

ROYAL BAKING POWDER

SHOULD be used wherever yeast has served heretofore. Yeast acts by fermentation and the destruction of part of the gluten of the flour to produce the leavening gas. Royal Baking Powder, through the action of its ingredients upon each other in the loaf while baking, itself produces the necessary gas and leaves the wholesome properties of the flour unimpaired.

It is not possible with any other leavening agent to make such wholesome and delicious bread, biscuit, rolls, cake, pastry, griddle-cakes, doughnuts, etc.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., 106 WALL ST., NEW-YORK.

A Late Hour.

Boy (in front of theater)—Please, sir, if you're going home won't you give me your check?
Gentleman—It is very late, and it seems to me a boy of your age would be better off in bed than at a theater.
Boy—Please, sir, the show would be over before we could get through reading that question. Gimme the check, won't you?—Good News.

Pitiful.

A beggar, ragged, pitiful, loaded with a tale of woe and the usual "large family," stopped and implored aims of a lady passing him.
"How many children did you say you have, poor man?" questioned the lady commiseratingly, responding generously.
"Only one, madame, but—I have three wives."—Intransigent.

Worse Than the Scarlet Fever.

"When your practicing friend across the way has learned to play the cornet, he will entertain the whole neighborhood," said Mrs. Brown.
"Yes," said Mrs. Jones. "But by that time there won't be any neighborhood here."—Texas Siftings.

Staving Him Off.

Wills—He never fails to give me a cigar to smoke when I call on him.
Wallace—He must be afraid you will smoke one of your own.—Brooklyn Life.

MENDING STOCKINGS.

Pair of baby's stockings!
They are small and black and plain,
But I find sweet satisfaction
In looking them over again.

I mended these same stockings—
It must be two years ago—
And then they were laid in the drawer,
There was no one to wear them, you know.

For our own beautiful baby
Had gone to a fatter clime,
She had entered the golden city
Where we hope to meet her some time.

And though in the mending basket
They still were stockings small,
There were none for a tiny baby
With daintiest feet of all.

Yet again from the open heaven
A wonderful gift has come,
And the sound of a baby's cooing
Is heard again in our home.

And tiny feet are moving
Along the nursery floor,
And dainty baby stockings
Are needed now once more.

Is it strange that I find a pleasure
In taking them in my hand?
They speak of our newest treasure,
And of one in the Fatherland.
—Mary J. Porter in Harper's Bazar

The Fashion in Mouths.

"The fashion is changed altogether now" in mouths, Miss Sweet Eighteen assured me. Whereat from the depths of my bewilderment I echoed, "Fashion in mouths?"

"Yes, in holding them," was the reply. "Don't you remember that a little while ago girls had the chic mouth? Sort of a hold close smiley look that went with glances and bobs of the head, and all that. Mouth fashions come from actresses almost always, I think, though we don't confess it, and some of us don't know it. Then came the rosebud. That went with the baby stare. A sort of kiss me expression would be almost fast, you know, if it didn't have the baby stare to cover it up. That went for quite a long while.

"It was a big thing for the girls whose eyes could do it, and becoming to their mouths, too, because so often real baby eyes have big mouths that actually need rosebudding. Then we had the serene mouth. That was a very exclusive fashion, because few could follow it. It went with a stare very like the 'baby,' except that it was more grown up. It was a sort of high brow, I don't understand you look that suited arched eyebrows beautifully. The lips were set into a smile. One really had to be born to that expression or one looked like an electrified idiot. But most of us tried it.

"Now the classic has come in. It belongs to the new, big girl. It is just impossible for most of us. The lips are parted and there is absolutely no expression about them at all. It is the serene with all self consciousness and worldliness taken out of it. It is the old Greek business, and how on earth is the modern girl to do it? As for me, I am going back to the 'rosebud.' I think it suits me, don't you?" She turned her pink, pretty face up, her lips drawn into a delicious button of scarlet. As for me I thought it suited her. I am glad the placid girl has come in though.—New York Cor. Chicago News.

One Bold Girl Cows a Mob.

In the jail is a man who was caught murdering a traveler for money, and the people decided that they could not wait until the law had run its course and determined to take the matter in their own hands and lynche the fellow. The sheriff received warning of the intended lynching and collected four deputies and announced his determination to guard the jail at all hazards.

At 12 o'clock at night a summons came for him to open the doors and give up the prisoner or the jail would be burned down. As the structure is wooden the sheriff decided that he had better succumb to the mob than endanger the lives of the other inmates. He accordingly made the announcement to his deputies and sent one to inform the leader of the mob that he could have the prisoner. During the parley the sheriff and all his deputies went outside of the jail, when suddenly the door was slammed and bolted. A girl about nineteen years old appeared at one of the upper windows and told the astonished crowd that they could not have the man.

She was Susan Dorder, the daughter of the sheriff. She said that she was not afraid of the mob and would shoot the first man who attempted to approach the place to set it on fire. She would not let her father back into the house, and told them that they could not accomplish anything by remaining. The mob talked a little and then cheered the plucky girl and left, telling her that they would not harm the murderer, as he had such a brave defender.—Willeston (Neb.) Cor. Chicago Herald.

An Appeal.

In this great commonwealth the young women are far in the minority. What we need is about seven train loads of the gentler sex annually shipped here from the east, and soon we would see the untrodden valleys of the west blossom like the rose. For many years the young men of our country have come to the west to seek their fortunes and find a home in the land of the setting sun, while the girls have been compelled to remain with their parents and friends.

It is true that many girls are holding down claims, but in these same woods there are at least a thousand old as well as young bachelors living out their allotted threescore and ten years in utter loneliness. The young ladies of Washington are intelligent, pretty and vivacious, but we need a large number of them. From across the broad fields of the great west we seem to hear a mighty voice saying, Come west, young woman come west.—Sprague (Wash.) Advertiser.

Brown Paper as a Glass Cleaner.

To polish a glass decanter that has rusted inside cut some brown paper into very small bits, so as to go with ease into the decanter. Then cut a few pieces of soap into very small pieces and put some water, milk warm, into the decanter adding a little pearlash. Shake this well about in the bottle and rinse with plenty of cold water.—New York Journal.

A HERALD OF THE INFANT YEAR.

Clip the last thirty years or more from the century, and the segment will represent the term of the unbounded popularity of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. The opening of the year best will be signified by the appearance of a fresh Almanac of the Bitters, in which the uses, derivation and action of this world-famous medicine will be specially set forth. Every body should read it. The almanac and astronomical calculations to be found in this brochure are always astonishingly accurate, and the statistics, illustrations, humor and other reading matter rich in interest and full of profit. The Hostetter Company of Pittsburg, Pa., publish it themselves. They employ more than sixty hands in the mechanical work, and more than eleven months in the year are consumed in its preparation. It can be obtained, without cost, of all druggists and country stores, and is printed in English, German, French, Welsh, Norwegian, Swedish, Italian, Bohemian and Spanish.

There are men who go to a gymnasium for exercise while their wives are sewing the woof.
