character. He says (vol. II, p. 20), "Want of that article blackguardly called pluck." Its origin is obvious. From early times the heart has been popularly regarded as the seat of courage. Now, when a butcher lays open a carcass he divides the great vessels of the heart, cuts through the windpipe and then plucks out together the united heart and lungs—lights he calls them—and he terms the united mass "the pluck."—Notes and Queries.

Anecdote of Michael Angelo.

Michael Angelo, at a time when Italy paid so much attention to ancient art that modern had no chance of being judged fairly, had, it is said, resort to a stratagem to teach the critics the fallacy of shaping their judgments by fashion or reputation. He sculptured a statue representing a sleeping beauty, and breaking off an arm buried it in a place where excavations were being made. It was soon found and lauded by critics and the public as a valuable relic of antiquity, far superior to anything done for centuries. When Angelo thought it had gone far enough he produced the broken arm, and, to the great mortification of the critics, revealed himself as the sculptor.—New York Ledger.

He Ought to Have Known.

Cochran—I suppose your name on this umbrella indicates that it belongs to you?
Gilroy—Which, the name or the umbrella?
Cochran—The name, of course.—Puck.
