FREE RAW MATERIAL.

A protectionist friend asks us how we can defend the democratic plan of putting raw material on the free list and protecting the manufacturer. As we profess to be and are honest in our beliefs, we will answer the question squarely: We don't defend it, because it is incapable of defense. We will go further and say that the Wilson bill in its present condition is indefensible, and getting more so the longer the senate monkeys with it. Wool and sugar, for taxable purposes, are identical. If one should have a tariff the other should, and as long as the revenues of the government are raised by the tariff system, both are good subjects for taxation, because both yield a large revenue and proportionately small protection. Now, having "made an open, free confession and scorned to lie," let us examine the "raw material" subject for a moment. What is raw material? Wool, cotton, corn, iron, coal, hides or anything of that kind? Most decidedly not. The earth is raw material and labor is raw material. To illustrate, iron or coal in the earth are raw material, but when the other raw material, labor, is added, and they are taken from the earth, they become to the mine owner the finished product. To the smelter both are raw material, but the pig iron resulting is his finished product. So with wool; the wild grasses are raw material, the sheep the machine which brings to the wool grower his finished product. The uncleaned wool is to the scourer raw material, the scoured wool is to the spinner raw material, the woven cloth is to the tailor raw material, yet to each in turn a finished product. And after the garment is cast aside it is still raw material to the manufacturer of shoddy. To the manufacturer, to the miner, to every employer, labor is raw material, for of that and through that in every occupation the finished product is accomplished. We say again that the admission of raw material free of duty, while any manufactured article is protected, is indefensible, and we say to our protectionist friend that the only raw material ever admitted to the United States free or untaxed is labor, and it under every party has been admitted free. Every dollar of revenue is raised on some one's manufactured article, because no article is raw material which has had labor added to it. When the labor in this country, whether foreign or native born, is protected from that now out of it, then, and then only, will the theory of protection to American labor be stripped of fraud.

Harper's Weekly of this week contains on the first page a cartoon entitled "The Original Coxy Army," that is an object lesson. It represents the speaker of the house and president of the senate on the capitol steps, while an immense procession headed by Carnegie bearing a banner with the legend, "Help the poor steel industry!" Wainmaker with another plaintively asking assistance for "a struggling merchant," and the long array of protected industries each with "a petition." And they stepped on the grass, too.

The populists of the Eighteenth Ohio district have nominated Coxy for congress. The result of the election will be eagerly watched by the nation as an indication of public sentiment.

A FEW QUESTIONS.

We used to think that Phil Metschan was entitled to his name of "Honest Phil;" we would be pleased indeed to continue to think so, but unless he takes the seal from his lips and explains what has become of the people's money, we cannot do so. We would like him to say how $128,000 of the people's money got into the Portland banks and remained there, or still remains there? We would like him to explain where the $100,000 set aside for the Eastern Oregon insane asylum is, and whether or not he is drawing the interest therefrom? We would like to have him say whether or not the state school funds were or were not loaned out, and if so, was that the reason that Superintendent McElroy curtly informed all inquirers that "the appropriation is 70 cents?" We would like to know whether or not the desire to keep the use of the money appropriated for building the insane asylum by any possibility had anything to do with the long delay and final refusal of Metschan, Penoyer and McBride to select a site within sixty days, or to let contracts for erecting said asylum buildings. We plainly see that, failing to locate said asylum, or to let the contracts for building it, would leave $100,000 to be taken care of by the state treasurer. We want information. At six per cent the asylum money would yield $19,000 in two years, and the $128,000 in the Portland banks would yield $15,300 more. We are moved to ask these questions because we have here a state warrant for $150 issued three months ago, indorsed "presented and not paid for lack of funds." If there are no funds, why not? This is not a political question, or asked to injure Metschan's chances of election. That cannot be done. He will be elected. But let him stand up and answer.

SYMPTOMS OF DISEASE.

That the United States is going through dangerous times is patent to all. As to the cause, opinions are many, but the fact exists. From all parts of the country bands of unemployed men are traveling towards Washington. Their avowed purpose is to petition congress for relief, but this purpose is not sufficient. They are persevering as an army of locusts and are undeterred by any obstacle. So far they are in a measure law-abiding, interfering with property only to the extent of taking possession of freight trains; but will this always continue? Certainly, behind this widespread movement there is brains; there is some other object than merely to petition congress. In detail, the commonweal is weak, when united they will be strong. The tiger kitten will become a tiger, and the snarl of blood once in its nostrils will make it a dangerous animal. The traveling hordes are not a disease, they are simply the symptoms, and congress and the administration will be wise indeed if they make a correct diagnosis of it.

Hon. A. S. Bennett, the democratic candidate for judge of the supreme court, ought to be elected and he ought to have the unanimous vote of Eastern Oregon. As a lawyer he is the peer of any in the state, and will add dignity and honor to the bench. Eastern Oregon is entitled to the position, not having any member of the court. The office is non-political, and for these reasons the solid vote of Eastern Oregon should be cast for him.

The spring of 1894 has broken the record for severe and widely extended frosts. The entire United States has been visited by them even to the orange groves of Florida and Southern California. The entire fruit crop has been more or less damaged, in some sections entirely destroyed. So we of Hood River cannot complain, though we have had a sample of it.

Messrs. Peddieord and Henry, populist candidates for the legislature, and Elton, candidate for sheriff, addressed our citizens on the political questions Wednesday evening. Mr. Peddieord was the principal speaker and made an intelligent and lengthy argument in defense of the party principles. Most of his positions are tenable, and most of his arguments unanswerable.

