

PROTECT OUR BREAD.

The machinery of the law has not been put to work too speedily against the fraudulent use of ammonia and alum in Baking Powders. Both health and the pocket of the people are demanding protection. The legislatures of New York, Illinois and Minnesota have taken this matter of adulteration up, and especially that of Baking Powders. It will be in the interest of public health when their sale is made a misdemeanor in every State in the UNION, and the penalties of the law are rigidly enforced. There is no article of human food more wickedly adulterated than that of Baking Powder.

Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder is the only pure cream of tartar powder having a general sale that is free from ammonia, alum or taint of any kind of impurity. It makes the sweetest and lightest bread, biscuit and cake that are perfectly digestible whether hot or cold. It costs more to manufacture Dr. Price's than any other baking powder. It is superior to every other known and the standard for forty years.

Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder is reported by all authorities as free from Ammonia, Alum, or any other adulterant. In fact, the purity of this ideal powder has never been questioned.

"German Syrup"

We have selected two or three lines from letters freshly received from parents who have given German Syrup to their children in the emergencies of Croup. You will credit these, because they come from good, substantial people, happy in finding what so many families lack—a medicine containing no evil drug, which mother can administer with confidence to the little ones in their most critical hours, safe and sure that it will carry them through.

RD. L. WILLIAMS, of Harrodsburg, Ky. I have depended upon and never saw any preparation act like this. It is simply miraculous. Fully one-half of our customers are mothers who use Boschee's German Syrup among their children. A medicine to be successful with the little folks must be a treatment for the sudden and terrible foes of childhood, whooping cough, croup, diphtheria and the dangerous inflammations of delicate throats and lungs.

A MEAN MAN.

How He Exercised His Talent on a Chicago Cable Car.

"Do you know I believe I saw the meanest man alive last night on a south street grip," said a friend of mine. "You can bet your winter's coat that the man who croaked something about honesty being the best policy didn't come in from the same block with him. I was coming in from away out south when a man got on at Thirty-seventh street and took a seat near the front part of the grip. After he'd gone a block or two he seemed to get nervous and said to the gripman: 'You'd better call out your conductor. I got off at Thirty-third street.' 'The gripman said, 'All right,' and jerked his rope. Well, Thirty-third street came, but no conductor, and the honest man got very much put out about not being able to put up his little nickel. Right here is where the prize mean man got in his work. When he caught sight of that nickel he held out his hand. The man with a conscience recognized the act, thanked him courteously, dropped the nimble nick in his paw and got off. The mean man rode on till he heard the conductor coming for the nickel, when he said: 'Well, sorry I can't stay with you always, but this is my street. By-by.' 'Then with a graceful wave of his hand he slid off the car. The force of what the gripman said would be lost in the necessary translation. But I think if the grip coming from the opposite direction had scattered that man all along the block, everybody on the car would have been pleased. It wasn't that he had robbed the company that made every one mad. It was the small, low down way he took of doing it.'—Chicago Mail.

Curing a Hiccough.

Mr. Smithkin had heard that a sure cure for a hiccough was a severe fright. One evening, smoking at his fireside after supper, he was taken with a hiccough, which continued in spite of all his efforts to check it. Presently he got up suddenly from his chair, and called out in alarm to Mrs. Smithkin: 'I've lost my watch! I've lost my watch!' Mrs. Smithkin hastened into the room. 'John Smithkin!' said she, 'What do you mean? Why, you hadn't done any such thing. Here's your watch all right, in your vest pocket.' 'Don't you think I know that?' said Mr. Smithkin. 'I was just giving myself a severe fright, you know, to stop the hiccoughs!'—Chicago Times.

Chirographical.

A little 5-year-old girl came home yesterday from school, which she has only been attending a few days, and her mother asked her what she had been doing. 'Writin' M's and shakin' awful,' was the child's reply, which meant that a long course of M's in a copy book had tried her nerves. 'Well, how do you make an M?' her mother asked. 'Oh, you go up a hill and down a hill, up a hill and down a hill, and stay there.'—Pittsburg Journal.

