DEAFNESS CAN'T BE CURED

By local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitu-tional remedies. Deafness is caused by an in-flamed condition of the nuccus liming of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hear-ing, and when it is entirely closed, beafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed conditi n of the mn-cous surfaces.

A SHATTERED MIRROR.

It Recalls a Burglar's Blunder and a Houseowner's Narrow Escape.

Hanging in Inspector Schaack's room at the East Chicago avenue police station is a small dressing mirror. Though badly shattered, the inspector would not part with it for a large sum of money, for it tells a story which, though true, is stranger than fiction.

The little mirror was once the property of George High, and was the means of saving that gentleman a loss of about $25,000. About 7 o'clock on the evening of Oct. 8, 1886, Mr. High, his family and several guests were eating dinner. While his gratitude. The letter, coming as it they were thus engaged two burglars, who had evidently been "spotting" the house for some time, placed a ladder against the rear of the house. By that means one of the men reached the second story window and entered the house. Walking straight through the hall, he entered Mrs. High's bedroom. That evening Mrs. High and her guests were going to attend a reception, and their diamonds and jewelry were spread out on the dresser. As the thief entered the room his eyes caught sight of eshies and a man, and manhood was asthe gems and he started to possess serted. himself of them.

The small mirror hung in the corner of the room opposite the mirror in the dresser. As he reached out Mus Joy (doubtfully)-N-o, but-if you his hands for the diamonds the thief will let me go I shall be by the time we get saw what he supposed was a hand saw what he supposed was a hand stretched out to grasp him. It was the reflection of his own hand on the large mirror re-reflected in the smallabout a rich man who made his will in er one. Believing that he was about favor of the woman who refused him and to be captured, the burglar whipped then went out and hung himself .- Petit out his revolver, turned quickly and fired. He hit the man in the small mirror and forgot all about the diamonds. Running to the window he "Ab, my dear boy, if you could only find a wife like mine-so good, so kind, so affee the ground.

Alarmed by the shot, the family rushed up stairs and found the room full of smoke and the smell of gunpowder. Looking out of the window, Mr. High saw two men running down the alley toward Lake Michidon't feel anything, you know. You can't tell positively whether anything has hap pened or not when it takes place by post." gan. In the corner of the mirror was a bullet hole, and broken glass was scattered over the floor. The was scattered over the floor. The case was reported to Inspector Schaack, but the "climbers," as they are called by the police, were never Katie-Y-e-s; you see, ma, all the time he captured.

One day Mr. High sent for the inspector and presented him with the broken mirror. The inspector wrote a short history of the affair, had it framed and it hangs below the mirror in his office.-Chicago Inter Ocean.

BOLD ASSERTIONS.

THE MANLY ACTION OF GERMANY'S GREATEST SCIENTIST. Itis Warmly Indorsed by a Ringing Edigorial in a Leading American Journal.

(Medical Tribune.) Professor Rudolph Virchow was seriously ill several months ago. An admirer of his, the owner of a certain proprietary medicine, took occasion to present him with some bottles of his dis-covery. Virchow recovered, and was certain that he had received much benfit from the remedy. He accordingly addressed a letter to his benefactor, acknowledging the matter and expressing did from the most distinguished teacher of pathologie science in Europe, was published and widely read. The North German Medical Association, like similar bodies in America, has its cranks on ethics. They endeavored to call the professor to account for disregarding the code. Virchow ragarded the instincts of a gentleman, and the honor that leads a man to render justice, as paramount to the peck-measure sethics of a conceited gang of half fiedged medical men. He answered them with hearty contempt, and withdrew from the association. He chose to stand on manliness, and could afford to do so. It was an issue between

At about the same time the editor of this journal wrote a letter to a gentleman in Western New York regarding the merits of a remedy known as Warner's Safe Cure. The circumstances in the case were as follows: We had frequently been asked by patients if we knew anything about this remedy, and were obliged to answer in the negative. We then began to make inquiries about the remedy, and were surprised at the reports we heard regarding it. We then recommended it in several cases that had resisted all other treatment, and the results were surprising. The albumen rapidly disappeared from the urine and the patients felt greatly improved in health. Feeling satisfied that the com-pound was a valuable one, and that it could do no possible barm to any one we continued to recommend it, and were surprised at the good results obtained.

After several months' fair trial we did not hesitate to indorse the remedy, believing as we did that it would prove a boon to suffering humanity. We have no reason to regret our action in this particular. We recommend a remedy that has benefited thousands of persons; we have seen its good effects on our own patients after all other medicines have tailed, and we are not afraid to say to the public and the profession just what we know of it.

Medical journals of all schools of medicine are filled with advertisements and editorial puffs of proprietary medicines, many of which are worthless. The editors know nothing of their composition or preparation, but have an eye to the money they get for their advertisements. There has been no protest against these things, How, therefore, a certificate based on experiences such as ours, and without compensation, should have greater turpitude, is a problem beyond our capacity. Why one should be fish and another flesh we are not sagacious corpse of the old code than for common

This preparation, after twelve years of unqualified success, has finally received the commendation and indorsement of the leading members of the medical profession, both in this country and in Europe. Dr. Gunn in his recently published interview, gave his unanswerable reasons for indorsing this great remedy, and it goes without saying that the most distinguished teacher of pathology in the world to-day would be the last to recommend a proprietary article without having the utmost faith in its curative power.
