 have reported, after an examination of scores of different brands, that the Royal Baking Powder is absolutely pure, of highest leavening capacity, and superior to all others.

The expression "All the world's a stage," though attributed to Shakespeare is found in the Latin of Juvenal. An old Grecian author says, "Greece is a theater where all are players."

The oyster seems from all accounts to be scarcely less prolific actually than the house fly. It is estimated that each mother oyster throws off "from 200,000 to 2,000,000 ova" annually.

ANTI-FERMENTINE

40 YEARS OF PAIN CURED.

THE CASE. N. ALBANY ST., ITHACA, N. Y., Dec. 19, 1887.

For over 40 years I have been a victim of rheumatism. I was persuaded to try St. Jacobs Oil. I have used two bottles, and a man more free from rheumatism never walked our streets. My limbs that were once stiff and lame are now as light and limber as in my youth.

JOS. EDELL.

AFTER FIVE YEARS. ITHACA, N. Y., July 5, 1887. Suffered many years—injury to hip resulting in rheumatism, muscular weakness and contracted cords. Two bottles of St. Jacobs Oil relieved me so that I now walk about and attend to daily duties at 62. I heartily endorse it.

JOS. EDELL.

ARTFUL CUPID.

As I went walking down the dale, Master Cupid ran beside me. And with many a winsome tale Laughingly the trickster piled me Seeking with his subtle art Entrance to my guarded heart.

"Nay," said I, "tis no avail." Yet the little rogue defied me. "Ah," said he, "I never fail: Some hath ever yet denied me. Thou shalt see what cunning art I can practice on the heart."

"Bravest boy! I pass unharmed. Hoasting hath undone thee, stupid." On I walked, forewarned, forearmed, Smiling back at Master Cupid, Vainly with his vaunted art Seeking entrance to my heart.

As I looked I saw he wept O'er the sad defeat before him. Ah, my sentiments must have slept As I bent in pity on him. For the trap of wondrous art Leaped into my open heart.

—Wills B. Hawkins in Detroit Free Press.

Her Money-makers.

"Come out and see my money-makers," said a lady living in the country to a friend from the city who was visiting her. "These," she continued, as they came to a large and well appointed hen-house, "are my 'church hens'; all that I make out of them above expenses is devoted to religious objects.

"The geese you see down there on the pond are my 'poor and needy geese.' They cost little or nothing, and the profits are applied to the relief of the poor and needy. Away down beyond that wood I keep a drove of hogs; 'dress hogs' I call them, because I buy my dresses out of what I make from them.

"Those Alderney cows are my 'theater and opera cows.' I saw four Wagner operas last winter out of the profits of one of them. You see that bed of strawberries? Well, we don't call them strawberries, but 'shoe berries.' I buy all the children's shoes and my own, too, out of the income from that strawberry patch.

"These and many other little money-making schemes I manage myself, without troubling my husband, who works in the city for a not very big salary. Consequently we have a great many comforts and luxuries that we couldn't otherwise have; and I thoroughly enjoy the work too."

Do not think this lady's methods suggest a host of little things which other ladies might turn to use as money-makers and find health and pleasure in so doing? —Youth's Companion.

Rearing Babies.

Hot weather is generally considered the hardest upon the babies, and in cities the mortality among the infants is often terrible. A word should be said about these little ones that more sense may be shown in rearing them. The great idea among mothers is to have a fat, plump almost round baby, and the acme of success is then reached. The child is kept fat as long as possible, but the mothers little realize how much fat babies suffer in hot weather. With the exception of the other extreme—the very thin and sickly babies—the mortality among babies is greatest among the very fat.

Recently a foreign physician published a paper in which mothers were advised to follow the cattle breeders in their methods of bringing up good, profitable cattle. The first idea of the breeder is not to produce fat, but to make the young animals put on a large frame and strong muscles. Food that would make bone and muscle rapidly was given for the first period, and only sufficient fattening food to give to keep them in good health. An animal in this condition can stand the hot weather with considerable comfort. After a solid frame and hard muscles are formed the fattening process is very easy of accomplishment; but if all the food goes to fat, the framework is dwarfed and made under-sized. —Yankee Blade.

Salt for All Kinds of Aches.