Trying to Catch Up.

"How much is my bill?" asked a traveling man of the hotel clerk. "Four dollars." "But I merely spent the night here, I haven't had a meal." "Yes, that's right." "Well, give me my key again." "Your key?" "Yes, I'm going back to see if I can't sleep about two dollars worth more."—Merchant Traveler.

Yes, They Have.

"How things have gone on and improved since I was a boy!" exclaimed the old gent, as he laid down his pen and blotted his letter. "For instance, it wasn't thirty years ago that no one had any particular way of spelling 'sugar.' Now everybody spells it just as I always said it ought to be spelled."—Detroit Free Press.

WILL GIVE HER BABIES AWAY.

Because She Doesn't Want to Drag Them Down with Her.

Bargains in babies! Entire stock must be closed out at a sacrifice! For terms address Mrs. Rosetta Osburn, care of Poor Commissioner Martin.

"There's a woman over at our house who has four children she wants to dispose of through you," were the words the clerk at the Plankinton brought to the poor office yesterday.

I went with Superintendent Martin across to the Plankinton, where we found in a small back room a young woman and, swarming about her, three babies, who appeared on first sight to be triplets. On the bed, asleep, lay a fourth. One's first impression was that she must have bought up a foundling asylum somewhere with a view to speculation. She sat three children in a row on the edge of the bed, and they covered under her glance and raised finger as she commanded them not to budge. In a few minutes, though, there was mutiny. The three youngsters keeled over in a perplexing heap on the bed, giggling and squirming, and none but a mother could have extricated one from the other. Order again established by scattering them in separate corners, the young woman in her strangely quiet way went on to tell her story.

The sleeping baby is 6 months old, and one of a pair of twins that were born but three weeks before her husband died in Little Rock, Ark., last July. One twin only lived to be a week old. Her husband had been working on a salary as piano tuner, and left her destitute. Her own health was in a condition that did not permit her remaining in Arkansas, where the climate disagreed with her. On the 1st of August she came to Muskegon to join a couple of sisters living there. These sisters, however, are not in a position to afford permanent relief. "Further on" were the words that appeared to the poor woman on every horizon. The day before Christmas she packed up her few belongings and many children and started out to find relatives of her husband, little of whom she knew, saved that they lived in Simcoe, Canada. Still further on! These people could not, or would not, provide for her or her wee ones, and, every door shut in her face, there was nothing left to her but the world. The world is a hopelessly large field for one incapable woman and four babies to look for a home in, and Friday she arrived at the Plankinton with just $10 between her and starvation. The two oldest children are a boy and girl—Faust and Fay she calls them—5 years of age. The next is a ball of a boy, 3 years old. The 6-month-old baby is a girl.

"Do you want to give them all away?" asked Mr. Martin. "I don't know what else I can do," she replied, her voice growing more and more quiet, till it sent chills creeping over me. "There is no work I am fitted for. Canvassing is the only thing I hope to do, and if somebody else can provide a good home for my children it is my duty to let them go. I would be glad if the twins could be taken together." "But you wouldn't part with the baby, would you?" "If I must give up one I can give up all." At last the emotion that she had suppressed broke through the ice of her demeanor and she burst into tears. The baby faces about grew solemn as they watched her, and finally the little girl, with a choked "me too," sprang into her mother's arms, her brothers endeavoring to make a place there too, and there the three clung, wailing none the less piteously because they did not know the reason why they cried.

The woman appears to be one of the ivy sort, that, however blown about by the winds of adversity, looks only for means of support outside of herself. Such women, by their inability to stand alone, make satisfactory wives, but wretched failures as widowed mothers. Her mind seems fully made up to parting with her babies, and on the advice of Commissioner Martin she is waiting two or three days before consigning them to an asylum, hoping that she may give them first hand into the keeping of some child hungry hearts.—Detroit News.

The Emperor's Objection.

