HE BLAMES SOCIETY.

Albertson, who robbed the Tacoma bank of $10,000 in money and $200,000 in securities, is so far recovered from his wounds that he has been taken to Tacoma. While on his way home he stopped in Portland long enough to be interviewed by an Oregonian reporter. Mr. Albertson, among other things, said:

"I owe my present position to the extravagant demands of modern society, and the social organism of the day is perhaps as much to blame as I am."

Mr. Albertson's idea of the "social organism of the day" is as carefully conceived as his ideas of meum and teum. That the "social organism of the day" caused Mr. Albertson to forget all principles of honesty is a piece of fol-de-rol, very well suited to so assume a character as Albertson. The "social organism of the day" has as much to do with swamping those who without means try to get in the swim as the Willamette has for drowning those who try to get in its swim without understanding that art. "The social organism of the day" would have existed without any aid from Mr. Albertson, indeed, continued to exist after that shining light had, with the assistance of a cousin in Seattle, made an utterance of himself. The poor moth was blinded by the glittering and shining lights of "society," and, attempting to fly into them, singed his wings, so that he fell. Icarus tried to scale the sky on borrowed wings to his everlasting downfall, and thousands since his time have, heedless of his example, tried the same thing. Albertson is one of the latest of this class. The social organism of the day and the demands of modern society will continue in business at the old stand, but neither Mr. Albertson nor any other salaried employee are under contract to patronize them.

The Topeka Capital, the official state paper and leading republican organ of Kansas, which for years has heartily endorsed ex-Senator Ingalls, recently took a look at him from the large end of the telescope, being led thereto by Ingalls' refusal to stump the state, and this is the result of its observation: "That he is not a leader to-day is more due to the supreme egotism and cold-blooded selfishness of the man than his lack of ability. This supreme worshiper of himself turned his back upon the political friends of a quarter of a century, as well as upon those who laid aside their convictions against him and gave him a royal support. No man in American history was ever so greatly honored for the single talent of sarcasm. He has had great opportunities and has most signally failed as a leader, politician and friend. Today in Kansas the ex-senator is neither missed nor regretted."

The Portland Chamber of Commerce has decided to adopt the report of Bogue and will endeavor to take $300,000 worth of stock in the Paul Mohr road, from Columbus to a point opposite The Dalles. Portland has always gone at the opening of the Columbia with the same cheerful alacrity that a boy shows on being invited to interview the kitchen wood-pile, and in this case is literally throwing her money to the dogs. However, it is her money and she can blow it in as she pleases.

It is often stated that the advertising columns of a newspaper are a reflex of the town wherein it is published. This may be true as a glittering generality, but in the case of the GLACIER it is not true. Its columns are a reflex of the thriving city of The Dalles. According to the GLACIER's columns, the town consists of a lively stable, a hotel and a paint shop.

Sunol, the California mare, is now queen of the turf, having lowered the record half a second at Stockton Tuesday. The best record heretofore was that of Mand S., 2:08 1/2, made at Cleveland, Ohio, July 30, 1885. Sunol's record of 2:08 1/2 will probably stand for some time as the record, and until a California horse beats it.

Lamp Shades.
Many of these gorgeous lamp shades that bewilder the eye from half a dozen show windows on Fifth avenue are made at home by women who have seen the proverbial "better days." The work requires nicety of taste and skill in needlework. Designs and materials are furnished sometimes by the shopkeeper, sometimes by the women that do the work. The largest shades are made over parasol frames. The materials entering into the work are silk, satin, lace and artificial flowers. Prices of the more elaborate shades vary from $10 to $50, so that the cost of a handsome lamp fully equipped may run up to $100. In some cases milliners also make lamp shades, and the fact that they are able to utilize remnants of silks and of other materials gives them a peculiar advantage in this business.—New York Sun.

Neither the submerged chain system nor the endless rope system of canalboat haulage has proved satisfactory in Germany, so that experiments are now being made in the use of heavy towing cars drawn by locomotives similar to those used in mines.

Sensible Work for Children.

Mrs. Quincy Shaw and some of the members of her admirable staff have set on foot a new arrangement, for which hundreds of boys and girls will bless her. In College place and at the day nursery in Albany street, after the kindergarten children have left, the tables are cleared and the rooms are transformed into reading rooms. From 4 to 6 o'clock little boys and girls may attend together. From 6 to 7 the rooms are closed while the children are at supper, and then from 7 until 9 the children of the neighborhood come in to read. For this purpose a small selection of books has been carefully made, and the intelligent lady in charge furnishes to each boy or girl the book which is to be used that evening.

