Mr. George Aleck, who has been visiting relatives at Simcoe, is again making glad the hearts of his old-time friends here.

It is Colonel Thompson now, for the Third regiment at its election Monday promoted Lieutenant Colonel Thompson to that office.

Ed Williams and Doug Langille went out to the Elk-beds Monday, and will probably go on up to Cloud Cap before returning.

Master Rudy Cradlebaugh is now a cadet in Bishop Scott's academy of Portland, having entered that excellent school Monday.

Will Ellis and Alfred Eastman ran across a nest of eight rattlesnakes on the bluff near their home, one day last week, and killed six of them.

We had hoped to note the shipment of strawberries this week, but the frosts and general cold weather have made the season a remarkably late one.

Our "Whole Wheat Graham" is for sale at all the stores. We guarantee every sack to be made of clean No. 1 wheat. HARRISON BROS.

The Regulator failed to make her usual trip Wednesday, but at Lyle was compelled to tie up on account of the wind, which was blowing a gale.

The Hood River box factory has the agency for the combination fence made of wire and pickets. The best and cheapest fence made. Call and see it.

Hall's Hair Renewer contains the natural food and color matter for the hair, and medicinal herbs for the scalp, curing grayness, baldness, dandruff and scurf.

About 100,000 of the posts to be driven down Hood river, this summer, are now in the river. The last of them will be on their way down in about two weeks.

We are requested to state that there will be a meeting of the citizens Wednesday evening, the 23d, at 8 o'clock, for the purpose of arranging for a celebration July 4th.

The east-bound passenger Monday night was loaded to its utmost capacity with delegates on their way to the meeting of the grand lodge of Odd Fellows at Pendleton.

Misses Bess Isenberg and Ida Foss, while attending the quarterly teachers' examination at Goldendale, last week, had the misfortune to lose a pocket-book containing $35.

J. E. Hanna and L. Nell went to Pendleton, Tuesday, representing Idlewild lodge of Odd Fellows in the grand lodge. Mr. Hanna visited Heppner on the way home.

Miss M. Dahl, representing Mrs. M. Le Ballister of The Dalles, will be in Hood River every Saturday. Hergoods will be displayed at Rand, Dent & Co.'s store. Be sure to call.

Mrs. Joseph Brant of Vancouver, after a week's visit to her sister, Mrs. Bert Graham, returned home this week, Mrs. Graham accompanying her.

75 acres of land for sale all fenced in, and within 3 miles of Mosier station. Half cash balance on time a living spring on the property. Enquire at this office. Price $15 per acre.

Ever since Pague left Portland the Oregon weather has run wild. Monday would have passed muster at Pasco, and Tuesday would have not been found had it slipped into latitude 85.

The Hood River Box Co. has put in its machinery and is prepared to roll barley or wheat. The Co. also keeps on hand all kinds of rough and dressed lumber. Agents for combination fence.

O. B. Hartley, accompanied by his sister and Miss Nannie Mercer, went to Wasco overland Saturday last. They expected to be home Tuesday, but the wind storm compelled them to remain a day longer.

With our next issue this paper completes its fifth year. If all our delinquents would remember us in the shape of squaring up their accounts for subscription, the day would be one long remembered.

The Dalles Dramatic club presented "Enlisted for the War" to a crowded house at that place Tuesday evening. The club possesses talent which if cultivated would make it take high rank in the profession.

While moving some brush and wire back of Olinger & Issue's barn, one day this week, Winnie Olinger found a barley sack containing the cutlery and four pairs of shoes taken from Blowers' store by the burglars.

I have arranged for handling strawberries and other fruits the coming season, and having had ten years experience in the commission business, feel confident of getting the best returns for my customers. C. R. BONE.

John Gerdes has opened a restaurant in connection with his bakery and will furnish meals at all hours. Meals, 25 cents; 21 meals, $4; three big loaves of bread for 10 cents. Ice cream Saturdays and Sundays.

The Dalles papers tell us there was an enthusiastic meeting of the republican club Wednesday evening at Hood River, and that they made arrangements for the reception of Hon. C. W. Fulton and also invited Hon. John Mitchell to speak at the same date, the 22d.

Perry McCrory brought in the first strawberries yesterday. They would not have been ripe enough to pick for a week yet, but the frost gave them a boost. An examination of the stalks shows that fully one-half the berries in his patch are killed, and only the very late ones will find their way to market.

Rev. H. F. Gilt and wife left for Eugene Wednesday afternoon, a large number of friends being at the depot to bid them farewell. Mr. Gilt leaves a host of friends here besides those of his church, and he and his estimable wife will prove a valuable addition to the society of the pretty city of Eugene.

