CHINESE EXCLUSION.

The Geary law provides that no Chinese shall be admitted except representatives of the Chinese government, or travelers under Chinaman leaves this country he cannot return. The law is a good one and should be that of the land.

We are in receipt of No. 5, Vol. 1, of the California Illustrated Magazine. It is the first copy we have seen, and we are delighted with it. It is profusely illustrated, and as the name implies, is largely filled with Pacific coast matter. "Life in Honolulu" is a pretty sketch, while the "New Star of '92," "The Labor question on the Pacific coast," and the "Dry Tortugas during the war," are excellent reading, and the article on Nicaragua is peculiarly interesting. The good things are too numerous for individual mention. It will well repay perusal. Printed by the California Publishing Co., San Francisco; price $3 per year, 25 cents per copy.

The most important matter to come before the next legislature is the assessment laws. The question has been dodged by two legislatures, but it cannot be by the third. It must be met and settled. It is useless to enumerate tne evils of the present system, for it is much easier to say that it has one good all bad, the mortgage tax law being the erowning evil of the whole affair. We believe the precinct assessment system should be adopted, and that the work is at least thirly years behind the times in her assessment laws, and she should eatch up with the procession or fall out and quit.

It is a relief to pick up the Ocala platform during these political disturbances and read it. We don't agree with it entirely, nor does it agree with us, but it has the merit of producing something new, which is more than can be said of either the republican or democratic parties. They never change. For the past ever so long the "protection to American labor" chestnut and anti-monopoly plank has been the s basis of one; free trade and "home rule for Ireland" the foundation for the other.

We read in the dispatches that the United States senators are afraid that turned to America. We do not know why the senators are so afraid of a few missionaries, but as far as we are concerned we had as soon have a few of them as the Chinese. Besides, they are much more badly needed, especially in and around the United States sen-

It was feared by many here for awhile that our choice for legislator, T. R. Coon, would fail of the nomination, by reason of change of opinion by some of the delegates, but we are pleased to know that this was not the case. Mr. Coon is a clever gentleman, well qualified for the position, and will poll his full party strength. Hood River apwill be satisfied perfectly when his certificate of election is handed him.

Ex-Senator Watkins has accepted the nomination, for judge of this district. Judge Bradshaw will be his opponent and it is our guess will have 1,000 votes to spare on election day. Judge Bradshaw has made a record of 18 which he may well feel proud, and which the voters of this district, regardless of politics, admire. Mr. Watkins leads a forlorn hope.

Yesterday was Arbor day and was celebrated with appropriate exercises by the Hood River school. We print the programme elsewhere, but the ceremonies were too late in the day to find their way into this issue.

The democrats this year waited until the republican chicken was batched s