The teacher in charge begins each evening by a general reading, which is always heard with interest. After fifteen minutes spent in this way, each child takes the seat provided at the table, and in a well lighted, well warmed, comfortable room spends the evening in reading something which is profitable. Nothing can be prettier than the sight of a body of children, who would be in great danger of falling into much more careless ways of spending the evening, if so good a provision were not made for them. At Cottage Place the attendance every day is more than one hundred.—Boston Commonwealth.

Mexican Custom Houses.

For the commerce and trade of Mexico there are thirty-eight custom houses in that country, nine of which are on the gulf, one on the Guatemala frontier, fifteen on the Pacific coast, and thirteen on the frontier of the United States. Matamoros was at one time a large commercial port, but American railroads to the upper border towns have deprived it of the greater bulk of its trade, although the country around is settled up and the soil is exceptionally fertile. Vera Cruz just about bent Progresso in its maritime business in 1890. From Progresso the principal product exported to the United States is henequen fiber, a variety of hemp. Of the ports on the Pacific coast Mazatlan is the most important, having a population of 14,000, and being the distributing point for the greater parts of the state of Sinaloa. The Mexican Naval Bureau of the Pacific is located at this point, and also a branch of the Mexican signal service. The custom house returns show a constantly better development, especially on the frontier line between the United States and Mexico.—Mexico Moderna.

Modification of Passport System.

The obnoxious passport system in Alsace-Lorraine seems likely to be modified at last, after two years' vexations. Probably foreigners will be required to notify the authorities of each place of their arrival and stopping place, and obtain a card authorizing their sojourn if they propose any lengthened stay—a plan already adopted in France and Switzerland. When the foreigner removes to another town or village this card must receive a fresh official visa, and after two months' stay in one place the card will be replaced by a regular permit of residence. Foreigners only passing through can make the declaration through the hotel keepers. After a short trial of this system passports may probably disappear altogether.—London Graphic.

Destitution Among Laborers.

It is reported here that the people along the line of the Kentucky Union railway, above Clay City, are almost in a destitute condition. Last summer these people were working on the railroad and failed to cultivate the usual crops; consequently they have no provender to feed their stock. The railroad has run short of funds and their wages have not been paid; consequently they have no money. A gentleman who had recently been in the mountains along the line of the Kentucky Union told us a few days ago that he saw ten yokes of oxen sold under an execution for $105, the oxen bringing only $5.25 per head. He says that the stock all through the country is actually starving.—Winchester (Ky.) Sun.

The Newsboy's Last Question.

"Oh, mister, am I dead?" This was the plaintive query of George Monelle, a newsboy, 14 years old, as he ran into a saloon on the northeast corner of Main and Houston streets. With a more definite response than his hearers could give death answered the question in a few minutes. The poor boy was dead. He had just been accidentally shot with a target rifle in the hands of another newsboy known as Pat. The ball entered the front of the neck a little to the right of a medial line and ranged downward, lodging in his body.—Dallas (Tex.) News.

Bull in Harness.

A peculiar working team seen frequently in the south part of the city consists of a Jersey bull harnessed into the shafts of an ordinary stage draught sled, with short yoke tugs and breeching—quite after the style of harnessing a horse, with the exception of the yoke. The bull is driven with a pair of reins fastened to a ring or strap upon his nose. He walks along much faster than the ordinary horse, and draws his load in a cheerful and easy manner.—Keene (N. H.) Sentinel.

Dr. Albert Shaw, whom Mr. Stead has appointed American editor of The Review of Reviews, is not yet 40, but he has already made an enviable name for himself as a sociologist. He is an authority on the subject of municipal government.

The lecture and literary fields seem to open to Senator Ingalls as the present term of his political life closes. He has received lucrative offers for a book covering his experiences in congress and for a series of lectures on some popular topic.

Melissier had an abiding hatred for Americans. Though they bought his pictures with a generous hand and paid excessive prices for them his detestation was bitter and outspoken.

The undersigned being located near Hood River, wishes to inform parties who may be desirous of having surveying done, that he is a practical surveyor of many years' experience, and that work entrusted to him will be performed with dispatch and correctness. He takes pleasure in referring to Mr. A. S. Blowers, (who for years was county commissioner in Minnesota,) and for whom he did county work as county surveyor, as to his ability. Parties writing me at Hood will receive prompt attention.

C. J. HAYES.