It is reported from Japan that it is in contemplation to erect a bronze statue on an open space immediately outside of the imperial palace in Tokio, and artists were invited to send in designs. One of the latter represented the emperor seated on his favorite charger, the horse being so placed that its feet should rest on either side of the entrance bridge. This is said to have been much admired by the officials of the imperial household, but when it was submitted to the emperor it was immediately vetoed, on the ground that it was not in accordance with the principles of hospitality and politeness that foreign princes and personages of distinction who came to visit him should have to pass under the feet of a horse bestridden by him.—Exchange.

Too Many Diamond Cutters.

There are 7,000 diamond cutters out of work in Amsterdam alone. At a meeting of more than a thousand of them recently held there M. Van Praag attributed the want of work chiefly to the high price of raw diamonds, and next to the tendency of the jewelers to trade in raw diamonds instead of devoting themselves to their preparation for the market. The speaker counseled either the establishment of a workmen's company, with 500 grinding stones and a capital of 500,000 florins, or the transfer of the trade to London, where the dealers in raw diamonds and the owners of the diamond fields were living.—New York Sun.

Brain's Perilous Voyage.

An immense cottonwood tree went down the Sacramento river, past Colusa, last Saturday morning. Its only occupant was a brown bear that seemed paralyzed with fright. As the tree swept under the bridges the bear saw its chance, and by a rapid swing he caught the lower bent, pulled himself up on the railway, and trotted into Butte county.—Virginia City Enterprise.

THE WESTERN SETTLER'S CHOSEN SPECIFIC.

With every advance of civilization into the West a new demand is created for Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Newly peopled regions are frequently less salubrious than older settled localities on account of the miasma which rises from recently cleared land, particularly along the banks of rivers that are subject to freshets. The agricultural or mining emigrant soon learns, when he does not already know, that the Bitters afford the only safe protection against malaria and those disorders of the stomach, liver and bowels, to which climatic changes, exposure and unaccustomed or unhealthy water ordiet subject him. Consequently he places an estimate upon this great household specific and preventive commensurate with its intrinsic merits, and is careful to keep on hand a restorative and promoter of health so implicitly to be relied upon in time of need.

SKOONISH, Wash., Aug. 19, 1891.

Dr. J. Eugene Jordan, Seattle, Wash.—DEAR DOCTOR: Will have to write you that I am surprised to find myself so greatly improved in so little time, and am pleased to say that I could not give your medicines too great praise. My health was gone. I felt that medicine could do me no good. I was hopeless of ever recovering. I thought too late to try your medicines, but with death staring me in the face I determined to do so. I am pleased that I did it, for at this date I have received tenfold the price of the medicines. If I should say one hundred fold, it would not be overvaluing the difference in my health. I feel like another man. Yours respectfully, JAMES H. HYSON.

EAST SOUND, Wash., Aug. 11, 1891.

Dr. J. Eugene Jordan, Seattle, Wash.—DEAR DOCTOR: It has been some time since I have written to you, but I have been getting along so well that I did not think it necessary. I have stopped taking treatment now, and I believe I am entirely well. Your medicines have done what you told us they would do—they have made a new woman of me. I now feel like myself again, after suffering for eight years with catarrh of the head and bronchi, and that very painful thing—neuritis of the stomach. I took three months' medicine. Both my husband and myself feel as though we cannot be thankful enough to you for what you have done for me. I hope that every one who is suffering as I was will hear of Dr. Jordan and his most valuable medicines. Yours most respectfully, MRS. C. ARMSTRONG.

IMITATORS AND IMPORTERS.

The unequalled success of ALCOCK'S PAIN-LESS PLASTER as an external remedy has stimulated unscrupulous parties to put forth imitations, which they endeavor to sell on the reputation of ALCOCK'S. It is an absurdity to speak of them in the same category as the genuine and original porous plaster. Their pretensions are unfounded, their claims merit unsupported by facts, their alleged superiority to or equality with ALCOCK'S a false pretense.

The ablest medical practitioners and chemists and thousands of grateful patients unite in declaring ALCOCK'S PAIN-LESS PLASTER the best external remedy known.
