Ammonia Baking Powder Must Go.

Bills have been introduced in the New York, Illinois and Minnesota Legislatures compelling the manufacturer of such baking powders to brand on the label in bold type, this powder "Contains ammonia." Physicians and chemists condemn the use of ammonia in baking powders as a crime. Its constant use no matter how small the quantity deranges the stomach, neutralizing the gastric juice and destroying the complexion. It is the small quantities taken every meal that do the mischief.

It is gratifying to know there are pure baking powders to be had on the market and at no greater cost to the consumer than some of these so-called "absolutely pure" ammonia powders.

Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder, the standard pure cream of tartar powder for forty years. Free from the taint of either ammonia or alum. None so pure—None so wholesome.

Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder is reported by all authorities as free from Ammonia, Alum, or any other adulterant. In fact, the purity of this ideal powder has never been questioned.

TRY GERMEA for breakfast.

"German Syrup"

The majority of well-read physicians now believe that Consumption is a germ disease. In other words, instead of being in the constitution itself it is caused by innumerable small creatures living in the lungs having no business there and eating them away as caterpillars do the leaves of trees. The phlegm that is coughed up is those parts of the lungs which have been gnawed off and destroyed. These little bacilli, as the germs are called, are too small to be seen with the naked eye, but they are very much alive just the same, and enter the body in our food, in the air we breathe, and through the pores of the skin. Thence they get into the blood and finally arrive at the lungs where they fasten and increase with frightful rapidity. Then German Syrup comes in, loosens them, kills them, expells them, heals the places they leave, and so nourish and soothe that, in a short time consumptives become germ-proof and well.

BILL NYE GOES SHOPPING.

He Says He Likes to Shop Better in Boston Than in Gotham.

I always go and visit the Old South church when in Boston, because I like to see the old and pleasant cannon balls with which disagreeable people were killed when they acted improperly. I also like to attend a church where I can criticise things without hurting any one's feelings. After I visit the old church I like to go around over the Hub and buy things. I hate to contrast any city with my own town, but a nervous person with a shrinking nature can do better and enjoy it better while shopping in Boston than in New York. The Boston merchant evidently bought his goods for the purpose of selling them to the consumer, while the New York merchant appears to have purchased them more for the wild excitement of looking at them himself.

I always have my feelings hurt when I shop in New York. In the first place, I am enraged before I get to the store by 987,236 people who knock me over and get on the elevated trains before the passengers can get off. Then I go to a store and wait near a stack of wet umbrellas until several tota strangers, with a haughty air, jostle me against the wall.

I next speak to a floor walker, who plays that he owns the store, and is allowed to draw that instead of a salary. He looks at me askance, as if he feared that I might be Nellie Bly. He goes over to confer with a heavy set saleslady, to inquire of her, evidently, whether I am there with sinister motives, and while I tremble at the thought that I am about to be searched for said motives, another man, who plays that he owns the store afternoons, comes along and asks me what I want there.

I tell him that I am a simple minded man, more or less picked on both at home and abroad; that I would spend an enormous amount of money in New York if I had a chance; that today I had contemplated buying or trading for a full set of two heavy No. 10 English hose with double soles and a striking resemblance to each other. Nobody could be any more explicit than that without being offensive. I just tell a man what I want right at the start, and then if there should be any delay it his fault.

He looks at me sorrowfully and begins to feel in his pocket for something. I say, "Put up your gold. Get out with your dross. I am not poor or crazed by suffering. I am only waiting to present a letter of introduction to the sock lady if I can obtain an audience with her. I would be satisfied with even a very small audience with her." He tells me where the office is, and I go there. She waits a long time before I seem to catch her eye. She looks through me, and so on across the store to a given point. She then says:

"Well?" "Socks!"

"Yes?" "Yes!"

"What kind, please?" "English hose, double sole, unbleached, No. 10, two of a kind."

"Fer yourself?" "Yes, exclusively for myself."

"Well, the men's hose is on second floor facing the other street."

I then go to a hotel, register, get a room, ring for a messenger and send him for the hose.—Bill Nye in New York World.

KILLED HIS SWEETHEART.

A Terrible Crime Which Has Shocked the People of New England.

Another grand battue for a murderer! Another beautiful and intelligent girl murdered by a disappointed suitor, this time in northern New Hampshire. Frank C.