Unless the wearing and the coming out of mourning apparel can be accomplished with decency, it would show far more respect to the dead if it were never donned at all.

Over 50,000 Parisians, it is said, earn a living by picking up and making use of what other people throw away—rags, bones, metal and such refuse.

It is far easier, if not more natural, for a man to love all womankind than to be permanently devoted and loyal to a single woman.

An Enduring Publication.

An eminent artist, known for his plain speaking, remonstrating with Oscar Wilde on his undue admiration of his own play, "Lady Windermere's Fan," remarked: "I much doubt whether such a work could live after the present season. Now, the 'School for Scandal' has lasted 100 years and is as popular to-day as ever it was." "Ah!" murmured Oscar, "but so is 'Bradshaw's Guide.'" —San Francisco Argonaut.

Little Dick—Go ask mamma if we can have these crusts she was going to throw away. Little Dot—I don't want crusts. Little Dick—Neither do I, but if we ask her for 'em she'll give us a big piece of ginger cake.—Good News.

Questions For Shoppers.

Did you ever wait for change in a bargain store? Did you ever get home and find that you had omitted to wait for said change? Did you ever lose a brand new purchase before taking a cent's worth of good out of it? Did you ever see an article just like one that you bought 10 minutes ago marked 20 per cent less in some other store?—Boston Commonwealth.

A Bright Lad,

Ten years of age, but who declines to give his name to the public, makes this authorized, confidential statement to us: "When I was one year old, my mamma died of consumption. The doctor said that I, too, would soon die, and all our neighbors thought that even if I did not die, I would never be able to walk, because I was so weak and puny. A gathering formed and broke under my arm. I hurt my finger and it gathered and threw out pieces of bone. If I hurt myself so as to break the skin, it was sure to become a running sore. I had to take lots of medicine, but nothing has done me so much good as Ayer's Sarsaparilla. It has made me well and strong." —T. D. M., Norcatur, Kans.

MIDNIGHT.

Will serve during the season of 1894 at OLLINGER & BONE'S Stables, Hood River Oregon.

DESCRIPTION.

MIDNIGHT is a coal-black Hambletonian, 6 years old, 18 hands high, weight 1400 pounds. Sired by Shaw's Hambletonian; Dam a Copperbottom mare. Midnight is a good dispositioned horse, a Tippy driven and quite a trotter for a horse of his size. Midnight's service fees will be $5 for a single service, to be paid at time of service, or $10 for the season due August 1st following service, or $15 to insure with foal payable April 1, 1895. Insurance cannot be given after first service, or other terms. Mares failing to catch on single service may be bred by the season by paying the additional fee. Great care will be taken to prevent accidents, but will not be responsible should they occur. For further information apply to Eph Ollinger at the barn of F. C. Brosius, owner.

CARE OF YOUNG COLTS.

This is the time of the year when much loss occurs to the farmers in the loss of young foals. A Canadian horse breeder of much experience says: Carefully watch your colt for the first ten days, and see that its bowels act properly, as the first ten days are the most critical in a foal's existence. If you can get them over the first ten days they usually require very little attention if the mare is fed judiciously. The mare should be fed some two or three weeks before she is due to foal and some time after foal, such as boiled oats, bran and linseed, that has been boiled for twelve hours, or longer, so as to loosen the system and provide a generous flow of milk. If from some cause the mare should not have sufficient milk the best substitute is cow's milk, one fourth water and a tablespoonful of honey to a pint of milk. Costiveness, diarrhoea, and inflammation are the principal ailments a young foal is subject to. The two first careful treatment will overcome; the last is, in most fatal. The following are well tried and the best remedies that have come under my notice: Costiveness—Rectal injections of luke-warm water every half hour, or syrup of sarsaparil with a few drops linseed oil; diarrhoea, tablespoonful of tincture of gentian and two tablespoonfuls lime water in a cupful linseed tea every three hours. Inflammation—Apply blanket, thickly folded and wrung out in very hot water, to belly; rub the legs well; give teaspoonful iodoform in two ounces of water. Repeat dose in two hours if necessary.

Hood River Pharmacy's

Directions for Mixing the Acme Compound.

Weigh out ten pounds of the Compound and put it in a barrel or large kettle; then pour on five gallons of boiling water gradually, until the mixture is of the consistency of soft soap—stirring it all the time. After it is thoroughly dissolved add the balance of the water (forty-five gallons), hot or cold—hot preferred. Do not boil the mixture. It is then ready to apply. Be sure and have your kettles or barrel clean (also your spraying tank) and free from other mixtures, in order to avoid clogging your spraying nozzles. Do not spray when the trees are moist. For Codlin Moth use No. 2, and spray immediately after the blossoms drop, then again four weeks after, which will destroy all other insects that may appear. Apply by means of a spray pump or a florist's syringe.

Testimonials.

Corallitos, Cal., March 26, 1894.—Watson, Erwin & Co.: I used one hundred pounds of your Acme No. 1, and it had the desired effect; it not only gets away with the insect but it cleans up the tree and leaves it in a healthy condition. I will guarantee, it will do just what it is recommended to do. Yours truly, J. E. MORTIMER.

Niles, March 14, 1894.—I have had six years' experience spraying, and used various washes to quite an extent. For the last two seasons I have used Acme Insecticide, and find it the best wash, and that it gives the best results of any I ever used. It is a very pleasant wash to use, and easily prepared.