Now is the season for hay fever and colds of all sorts contracted through carelessness or recklessness. If your family physician is not accessible, and you intend being your own doctor, here is a remedy to be recommended. It is no more nor less than common table salt. It is perfectly harmless, always available and has great curative properties. Moreover, it has this great advantage over more pretentious remedies, that if it does not cure it will not kill, and the chances are that it will cure.

If, with your very best boy, you gaze at the stars far into the night, watching the moon until it wanes or goes sailing in the gloaming, the probabilities are that a toothache, earache, neuralgic headache or some other distressing ail will be the result next morning. Applications of a strong, hot solution of salt in water and vinegar act like magic, and before many hours have passed you will forget you have ever had an ache or a pain.

For any kind of a cold that takes the unpleasant form of sneezing and influenza, a vapor of heated salt and alcohol will afford almost instant relief. If a sore throat constantly threatens you, there is no better remedy than a spray of warm water and salt; it is almost a sure cure. —New York Advertiser.

A Woman's Notes.

A very excellent departure in the way of weekly articles has of late been introduced by a leading Englishwoman's journal. Every seven days the wife of an M. P., otherwise known as a member of parliament, writes a brief record of any doings of great pith or moment that are debated by the commons. From her seat behind the grating of the gallery, where women are permitted to view and listen to the lawmakers, this clever woman watches and notes all proceedings, and during those months when parliament is in session keeps her sister well informed with regard to the nation affairs. Her letter is written in clear, sprightly English that enables all women to keep pace with political movements without the aid of prejudiced and prosy daily newspapers. Something of this nature is sadly needed for American women, who are so strangely ignorant of political action, not only in Washington, but in their own state's senate, and even the town councils. —Chicago News.

A Woman with a Distinct Power.
 Mrs. John Winston, an Indianapolis woman, has received an endorsement which gives her advantages over her sisters which cannot be calculated. She has a voice with an echo, and when she speaks to her husband or children what she says is repeated three or four times. The power of a certain lecture repeated three or four times with a single effort must be apparent. A man would either reform or take to the woods. And what superiority Mrs. Winston must feel at a sewing circle when her turn at the neighborhood gossip comes. For a woman to have the equivalent of four tongues is certainly a rare advantage over her sisters who have but one, if it is hung in the middle. —Hay City Times Press.

An Idea for a Cushion.

An idea for a cushion, which is merely an elaboration of the covers made of men's white linen hemstitched handkerchiefs, was seen in a suburban parlor recently. A large sized plain black silk muffler, with hemstitched border, had been powdered all over with tiny "Johnny jumpers," their gay little faces worked in purple and gold floss. The square was then fitted on a cushion, whose lining was gold silk, and the four corners had heavy tassels made of gold colored flax. —New York Times.

THE BEST OF REASONS.

The reason why ALCOCK'S POROUS PLASTERS are popular is that they may be relied on to cure:

1. Lame back, sciatica, stiffness or twitching of the muscles.
2. Chest troubles, such as pleurisy, pneumonia, consumption.
3. Indigestion, dyspepsia, biliousness, kidney complaint.

The success, however, will depend upon the genuineness of the plaster used. The popularity of ALCOCK'S POROUS PLASTERS has been so great that multitudes of imitations have sprung up on every hand. The only sure cure is to get the genuine ALCOCK'S POROUS PLASTERS. BRADBETH'S PILLS improve the digestion.

HOW WE GROW OLD.

The thread that binds us to life is most frequently severed ere the meridian of life is reached in the case of persons who neglect obvious means to renew failing strength. Vigor, no less the source of happiness than the condition of long life, can be created and perpetuated where it does not exist. Thousands who have experienced or are cognizant—including many physicians of eminence—of the effects of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters bear testimony to its wondrous efficacy as a creator of strength in feeble constitutions and debilitated and shattered systems. A steady performance of the bodily functions, renewed appetite, fresh and nightly repose attend the use of this thorough and standard remedy. Use medical tonic represented to be akin to or resemble it in effect in its place. Demand the genuine, which is an acknowledged remedy for indigestion, malaria, nervousness, constipation, liver and kidney complaints and rheumatism.

Emma—What's that noise? It sounds as if they were panning for beetles. —Jane. You guessed right, but we always speak of the performance here as tending a banquet.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh, being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer one Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address: F. J.