FRANK C. ALMY.

Almy seized Christie Warden as she was walking with her mother, sister and a friend, dragged her into the bushes and shot her to death. Then the hunt began.

Andrew H. Warden is a prosperous farmer living near Hanover, N. H., the location of Dartmouth college. His family is well known for its intelligence. Three of his daughters rank high as scholars and teachers, the other one still being quite young. Christie, a girl about twenty-six, was especially noted, and was a beautiful specimen of the blond type. Frank C. Almy is, or was, a mystery. He appeared suddenly in the neighborhood and worked for Mr. Warden during the winter. He was a man of refinement and good education, yet had a violent temper, and the family became convinced that Almy was not his true name.

Early this season he was discharged after he had in vain implored Christie to marry him, and threatened her with death if she refused. His threat was speedily fulfilled. Her sister Fannie fought valiantly for Christie, but was forced away. The mother and the other woman ran for help, and help came not half a minute after Christie's death. One man was almost on the murderer as he fired the second shot, yet he escaped. The whole country was aroused. Every thicket and ravine was beaten as if for the smallest game and every barn and old house searched; but it appeared that the murderer had some help in getting on his first step toward Montreal.

His course was traced to that city and then the trail was lost. It was surmised that he had become a "stowaway" on one of four steamers which had started for Europe, and dispatches were sent to the last landing place in Newfoundland and to England. But the hunt went on, for many believed that Almy was still near Hanover, and, strangest of all, information came from other places of crimes of violence committed by such a man. He seems to be a natural murderer, a man of unrestrained temper.

HUNTING FOR CHIN LAN HOI.

A Chinese Girl Who Is Wanted by Government Officers.

Government detectives at San Francisco are having trouble in their search for Chin Lan Hoi, a Chinese girl who is said to be held in slavery by her fellow countrymen for immoral purposes. When she reached the Golden Gate some months ago permission to land was refused her, but on appeal to the United States court she was released, pending further inquiry, on a $1,500 bond. The bail piece is not satisfied and Chin Lan Hoi cannot be found.

CHIN LAN HOI.

Her failure to appear, however, is not due to any lack of "pointers," or of official activity. The mails every little while have brought to the marshal anonymous statements regarding the girl's whereabouts, and he has made numerous futile raids in Chinatown, after each endeavor being notified by post that he neglected to "look on the roof" or "in the cellar," and so on.

Chin Lan Hoi is said to have a commercial value of $2,400—hence the efforts to retain control of her person. On the other hand, several of Uncle Sam's representatives think the letter writer is conducting a neat scheme of blackmail. They assert that it is a time honored custom for highbinders to demand money from Chinese merchants and keepers of low resorts, and if their wants are not satisfied to send to the authorities information that causes them to visit the house of the obstinate person and put him to great annoyance, breaking down doors that are not promptly opened and tearing down walls that appear as though a secret closet might be built into them.

Railway Accidents in New Jersey.

All railroad companies doing business in New Jersey are required to file annually a detailed account of accidents on their lines. The results for the past year are as follows:

On the 2,000 lines of railway within the state, 1,604 accidents were reported, of which 317 were fatal. The car coupler reaped a harvest of thumbs, fingers, arms and feet. These numbered 375 in all. Most of these mishaps were slight, but once in a while the railroad surgeons had to saw off an arm or a leg.

Two hundred and ninety-two persons were struck while walking the tracks. Of these, 129 were killed or died after the accident. One hundred and thirteen persons were struck by passing trains while foolishly stepping in front of them. Of these, 49 were killed and 64 survived their injuries. Forty-six persons were killed in attempting to get on or off of moving trains, while 139 were seriously injured.

A Boa Constrictor in a Sewer.

It is truly a novel spectacle to see the people of a town in the temperate zone hunting for a snake from the tropics. Yet that is the case at Burlington, Ia. When Forepaugh's circus was there recently five large boa constrictors got out of their cage, which fell from a car. Four were recaptured, but the fifth could not be found. It has now been discovered lurking in the big Main street sewer, whence it comes out at nightfall for food. The reptile is ten feet long and nearly six inches thick, and is causing considerable alarm in that vicinity. A reward of $100 has been offered for its capture, and a gang of men and boys are searching for it.

