Late News.

A Marshfield (Or.) man is filling an order for 200 flagpoles for the Midwinter Fair.

Sacramento is looking around for a new city hall. The present accommodations are insufficient.

A court decision relieves Colorado of all the liability for the issue of $400,000 in bonds by San Diego.

Twenty or thirty miles below Eddy, N. M., prospectors have come across some fine Aztec ruins, and excavations are to be made at once.

The shingle manufacturers of the Pacific Northwest are perfecting an organization. Signatures of 75 per cent of the manufacturers of Western Washington have already been secured.

It is stated at San Diego that Mayor Carlson has obtained in the City of Mexico a concession and large bonus for building a railroad across Lower California from San Diego to Yuma.

All the way east from Goler, the new gold district in Kern county, Cal., to the south end of Death Valley the country is being prospected. Hundreds of men are scattered all over the region.

President Lillis of the Pacific Coast Association of Fire Chiefs has issued a call for the second annual meeting at San Francisco February 6 to 9. Ex-Chief Kellogg of Seattle is listed to read a paper.

The City Council and Trades' Council at Tacoma ridicule the proposition of the Chamber of Commerce to reduce municipal salaries 50 per cent. The city's funds will run out on March 1 under the present rate of expenses, and additional funds will not be available till July.

At San Jose, Cal., there has been filed in the Superior Court a petition by County Treasurer Joseph A. Lotz, asking that the trustees of the Leland Stanford (Jr.) University, Mrs. Jane L. Stanford, Jr., individually and as executrix of Leland Stanford's will and other legacies under said will, be cited to appear and show cause why the tax on the amounts of the collateral devise and bequests provided for in the will have not been paid. This is the first case brought under the State inheritance tax law passed last March.

Arthur Dudley Vinton, attorney for the Prescott and Arizona Central railroad, has filed a petition for the appointment of a receiver for the Atlantic and Pacific railroad. The petition is very voluminous, and consists mostly of a recital of the numerous suits which he has instituted against the Atlantic and Pacific Company on behalf of the road he represents, which quit business three months ago. The petitioner incorporated his disapproval of the appointment of Reinhart and McCook as receivers of the Atchison Company. Beyond the filing no action was taken on the petition.

The net earnings of the Oregon Railway and Navigation according to the reports of the Union Pacific have for several years shown a deficiency after paying the 6 per cent stipulated in the lease, on the Oregon Railway and Navigation stock, and it is not thought the deficiency can be overcome by the receivers of the Union Pacific. The bondholders want their interest, as is evidenced by the petition of the Farmers' Loan and Trust Company, the holder of a mortgage on all the property securing the bonds. The question seems susceptible of three resolutions, either the stockholders will have to wait for their returns or the court will have to order the deficiency made up out of the other funds of the Union Pacific or else set aside the lease. Should the lease be set aside, it is said the Oregon Railway and Navigation would go into the hands of a receiver. Railroad men say this would result in a revision of rates.

The San Francisco Bridge Company has made an assignment for the benefit of creditors. The failure was precipitated by the loss of the big raft of piers which the company tried to bring down from Coos Bay. It broke up off the coast of Humboldt county, and became a total loss. It is believed, however, that the company has assets sufficient to satisfy all creditors and resume business, and that the assignment is really to gain time. The assignment was made to Sheriff McDade under the new law. He has placed a keeper in charge of the company's office. He has nothing to do, however, but safely keep the property until an assignee can be elected by the creditors. An election must take place within ten days, by which time the company expects to see its way clear to resume business. The schedule of liabilities filed in the records office allows that the company owes $172,822.28, nearly all of which is due to local banks and business houses.

THE MIDWINTER EXPOSITION.

(Weekly Circular Letter—No. 7.)

The work of preparation for the Exposition has now reached a point where the aesthetic ideas of the management are beginning to bear fruit. All the main buildings are practically finished, so far as the details of construction are concerned, and now comes the matter of decoration. Charles Graham, the well-known artist—better known, perhaps, in the East than in California on account of his extensive experience with the Harpers, and more recently with the Columbian Exposition—has been appointed as director of color for the Midwinter Exposition, and to him falls the duty of superintending the decoration of the Exposition buildings. There has been made no effort in this connection to pattern after the Columbian Exposition. The term "White City" will never be appropriately applied to this Exposition. Mr. Graham's idea has been to let delicate tints predominate, and to so distribute and arrange these that the peculiar atmospheric effects of the California climate shall be utilized to enhance their harmony and increase their beauty. Warm tones are not particularly necessary in the decoration of any group of buildings in this glorious climate of California, and the darkness of background afforded by the almost black foliage is a magnificent setting for the delicate tints which are to prevail.