A heavy frost prevailed here Wednesday night, in spots. Some of the berry patches have been injured, and possibly some of the orchard fruits; but it is impossible to estimate the amount of damage. That the damage is not general, however, we are quite sure from the many reports we have had, covering all sections of the valley.

A Republican Orator.

Hon. Roswell G. Horr, ex-congressman from Michigan, and at present chief assistant editor of the New York Tribune, will address the citizens of Wasco county on political questions, at The Dalles Friday, May 25th.

ETIQUETTE OF DINNERS.

How the Various Dishes Should Be Served and Eaten.

One may be refined and elegant, yet unless continually given over to a round of social entertaining may find one's self at a loss when invited to some swill dinner where the latest fads are observed and more ceremonious etiquette required than for informal affairs just among the family.

On elegant tables each plate is accompanied by two large silver knives, a small silver knife and fork for fish, a small fork for oysters, a tablespoon for soup and three large forks. The napkin is folded in the center with a piece of bread upon it. As the courses are served the knives and forks and spoons that have been used are removed with the plate. Fish should be eaten with a silver fork, and if full of bones needs the use of the knife as well. For sweet breads, cutlets, roast beef, etc., the knife is also necessary, but for croquettes, rissoles, bondies a la Reine, timbales and dishes of that class the fork is required.

When dessert is reached, everything save the tablecloth and floral decorations is removed. A dessert plate with a small silver spoon, a dessert spoon and fork and sometimes a combination fork and spoon for ices are placed before each guest.

Pears and apples are peeled with a silver knife, cut in quarters and eaten with the fingers. Grapes should be eaten from behind the half closed hand, the stones and skins falling into the fingers unobserved and thence to the plate. Oranges are eaten with a spoon.

Salad is eaten with a fork, but needs a knife to cut large leaves that have not been divided before serving. Cheese is eaten with a fork, though soft cheeses are spread on a bit of cracker or bread and conveyed to the mouth by the fingers.

Saltcellars are now placed at each plate, and it is not improper to take salt with the knife.
If sorbets are served before the game, a dessert spoon accompanies them, but it is not among the original number placed on the table. The small after dinner coffee spoon is used with the tiny cups of the black beverage that concludes all dinners.

The spoon is the most dangerous implement of the dinner, so far as its correct usage is concerned. Soup is always taken taken from the side, and is eaten noiselessly. To push the spoon into the mouth either end first or otherwise is decidedly vulgar. —Philadelphia Times.

When Going In to Dinner.

Going in to dinner the host leads the way with the lady he desires most to distinguish, and the hostess with the gentleman whom she intends seating at her right hand. It has been customary of late years for the gentlemen to find in their dressing room tiny envelopes containing cards upon which are written the names of the ladies whom they are expected to take in to dinner. It saves some trouble to the hostess, as each gentleman co-operates with her in finding his way to the lady designed for his special attention. —Ladies' Home Journal.

Sad Associations.

Of the sad and awful associations that lurk in certain odors, who can bear to speak? No one who has bent in tearless agony above quiet hands folded over fading white roses. Or who—but there are some things even memory dare not recall. —Boston Commonweal.

An Unfought Duel.

Dr. Virchow, the eminent man of science, had been sharply criticizing Prince Bismarck, who was then chancellor.

At the end of a particularly severe attack Bismarck felt himself personally affronted and sent seconds to Virchow with a challenge to fight a duel.

The man of science was found in his laboratory, hard at work, at experiments which had for their object the discovery of a means of destroying trichings, which were making great ravages in Germany.

"Ah," said the doctor, "a challenge from Prince Bismarck, eh! Well, well! As I am the challenged party, I suppose I have the choice of weapons. Here they are!"

He held up two large sausages, which seemed to be exactly alike.

"One of these sausages," he said, "is filled with triching; it is deadly. The other is perfectly wholesome. Externally they can't be told apart. Let his excellency do me the honor to choose whichever of these he wishes and eat it, and I will eat the other!"

Though the proposition was as reasonable as any duelling proposition could be, Prince Bismarck's representatives refused it. No duel was fought, and no one accused Virchow of cowardice. —Youth's Companion.

Irish Football.

Football in Ireland may be said to consist of three parts—Rugbeian, Association and Gaelic. The rule of play in these organizations has been defined as follows: In Rugby, you kick the ball; in Association, you kick the man if you cannot kick the ball, and in Gaelic you kick the ball if you cannot kick the man. This puts the present procedure and position of the rival devotees into a nutshell. The Associationists are mainly confined to Belfast, where they form a body which it would be as difficult to convict of professionalism as it would be for them to prove that they are amateurs.

