S. E. BARTNESS.

County Judge Thornbury, and several other Dalles people were on a bear hunt over at Stump's place on the White Salmon the fore part of this week.

Complaint is made that cattle injure the freight left by the Regulator, especially flour, mill-feed etc. A small wharf boat or dock would do good service.

D. G. Hill lost a valuable horse last week. It got the leaders of one leg cut entirely off by coming in contact with a cultivator, and was injured so badly that it had to be shot.

Marvin Rand's little store is one of the neatest and cleanest we ever saw. He keeps the very choicest candies, and an excellent stock of cigars. His place is a credit to the town.

Will Langille, Prather, Goodfellow, Wilson, Straight and a carload of others went to The Dalles Monday. As there was no circus we fail to understand the reason for all this hilarity.

Services at the Riverside Congregational church will begin at 7 o'clock p. m. instead of 7:20, as heretofore. Rev. C. F. Clapp will, I expect, preach the sermon. F. M. Aunks, Pastor.

The sale, under mortgage, of the Prather corner, takes place at The Dalles this afternoon. As it is one of the most valuable business locations in the town, it should bring a good price.

Notices are posted calling a special meeting of the voters of school district No. 3, on the 17th instant, for the purpose of electing a director to fill the unexpired term of Hon. E. L. Smith, resigned.

Union Pacific System offers unequalled facilities to tourists en route to all points east. Vestibuled Sleepers, Dining, Free Chair Cars through to Missouri river and Chicago without change.

It is a pleasure to see the long trains loaded with wheat going by, and to realize that our hard working granger friends of Eastern Oregon, are for once getting to handle some of the yellow coin of the realm.

J. T. Dalk went east Saturday being summoned to Iowa, on account of the serious illness of his boy aged about ten years. If the boy recovers sufficiently to stand the trip Mr. Dalk will bring him home with him.

The memorial services of Rev. F. H. Balch will be preached at the First Congregational church, Sunday morning October 11, at 11 o'clock, by Rev. Cephas Clapp, general superintendent of Home Missions for Oregon.

Let some might be mistaken concerning the notice of the memorial sermon to be preached tomorrow in memory of the late C. P. Balch, we wish to state that the First Congregational church, is the valley church.

F. H. Burton has J. O. Mack's horses here for the winter. From the way he is building a track, and the number of good horses he has, we incline to the belief that Mr. Burton will have a regular fine-stock farm before many years.

J. R. Rankin is preparing about five acres of ground for strawberries, most of which he will set this fall. He is already about an acre set to plants. A few years and strawberries will be shipped by the carload from this point.

Wednesday C. J. Hayes, made a survey of the fraction of land lying between the old Clark and Coe donation land claims, the title to the land is in dispute, or rather it is a question as to which of two claimants shall get title from the government.

Work was commenced on the new ice-house Monday, and it will be crowded to completion as rapidly as possible. This will give the company storage room for at least 10,000 tons of ice, and will put it in shape to talk business to the ice companies of Portland.

Will Langille arrived in from Clatsop, Monday. He reports ten inches of snow on the level in the woods around the Inn, and drifts of from four to six feet. The snow fell as low down as the Elk beds, but did not remain long. The Inn is now closed for the season.

Amos and Ed Underwood put in Wednesday bear hunting at their place near the mouth of White Salmon, killing five, four being to the credit of Amos, because, as he says: Ed watched the wrong wallow. We sampled a piece of one of the cubs and found it as good as bear meat can be.

Lieut. R. H. Norton, of The Dalles, arrived here Monday for the purpose of doing some surveying and measuring the water in Patton creek. This work is being done for the purpose of perfecting evidence to be used in the suit of Warren and others against the Oregon Lumbering Co., concerning the right to the waters of that stream.

C. L. Gilbert is exercising himself to some purpose recently; walking eight miles per day to attend to his school duties, teaching our future presidents and congressmen for seven hours; and working on his new residence until eight or nine o'clock at night. He is going to have a neat and comfortable home—and he deserves it.

Judge Condon, of The Dalles passed down to Portland Wednesday evening. The judge was one of Hood River's early settlers, and tells us he planted the orchard near the river on Mr. Burton's place. That gentleman not being present, we did the honors of the occasion by asking him to come down at any time and help himself to the fruit.

B. S. Pague continues to furnish us statistics showing with unerring accuracy the state of the weather last week. It is interesting matter for those who like antiquarian researches and does well enough to fill dead spaces, but we must confess we have no use for it. If he will tell us what the weather is going to be next—well say—January, he will assist us materially in figuring on the size of our proposed wood pile.