Some excellent effects have already been partially produced on the main buildings, although none of them are yet to be seen in the fullness of perfection. There will be a great deal of gold in the scheme of color, although not enough of it to give the architectural group the name of the "Golden City." The domes of the Administration building will be heavily gilded, and the western sun, striking full upon them, will undoubtedly play a very important part in the picturesqueness of the panorama. Mr. Graham says that several of the buildings of this Exposition surpass in perfection of detail and architectural development the buildings of the Columbian Exposition, and that in the line of opportunity offered for picturesque and landscape effects, the like has never been seen in any exposition.

The ornamentation of the grand central court is also receiving a great deal of attention just now. The electrical fountain is being installed in one end, the basis for the allegorical fountain is in place at the other, and the sculpture will soon be ready to be put in position. The electric tower has reached a third of its height, and two more weeks will see it completed. Eight or ten inches of rich loam has been spread over the entire surface of the grand plaza, and on it will be sown the seed of the flowers and foliage which are to make this the most beautiful spot in all the beautiful Golden Gate Park. There has already been transplanted to this grand parklot a large number of bamboo plants and date palms that have been artistically distributed, and have made a favorable impression on the public, which warrants the assertion that the picture to be presented within the lines of the court, around which the main buildings are situated, will be one of surpassing loveliness. The Venetian masts, several hundred in number, which are to stand like a line of soldiery around this court, are already in position. These are to bear the flags of all nations by day, and electric arc lights at night; and between them the sun will shine upon long lines of parti-colored streamers, while the darkness of each succeeding night will be relieved by long lines of incandescent lights and fancy lanterns in the development of the carnival effects which have been contemplated in this connection.

The work on the concessional buildings is proceeding satisfactorily. The exposition will be nearer ready on opening day than has been the case of any large exposition in the history of the world. The management of the Exposition are to be particularly congratulated on the fact that in the erection of the 70 odd structures within the Exposition grounds, on which there has been an aggregate expenditure of nearly $1,000,000, there has, thus far, occurred no labor trouble, no accidents, and not even an alarm of fire.

The programme for opening day has not yet been completed, but the ceremonies will be of a character to warrant the unbottling of all the enthusiasm which San Francisco and the adjoining cities and towns have been getting up for this occasion. It took the business men of San Francisco a long while to wake up to the importance of this Exposition, but there is no longer any room for criticism on this score, and it is safe to say that when opening day shall arrive the city will be more fully decorated and its inhabitants will turn out more universally than on any other occasion that has marked the history of California.

A feature of the Exposition which has now been fully developed is that which is to include the display of citrus fruit from different parts of the state. There are in the state two citrus fair associations—that of Southern California and that of the Northern citrus counties. Both these fairs will be held this year in connection with the Midwinter Exposition, and it will be interesting to Eastern people to know that these grand displays of oranges and lemons are made in the months of January and February. The management of the state citrus fair northern district has just announced its dates to be from Jan. 15 to Feb. 15, and that of Southern California will be on at the same time. In addition to these citrus displays Fresno county has completed arrangements to erect a model of her courthouse to be constructed of oranges and raisins, so that Eastern visitors will see more wonderful displays of the golden fruit than has ever been made elsewhere.

FROM WASHINGTON CITY.

Information has reached the Treasury Department from the Appraiser of Merchandise at the port of Chicago that the transportation companies have failed to take away rapidly the portion of merchandise at the World's Fair intended for exportation; consequently there are now at least 20,000 packages lying in the buildings, which cannot be removed by December 31. The Collector has accordingly asked that the time be extended for holding the buildings as a constructive bonded warehouse, and the exposition officials have agreed to provide suitable police supervision for the customs interests during the period over which the customs control shall be maintained. In consideration of these facts the Treasury Department has instructed the Collector to continue in control of the goods referred to until further instructions are given him. It is said this condition is the result of bad faith on the part of the railroad companies, who promised to return the goods to the seaboard free if the railroad charges were paid one way. Now that the fair is over they are indifferent to the matter, and are using their own convenience and giving other freight preference.

A subject which will receive some consideration at the hands of the Committee on Appropriations of the House at this session of Congress is embodied in a bill introduced by Sayres, its Chairman, entitled "a bill to repeal certain laws relating to permanent and indefinite appropriations." Bills having this object in view have appeared perennially during the past ten years, but for various reasons have failed of enactment. The object of recalling these permanent appropriations and having Congress pass upon matters covered by them each year is that it will conduce to a more thorough and careful examination of the items of appropriation than are obtainable under the present system by which accounts are audited and passed upon by accounting officers, and where no opportunity is left for scrutiny by the Congressional committee. At the same time objection is made against the changes proposed by the bill because of the injustice that would result to claimants entitled to the amounts paid them under the present system without recourse to specific Congressional legislation. The bill now before the committee excludes from its provisions the various laws therein specified, including the sinking fund and other appropriations under which amounts to many million dollars, roughly estimated at about one-third of the total permanent appropriations. The total annual permanent appropriations for the fiscal year 1894 were $113,444,680, and it is estimated for 1895 at $101,074,680. The committee has referred the bill to Secretary Carlisle for his views on the changes proposed, and accounting officers of the department will be asked to submit their opinions before any recommendation is made in the matter by the Secretary.