The Gael is a free and festive community, who have their headquarters at Clontarf park, Drumcon dra, County Dublin. This park is conveniently situated between Glasnevin graveyard and the Mater Misericordia hospital. A man has been known to pass from the football field direct to the hospital, and from the hospital to the cemetery, another match being then got up to raise funds for the benefit of next of kin, thus running the risk of killing a few more for the benefit of the deceased. —Rev. F. Marshall.

His Father Is a "Boss."

In one of the grammar schools on the east side is a boy who has a great admiration for his father. His father's word is law to him, though he pays not the slightest attention to anything that his mother may say. This bright young one was very much disgusted by the question put to him by his teacher when he first entered the grammar school. After giving his name to the teacher he was asked, "What is your father's occupation?" "Wot's that?" was his reply in a mystified tone.
"What is your father's business? What does he do?"
"Do? Why he don't do nothing. He just bosses, see?" the boy answered, in a most aggrieved way.
The boy's father is foreman in the street cleaning department, and his son had seen him directing the men under him, and so considered it an insult that any one should suppose that his father worked like ordinary mortals. —New York Times.

It Never Forgot His Kindness.

A touching instance of insect instinct has just been published. A writer says: "I found a cockroach struggling in a bowl of water. I took half a walnut shell for a boat. I put him into it and gave him two wooden toothpicks for oars and left him. The next morning I visited him, and he had put a piece of white cotton thread on one of the toothpicks and set the toothpick on end as a signal of distress. He had a hair on the other toothpick, and there that cockroach sat a-fishing. The cockroach, exhausted, had fallen asleep. The sight melted me to tears. I took that cockroach out, gave him a spoonful of gruel and left. The animal never forgot my kindness, and now my house is chock full of cockroaches."

Knowledge of Grammar Not Necessary.

One is sorry to see that English literature is to be introduced by English grammar, a certain method of rendering it unpopular. The grammar should be learned through the literature, and indeed in its technical and gerund grinding sense does not require to be learned at all. I have known most of the best writers of English during the last half century, and not one of them ever so much as held an English grammar in his hand. —London Illustrated News.

Mistake of a Blind Boa Constrictor.

A boa constrictor that was nearly blind was once found to be contentedly swallowing a blanket for dinner instead of a rabbit, which was also within reach, and it was only with great difficulty that it was forced to disgorge this singular article of food. A snake's tongue is therefore not an organ of taste, nor is it, as many think, a sting; it is more probably a delicate organ of touch. —Chambers' Journal.

A Gentleman

Who formerly resided in Connecticut, but who now resides in Honolulu, writes: "For 20 years past, my wife and I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor, and we attribute to it the dark hair which she and I now have, while hundreds of our acquaintances, ten or a dozen years younger than we, are either gray-headed, white, or bald. When asked how our hair has retained its color and fullness, we reply, 'By the use of Ayer's Hair Vigor—nothing else.'"

"In 1858, my affianced was nearly bald, and the hair kept falling out every day. I induced her to use Ayer's Hair Vigor, and very soon, it not only checked any further loss of hair, but produced an entirely new growth, which has remained luxuriant and glossy to this day. I can recommend this preparation to all in need of a genuine hair-restorer. It is all that it is claimed to be."—Antonio Alarrun, Bastrop, Tex.

NOTICE FOR PUBLICATION.

(Timber Land, Act June 3, 1873.)
United States Land Office,
The Dalles, Oregon, March 25, 1894.
Notice is hereby given that in compliance with the provisions of the act of Congress of June 3, 1878, entitled "An act for the sale of timber lands in the States of California, Oregon, Nevada and Washington Territory," James M. Hoag, of Hood River, county of Wasco, state of Oregon, has this day filed in this office his sworn statement No. 100, for the purchase of lots two, three, four and nine, of section thirty, in township No. one north, range No. nine east, W. M., and will offer proof to show that the land sought is more valuable for its timber and stone than for agricultural purposes, and to establish his claim to said land here the Register and Receiver of this office at The Dalles, Oregon, on Monday, the 11th day of June, 1894.
His names as witnesses: Herbert Ellsworth, Marion Loy, George C. Jones Jr. and John Divers, all of Hood River, Oregon.
Any and all persons claiming adversely the above-described lands are requested to file their claims in this office on or before said 11th day of June, 1894.
