

To Make Hot Bread Wholesome.

With most persons it is necessary that bread raised with yeast should lose its freshness or become stale before it can be eaten with safety. Distressing results also follow from eating biscuit, cake, pastry, etc., raised by the cheap, inferior baking powders that contain lime, alum, phosphates, or other adulterants. The hot roll and muffin, and the delicious hot griddle cakes, raised by Royal Baking Powder, can be eaten without inconvenience by persons with the most delicate digestive organs, and are as wholesome and digestible as warm soup, meat or any other food.

No leavening agent or baking powder, except the Royal Baking Powder, possesses this great qualification.

THE MARQUIS DE MORES.

THE DARING CAREER OF THE CELEBRATED DUELIST.

His Unsuccessful Experiments in the Bad Lands of the West—A Mark for Assassins—Deeds of a Brave Man—He Was Ably Supported by His Wife.

The duel between the Marquis de Mores and M. Camille Dreyfus, in Europe, recalls the many famous exploits and deeds of De Mores a few years ago in our country. The Marquis was certainly a most wonderful man, and deserved better treatment from the community in which he moved than he received.

He was a passenger aboard a Northern Pacific train one day that was shooting along from St. Paul, Minn., toward the setting sun. He was bound for the Bad Lands, where he was about to put into operation his gigantic, though unsuccessful, schemes of sheep raising and beef slaughtering.

For some reason or other the country was down on him. At every station we stopped a report would be received that at the Bad Lands station hundreds of cowboys and other tough citizens were waiting for the Marquis, and that he would be riddled with bullets the moment he stepped from the train. The train pulled into the depot at the Bad Lands, and De Mores, with each hand carefully laid, but ready for quick use, on a pair of handsome silver mounted repeaters, stepped out on the platform. Bad men galore crowded around him, but when they saw the plucky nerve of the young aristocrat they honored and respected him for it, and not a single arm in all that vast crowd was raised to do him the least harm.

A DIME NOVEL CHARACTER.

The story of his life in this country is quite interesting. He first landed at New York in August, 1882. Before long he became attracted by the stories of the new country along the line of the Northern Pacific railroad in Dakota and Montana, and soon afterward he came out in person to investigate for himself. With a sombrero on his head, a red shirt on his back, corchuro trousers tucked into very long legged boots, and with plenty of silver mounted jewelry in his belt, he pursued his investigation far and wide on horseback, and finally decided to found a city. He bought outright six square miles of land on the Little Missouri river, which was then considered to be, by the wise men of the northwest, about the very worst bit of earth on the whole North American continent. Hence the knowing ones shook their heads gravely and predicted ruin.

He built a rude shack of logs and mud which he furnished luxuriantly for his wife, secured large tracts of government land and bought numerous herds of cattle. At first the herders and roaming cowboys of the Bad Lands looked upon him to be an adventurous crank, who would surely leave the country after he had secured a few hunting trophies to carry back to Paris. They hated him because he had a servant and wore clean clothes. He was a "monopolist," they said, who was going to fence in the country. They tried to scare him away, but they found he had been a soldier once and would not scare. The cowboys said he had come to drive them all off their ranches. The hunters declared he was going to buy up their buffalo grounds; and, to own the truth, the young man did really act as if he were going to buy the earth.

Before many days he won the respect of his western neighbors in more ways than one, but still they took him to be a well plumed bird that ought to be plucked and who could be easily swindled. Their ire was raised to the highest pitch when the Marquis gained control of about 50,000 acres of land in Montana, which took in the three principal trails through which the cattle were driven to the east, south and west.

A STARTLING ADVENTURE.

The cowboys began to shoot the Frenchman's cattle wholesale and menaced his herders when the latter were off duty. Appeals to the sheriff proved useless; so finding himself in a bad fix the Marquis determined to take the matter into his own hands and stop the matter himself. He declared if he found a man killing his animals he would shoot the rascals like he would a steer. In six months he was shot at by an unseen enemy no less than eighteen times. His most bitter foe was a man named Mitchell and an old buffalo hunter called Luffrey.

One day while riding over the prairie, accompanied by one of his most faithful followers, a man named Paddock, a bullet whistled by his head, the smoke curling from a little bunch of sage brush about 200 yards in front. Without a moment's hesitation the Marquis dug his spurs into his horse's flanks and dashed head foremost directly toward the ambush. The ringleader of the gang jumped to his feet and leveled a Winchester at the Marquis; but the latter like a flash, and while going at full speed, drew his little silver mounted repeater, and the would-be assassin fell in his tracks, to rise no more.