John Buskirk's house, near the ice-house, was burglarized recently, and a shotgun valued at $65, an oil coat, and some sheets, tablecloths, etc., were taken. Mr. Buskirk had been away for some time, consequently does not know just when his house was broken into. Entrance was made by cutting a hole in the panel of the door and unlocking it, the key being on the inside. The burglar also helped himself to a generous feed of canned strawberries.

For a Mill.

Mr. George C. Jones, of Appleton, Wisconsin, has been here for some time examining into the resources of this section, principally with an eye to purchasing timber lands but incidentally is looking into other of our resources. It is to be hoped that he may find encouragement in his laudable intentions, and we hope to be able to state that a mill will be built here through his efforts. There is not a finer location in the Northwest, and we incline to the opinion that Mr. Jones agrees with this idea.

Attention D Company.

All members of D Company, Third Regiment, O. N. G., are hereby ordered to meet at the company armory fully uniformed and equipped for drill, at 10 o'clock p. m., Saturday, Oct. 17, 1891.

Secure the Shadow.

There is no gift so appropriate or so thoroughly appreciated between friends as photographs of each other. Among near relatives the exchange of photographs is not only a pleasure, but a duty. The parents should provide their photographs for their children with as much care as they secure those of their children for themselves. And while doing this, care should be taken to secure the very best that art can provide. Many of our citizens will visit Portland yet this year, and we suggest to them that a highly prized present to relatives and friends will be one of their pictures taken in the highest style of the art by B. C. Towne, corner of First and Morrison streets, Portland. We know whereof we speak, and unhesitatingly pronounce his work equal to any done on the coast. His prices are moderate, and you can depend on getting a picture of yourself of which you will be proud. B. C. Towne is an old time resident of Portland who has built up an extensive trade by genuine merit. His business depends on the excellence of his work, and so depending is steadily increasing. Secure the shadow ere the substance fade, and gladden the hearts of relatives and friends by presenting them with an artistic counterpart of yourself from Towne's studio. Don't forget the place, corner of First and Morrison.

Rod and Gun.

For the benefit of our local sportsmen we note the fact that the last legislature changed the game law, so that it is only lawful to shoot grouse, pheasants quail etc between the first day of September and the 15 day of November. And we further add that the penalty for putting slabs in any stream so that fish cannot pass, or of emptying sawdust into any stream containing trout is more considerable than any one would care to pay. We mention these things because the Rod and Gun club has been organized here to see that the laws are enforced. The club has no desire to see any one punished, its only aim being to see that the laws are observed. Heretofore parties from The Dalles and elsewhere, have been in the habit of coming here for a few weeks camping, and have always slaughtered the young game birds without mercy and without shame. This is going to be stopped if the club can do it, and it is certainly to the interest of all our citizens to aid them in the good work. Besides this the club intends introducing the Mongolian pheasant, prairie chicken, quail and other game birds and asks that they be let alone until they become numerous. It is expected and hoped that many from the country will become members of the club and assist in carrying out its commendable objects.

Railroad Officials.

E. Mc Neil, general superintendent; R. W. Baxter, superintendent Oregon division; C. A. Cameron, superintendent buildings and bridges; and D. C. Wilson, road master; passed up on a tour of inspection Wednesday. Mr. Baxter is successor to Mr. E. Cookingham who is assigned to other duties, and will no doubt give both to the public and his company, that perfect satisfaction which made Mr. Cookingham so justly popular. Whatever else may be said of the Union Pacific management, the local officers with whom we of Oregon come in contact have universally proven clever and obliging gentlemen.

A Very Slow Car.

The famous "Oregon on Wheels," car, concerning which items have appeared in the newspapers of the state for the past eleven months, is said to be nearing completion. It is to be hoped that this is true, and that it will pass along this way in time to get a full supply of ice before the winter expires. That reminds us that several letters were received here giving dates on which some representative of the scheme would be here to arrange for contributions to the exhibit. The representative never showed up, and we believe he found a better job by being imported from Mexico, with the Zapadores, as a horn-blower.

A Young Financier.

When the congregational church was dedicated some time ago, the ministers returning to Portland took up a collection on the cars to be applied in purchasing a bell for the church. The collection amounted to $5, and was sent here with instructions to lend it to the Sunday school children for investment the proceeds to be used in buying the bell. Most of the amounts loaned were from five to ten cents, but Roy Slocom, who bids fair to some day be a Napoleon of finance, got onto a scheme recently, and borrowed a dollar of the funds. With this he purchased of Mrs McCoy three Maltese kittens, and returning to town sold two of them for 75 cents each, clearing fifty cents and still having one kitten as velvet to speculate on. Mrs McCoy, learning the use the money was to be put to, generously donated the dollar to the fund so that the transaction now shows a net gain of $1.50. There is an old saying about "belling the cat," but this is a case of the cat belling the church.