Honest Confession.

I.—ADORATION.

She's sweet, she's young, she's gay, she's pretty,
She's fond, she's true, she's bright, she's witty;
There's no other girl in the whole big city
So wholly divine as she.

II.—HESITATION.

She's rich, she's fair, she's shy, she's winning,
Her soul is so pure that a thought of sinning
Would fill her with grief, and I'm beginning
To fear she's too good for me.

III.—DETERMINATION.

But still around her I daily hover,
She knows no goddess I place above her,
And when I have shown her how much I love her
I'll win her—just wait and see!

IV.—————!

What's this in the paper? Am I alive, or
Have I gone mad? How can I survive her!
She's gone and eloped with a horse car driver!
What a fool a man can be!
—Somerville Journal.

THE WESTERN SETTLER'S CHOSEN SPECIFIC.

With every advance of emigration into the far West a new demand is created for Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Newly peopled regions are frequently less salubrious than older settled localities on account of the miasma which rises from recently cleared land, particularly along the banks of rivers that are subject to freshets. The agricultural or mining emigrant soon learns, when he does not already know, that the Bitters afford the only sure protection against malaria and those disorders of the stomach, liver and bowels, to which climatic changes, exposure and unaccustomed or unhealthy water or diet subject him. Consequently he places an estimate upon this great household specific and preventive commensurate with its intrinsic merits, and is careful to keep on hand a restorative and promoter of health so implicitly to be relied upon in time of need.

"Strange, but true," mused the victim of untoward events, "that crooked management too often produces straightened circumstances."

THE PROGRESS OF THE CENTURY

Leans away from superstition and blind idolatry of isms and ics—allopathic included. It leans toward universal, all-determining law; towards facts, not fancies. It leans towards immutable principles and invulnerable truth, and away from superannuated authority, organized ignorance and dyed-in-the-wool prejudice. Blind empiricism in medicine has, with other fossilized bivalves, had its day. Yes, there are plenty of "belated crabs," but being born of darkness and fear—twin sisters of intellectual infancy—they cannot much longer withstand the civilizing influence of advancing science. They are slowly but surely "dyin g Egypt, dying," before the "search light" of investigation. The advancing thinker wonders how it was possible for that monstrosity—the medical science (?) extant now—to have survived to this late day! But where was the reform to come from? It is not only passe to attempt reform, it is outright dangerous. It requires a boldness akin to recklessness. Legion is the name who have tried; they have left their bleaching bones as a warning. An attempt at reforming theology brands you a "heretic;" in politics you are charged with every infamy under the sun, and in medicine every duck intellect "quacks" at you and you are accused of having no diploma when your diploma is on file in the courthouse under the very eyes of the slanderers. All this is caused by besotted ignorance, and since books are sent free of charge to every applicant and we pay the postage, there is no excuse for ignorance when it costs nothing to be informed. People who berate the Histogenetic system of medicine are either intellectual pariahs incapable of counting five in succession or understanding any 2x4 problem, or they are mental sluggards and cannot screw themselves up to the point of information by reading up and forming a conclusion. In either case their opinions are as valuable as that of Puget Sound oysters.

TRULY A HOUSEHOLD REMEDY.

C. Middlebrook, 240 Bedford avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y., writes:

"I have used ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTERS for the last twenty years. They are truly a household remedy. If one of my children has a cold and wheezes, I put an ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTER on the chest and one between the shoulder blades. If any of the children have croupy coughs, or coughs of any kind, I place the plaster close up around the throat; the soothing effect is apparent almost always in two hours. If they have a disordered stomach, a plaster placed just below the chest bones makes digestion perfect in half a day. If there is any looseness of the bowels, accompanied by coldness of the skin, two ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTERS applied over the stomach cure in from two to five hours. I notice particularly that these plasters never abrade the skin or cause the slightest irritation. From my own experience I know they never fail for rheumatism, pains in the back or lumbago."

The hotel waiter can always point out the typical guest.

The manufacturers of Star Plug chewing tobacco have built up the largest tobacco business the world has ever seen by giving the consumer the best tobacco and full-weight sixteen-ounce pound plugs, proving conclusively that good tobacco and pound plugs are wanted by most tobacco chewers.