Another of the band was badly wounded, and the rest quickly leaping to their horses, sought safety in flight. The Frenchman was very popular after this little incident, for his marksmanship instilled a great deal of respect into the minds of the bloodthirsty herders, and there was peace in the Bad Lands from that time henceforth. Nevertheless, he had three trials before justices of the peace for the so-called offense, and was three times acquitted; yet he was again indicted by a Dakota jury for murder, and languished in the Bismarck jail many days before he finally gained his freedom.

The Marquis de Mores is a lovely woman. She is an American, but thoroughly devoted to her brave husband. She is a handsome little brunette, one of the best lady rifle shots in the world, and she rides as well as she shoots.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

A PROFITABLE TALK.

OUR SPECIAL REPORTER SECURES THE FACTS.

He Determined to Thoroughly Investigate a Subject that is Causing Much Comment, and He Has Succeeded.

(N. Y. Star.)

Two days ago one of the most prominent professional men in New York published a letter so outspoken, so unusual as to cause extensive talk and awaken comment. Yesterday I interviewed the gentleman as to the contents of the letter, and he fully confirmed it in every respect. He not only did this but he also mentioned a number of unusual cases which had come under his observation in which little less than a miracle had been performed.

So important has the entire subject become, that I determined to investigate it to the bottom, and accordingly called upon Mr. Albert G. Eaves, the prominent customer at No. 63 East 42nd street, the gentleman mentioned in my interview with the doctor yesterday. Mr. Eaves has made quite a name. A complete knowledge of history, an appreciation of art and reliability are essential in his profession.

"Mr. Eaves," I said, "I learn that your wife has had a most unusual experience; are you willing to describe it?" The gentleman thought a moment and an expression of pleasure passed over his face. "When I think," he said, "of what my wife once passed through and the condition she is in to-day, I cannot but feel grateful. Nearly three years ago she was at the point of death. You understand how sick she was when I say she was totally blind and lay in a state of unconsciousness. Three doctors attended her and all agreed that her death was only a question of hours, perhaps minutes."

"May I ask what the doctors called her trouble?" "Uremia and puerperal convulsions, so you can imagine how badly she must have been. At last one doctor (it was Dr. R. A. Gunn) said that as she was still able to swallow one more attempt might be made, and a medicine was accordingly given her. She seemed to improve at once. In a few days her sight was restored. 'I have had a long, long sleep,' she said, upon recovering consciousness, and I am rejoiced to say that she was restored to perfect health wholly through the use of Warner's Safe Cure, which was the remedy we administered when she was past all consciousness."

I looked at Mr. Eaves as he said this. His face was beaming with satisfaction. He continued: "The physician told us, after my wife's recovery, that she could never endure childbirth, and yet we have a fine boy nearly a year old, and do not know what sickness is. I attribute it all to the wonderful power of Warner's Safe Cure. Why, my sister, who resides in Virginia, was, awhile ago, afflicted precisely as my wife had been. I at once advised her to use this same great remedy; it cured her promptly."

"You find that it is specially adapted for women, do you?" I inquired. "By no means. I have known it to be wonderful in its power in the case of gentlemen to whom I have recommended it. I speak from my own experience entirely, and you should not be surprised that I am so firm a believer in this discovery, which has done so much for me."

I was not surprised. I saw by every word, by every look, that Mr. Eaves meant all he said. I had ample confirmation of Dr. Gunn's letter and interview, and I do not wonder that people who have seen such things, who have watched their dearest friends go down into the dark valley and be brought back into the light, should be both enthusiastic and grateful. I, myself, caught the spirit, and I shall be glad if the investigations I have made prove of profit to those who may read them.

RIGHT OR WRONG.

Which will be better? It does seem as if some folks prefer to have the last condition of the liver rather than the first. They perpetually dose themselves with purgatives totally without effect or any alternative of liver trouble. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is the successful candidate for the people's choice, and yet popular and well known as it is, there are some persons who keep on trying the drastic remedies of former days. It is the intelligent portion of the public that the well known and long-tried properties of the Bitters appeal. Reasons should be guided by experience in the matter of medication. "The best guide to our feet is the lamp of experience," said a great patriot of the early revolutionary period, and the exclamation is pregnant with truth. For over a third of a century the Bitters only has met with the instrument of popularity, suffering from liver complaint, constipation, indigestion, rheumatism, debility and troubles accompanied by dyspepsia. Latterly I have de clared myself and been thoroughly approved as a remedy for "la grippe."

DEAFNESS CAN'T BE CURED.

By local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imper ect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are cured by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surface.

We will give you a Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that we cannot cure by taking Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.
