A Perfect Baking Powder.

The constantly growing demand for Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder, the standard cream tartar powder for forty years, is due to two causes.

FIRST :- The extreme care exercised by the manufacturers to make it perfectly pure, uniform in quality, and of highest raising power.

SECOND :- The recent investigations exposing the fact that certain other brands of baking powder contain ammonia and still others that were found to contain alum. These unscrupulous manufacturers are being found out, and the consumers are giving them a wide birth.

Nothing is left to chance in the manufacture of Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder. Chemists are employed to test every ingredient as to purity and strength. Hence; its marvelous purity and uniformity. Each can is like every other. It never dissapoints. BEST is ALWAYS the CHEAPEST.

Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder is reported by all authorities as free from Ammonia, Alum, or any other adulterant. In fact, the purity of this ideal powder has never been questioned.

A lify grew in the tangle, In a flame red garment dressed, And many a ruby spangle Besprinkled her tawny breast.

And the silken moth sailed by her With a swift and a snow white sail; Not a gilt gert bee came nigh her, Nor a fly in his gay green mail.

And the bronze brown wings and the golden, O'er the billowing meadows blown, Were still as by magic holden From the hily that flamed alone;

Till over the fragrant tangle A wanderer winging went, And with many a rubie spangle Were his tawny vans besprent.

And he hovered one moment stilly O'er the thicket, her many bower, Then he sank to the heart of the lily, And they seemed but a single flower -Helen Gray Cone

Japs as Fish Eaters.

Did you ever visit the Fulton fish market in the early morning? It is crowded by a throng such as can be found nowhere else-stewards, chefs and hotel keepers, boarding house proprietors and restaurant people, economical housewives and Chinese merchants. One day, this week, I happened to be in there, and encountered the oddest person of them all. It was J. Yatsmoto, a Japanese, who is the successful proprietor of two boarding houses for his own countrymen. He bought so many fish as to excite attention, and when spoken to about it said: "Our people from time In Art, Religion or Science Since the immemorial have preferred fish to all other forms of animal food. It is more than a rare event to use beef for food, and almost unknown to use veal, lamb or mutton. Pork is used more frequently. But the great standby is fish. Our fishermen form a large element of the population and are very skillful. Labor is very cheap at home, so that in every village, town and city you can buy fish of every kind and in any amount from a quarter of a cent to three cents a pound. Even when we go to foreign lands we carry our tastes with us, and try as far as possible to have the same fish diet as in our native country." -New York Star. Workers in ornamental wood now

A Wonderful Horse.

Rev. W. S. Green, in his recent work on the "Selkirk Glaciers," has an account of a horse, a mountain climber, who was worthy to be a fellow with the engine patience, enduring thirty-six hours' depful fall as if there was pleasure in rapidity of motion. Once he refused to go on in crossing a swift stream of an unknown depth, but it was only to see his master swim before him to the other side, when he answered the friendly call as if all the intelligent fellow wanted was to see how the hattle was to be won .- Boston Transcript.

THE WESTERN SETTLER'S CHOSEN SPECIFIC.

With every advance of emigration into the far West a new demand is created for Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Newly peopled regions are fre-quently less salubrious than older settled localt-ties on secount of the miasma which rises from recently cleared land, particularly along the banks of rivers that are subject to freshets. The agricultural or mining emigrant soon learns, when he does not already know, that the Bitters afford the only sure protection against mainris and those disorders of the stomach, liver and maccustomed or unbalthy water or dietsubject him. Consequently he places an estimate upon this great household specific and preventive commensurate with its intrinsic merits, and is careful to keep on hand a restorative and pro-moter of health so implicitly to be relied upon in time or need. n time or need.

SNOROMISH, Wash., Aug. 19, 1891, Dr. J. Eugene Jordan, Scattle, Wash. -- DRAR DOCTOR: Will have to write you that I am surprised to find myself so greatly improved in so little time, and am pleased to say that in so little time, and am pleased to say that I could not give your medicines too great praise. My health was gone. I felt that medicines could do me no good. I was hopeless of ever recovering. I thought too late to try your medicines, but with death staring me in the face I determined to do so. I am pleased that I did it, for at this date I have received tenfold the price of the medicines. If I should say one hundred fold, it would not be overvaluing the dif-ference in my health. I feel like another

EAST SOUND, Wash., Aug. 13, 1891. Dr. J. Engene Jordan, Scattle, Wash., Oran Sin: Itihas been some time since 1 have written to you, but I have been getting along so well that I did not tkink it necessary. I have stopped taking the treatment now, and I believe I am entirely well. Your medicines have done what you told us they would do they have made a new woman of me. I now feel like myself again, after suf-fering for eight years with estarth of the head and bronchi, and that very painful thing-neu-ralgia of the stomach. I took three months' medicine. Both my husband and myself feel as though we cannot be thankful enough to you for what you have done for me. I hope that every one who is suffering as I was will hear of Dr. Jordan and his most valuable medicines. Yours most respectfully. MRS. C. ARMSTRONO.

The Dog Man.

One of the features of this town is a sad eyed man who wanders along the big thoroughfares with two dogs on a string. it is supposed that he is desirous of selling the brutes, but he never raises his voice, and when he stands for a minute or two on the curb the dogs get as near him as possible, and, crouching down, blink demurely at the public.

They are both small dogs, but one is a little bigger than the other, and he is more noticeable because several inches of his tail have been cut off. He is a coats and gray pants, and not knowing solemn looking canine, with a coat the color of brown sugar. The other dog has a woolly coat and a little stub of a tail that is always twitching in a nervous manner. There is nothing about the LAND brutes to indicate any special breed, and no one would suppose that they are anything more than just dogs. They're not. -New York Sun.

England's Water Supply.

Taking England all over, it may be es timated that the average supply of water per head afforded by the various waterworks is between thirty and thirty-three gallons. Probably about one-fifth of that quantity is used for trade purposes, leaving from twenty-four to twenty-six gallons per head daily for domestic use. This seems a large amount, and there is no doubt that at least half of it is absolutely wasted. Considering that the price of water comes to something like £25 per million gallons, it will be seen that a saving of 3,500 gallons or so per head every year would represent a considerable amount of money. The total sum thrown away on account of this waste must amount to nearly a million and a quarter sterling annually .- New York Telegram.