The air of mystery assumed by the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations in its Hawaiian investigation gives the impression that Morgan's resolution, under which the inquiry is held, is merely a cloak for a much more important inquiry than any as to the alleged irregularity of our diplomatic relations with those islands. There is reason for believing that while presumably the present quest is for information bearing upon the conduct of Stevens and Blount there will be an effort at the same time to obtain any information which will in the first place prove the capability of the islands for self-government, and in the second the desirability or otherwise of annexing these islands at some time in the future. It is understood perfectly by members of the committee who might have these in view that there is no hope of annexing the islands under the present administration, but those who favor this disposition of the little kingdom do not intend to be swerved from their purpose by the fact that one administration is opposed to this course. Senator Morgan, Chairman of the committee, has been scrupulously careful about expressing opinions upon the Hawaiian question, or manifesting a disposition to do or say anything which would appear extra-judicial, but he is known to be a firm believer in the wisdom of attaching the islands to this country as a part of it, just as Alaska is at present attached, and the fact that he has very recently introduced a bill in the Senate providing a form of government for any acquired territory lends plausibility to the supposition that he is looking forward to possibilities far beyond anything included in the resolution under which the committee is authorized to conduct the present hearing. As a plausible explanation of the origin of the bill, and without some end like the acquisition of Hawaii, it is difficult to find any reason for its existence. Those who know Morgan best say he is not the man to attempt to secure legislation that would fit a supposition. It would appear that when the committee reports it will, so far as Morgan can direct the character of the report, smooth over the events with which they are concerned. Meantime Minister Thurston, now in Hawaii, will have been heard from as to the capacity of the present government for temporarily managing the affairs of the islands, and the information, with the corroborating testimony which the committee will be able to get together in the meantime, may have an important bearing upon the future of the committee's investigations.

THE NEW CHINESE MINISTER.

Yang Yu is a Person of Considerable Importance at Home and Abroad.

A very influential personage in the Flowery Kingdom is Mr. Yang Yu, the new Chinese minister plenipotentiary and envoy extraordinary to the United States, Spain and Peru. Besides belonging to a family of distinction, he has great wealth in city real estate, mining property and rice plantations and is altogether a man whom the authorities of his native land delight to honor. As minister to three countries he possesses great power, appointing all his official subordinates, subject to the confirmation of the emperor.

MINISTER YANG YU.

Minister Yu is of distinguished appearance and bearing, comporting himself with the easy air of a man born to authority. He is 33 years of age, rather above the medium height, stoutly built and weighs about 190 pounds. He knows no language but Chinese, but that fact is not expected to interfere with his diplomatic usefulness, as he has had much experience in statecraft and will be assisted by very able interpreters—Chinese graduates of our own best universities, one of them, Mun Yew Chung, having been coxswain of the Yale boat crew.

The minister brought with him the most numerous and most gorgeously attired staff that ever attended a foreign functionary in this country. Besides his wife and three children, it consisted of 40 officials of various grades, several of them also accompanied by their wives, and 90 servants. The diplomats are assigned by the minister to posts in the various countries under his jurisdiction. They come from all parts of China and are all of influential families and well educated. None of them knew in advance to what post he was to be sent.

Mr. Yu is credited with entertaining a very friendly feeling for the United States and is said to be anxious to maintain cordial relations between our government and his own. He possesses the complete confidence of the Chinese court, and having had charge of some of the most important customs districts in the empire has been brought more or less in contact with consuls and other government officials from all parts of the world.

He Wanted to Be Sure.

"I went down to Indiana not long ago," said a Michigan Central engineer to the reporter, "to see my folks, who live in a small town on a branch road that is about the worst I ever saw. At a way station a Hoosier came aboard, and a few minutes after he had curled up in the corner of a seat the conductor came along.

"I say, conductor," he inquired, "is this train running now?"

"Of course it is," said the conductor, taking his ticket.

"Then he relapsed again, and in about fifteen minutes he beckoned to the conductor.

"Is this train running now?" he asked as before.

"Course it is. What's the matter with you?" said the conductor angrily.

"Don't get mad about it," urged the passenger mildly. "I don't mean to insult. This yer train runs so slow that I can't tell when it's goin and when it ain't, and I've got to get off at the next station or the weddin that's set for 6 o'clock won't take place, that's all. I hain't nothin ag'in you ner the road, but I'm jist a leetle mite anxious about landin in time fer the occasion, you understand."

"The conductor apologized and the passenger was duly deposited at the appointed place."—Detroit Free Press.

Bought Old Pipes.

A valuable pipe that belonged to the late Lawrence Barrett had carved on its bowl an ideal head of Ophelia. The collecting of pipes was one of Barrett's hobbies, and he was often seen in some of the New York establishments looking up what he could find in the way of odd pipes.