COURTING DISEASE AND DEATH.

Serious Results of a Fanny Fashionable Way of Dressing Children.

"How cunning those children look, with their bare little legs!" exclaimed a pretty girl on Connecticut avenue a day or two ago, calling attention to three youngsters who, though the air was bitter cold, were playing in the street. One of them was a small girl of about seven years, with skirts so short that her fairy limbs were visible in their nudity from mid-thigh to three inches above the shoe, where the sock began.

"Ugh!" growled the physician, who was the young lady's companion in her promenade.

"Yes," she said, "it looks rather cold, but it's the swell thing now, you know, and awfully English!"

"Ugh! Coffins are stylish, too, I suppose."

"Why, what can you mean?"

"Simply this," responded the man of medicine. "Of all the idiotic notions I am acquainted with, the one you call my attention to is the most gibbering and driveling. The ground on which it is defended is that it makes children hardy to go barelegged in winter. As a matter of fact it is an outrage on the laws of nature. Go up to the regions of the arctic circle and you will find the children playing about in the snow with their bodies very nearly unclad, but their arms and legs are always warmly wrapped. Now, why is this?"

"I can't imagine."

"Then let me tell you it is because the trunk of the body, being the seat of the vital organs, is naturally warmer, and has a more vigorous circulation than the limbs. Why is it that your feet and hands on a frosty day get cold first? Obviously for the reason that they are most remote from the heart. Therefore they need protection. Likewise the arms and legs require covering most. Keep the limbs warm, and the body will be warm; that is the equianimal principle, and it is a true one, so far as it goes, but already we have, largely for fashion's sake, children running about in an atmosphere that is below freezing, with their bodies warmly clad and their poor little legs exposed!"

"But they look very healthy."

"Undoubtedly. Were they not healthy children they would have succumbed to this abominable practice in dress long ago. But no health is so robust as to be able to afford to invite pneumonia and other kindred ills which are always ready to attack the most sturdy person who risks imprudence. For parents to send their children abroad so exposed is to extend a cordial invitation to disease and death. Of course that does not matter, however, if it is really English. What sort of shoes are those you are wearing?"

"Shoes?" said the pretty girl, somewhat taken by surprise. "Why, they are quite new and a very nice pair, I think."

"Do you?" granted the physician. "What right have you, pray, to wear shoes at this season with soles an eighth of an inch thick? More colds are caught in that way than in any other. Not so much on a day like this as on a warm day. You said a few moments ago that you had a cold; probably you caught it during the last warm spell we had. You went out with such a pair of shoes on. The temperature of the air around you was about 55 degs; the bricks you walked upon were evaporating moisture. Evaporation makes cold. That is the reason why cologne, which evaporates quickly, makes you cool when you rub it upon your face."

"So, while your body was warmed by the sun your feet were being refrigerated at a temperature below freezing. Result, a cold. You hear people say every day, 'I can't imagine where I caught this cold; I have not been imprudent in any way that I know of.' The secret of it is simply that they have been wearing thin soled shoes. Suppose that the sole became damp, even though the foot is not made wet, the water furnishes the best possible medium for conducting the heat out of the body. The moral of all this, my dear young lady, is to wear shoes with good, thick soles throughout the winter season."—Washington Star.

Afternoon Dancing.

They are giving sunlight cotillions in Brooklyn. Nobody knows exactly how the fashion started, and it is usually admitted that it could not possibly have gained a foothold in any other city. But the cotillions are a success, and the wealth of good sense back of the idea is beginning to attract the attention of society matrons in New York. The propensity of the young girl to dance is recognized, and if she is stopped in her desire to keep bobbing up and down to music she feels that her approach to womanhood is a dismal and monotonous one. If she must dance—and she must—it seems that Saturday afternoon cotillions, in broad daylight, are far more healthy and sensible than when dancing begins at midnight and ends at 4 o'clock in the morning. The dancing begins at 3 o'clock and ends at 6. The women wear light gowns and the men frock coats. There is music, a profusion of flowers, light refreshments, and then nearly all of the dancers go off to attend dinner parties at half past 7 o'clock. Everybody sleeps late on Sunday, and there is a maximum amount of fun to a minimum amount of discomfort.—New York Letter.
