S. E. Bartness is agent for the Bridal Veil Lumber Company.

Mr. Hartley's house has been finished with a new coat of paint.

O. B. Hartley has horses and fresh milk-cows to trade for ordwood.

Charles Early and wife of Chewoneth paid relatives a visit here Monday.

If you want to buy a farm, come to this shop and we will give you some pointers.

J. W. Connell of Barre, Vermont, was here last Friday looking for a place to locate.

Seventy-nine hundredths of an inch of rain fell on Saturday night and 1.11 Thursday morning.

A big barn went sailing down the river Monday morning. It looked like John Stanley's.

The Regulator Sunday brought us our first mail since May 23th. It was received with thanks.

Double moulded doors, $1.75. All kinds moulding, 1 cent per inch.

HOOD RIVER MFG. CO.

We need ten cords of wood, and will gladly trade newspaper for it. Sixteen inch stove wood preferred.

Governor Moody was a passenger on the Regulator on her up trip Sunday and remained here over night.

If you want to buy a farm, anything from five acres to 500, call at this shop and we will give you a pointer.

Bert Langille, who has been attending school at the Stanford university in California, arrived home Sunday night.

Doug Langille is laid up with a very sore hand, maiming a silver in it from an oar while rowing on the river last Friday.

Round trip tickets to Portland, good for return ten days from date of sale, $3. Tickets on sale daily until September 30th.

From 8 until 10 o'clock Monday evenings the Glacier barber shop will be at the service of the ladies for shampooing, etc.

The steamer John Gates came down from Umatilla to Celilo Monday, bringing a lot of passengers and the mail from the East.

Miss Alice Graham, who has been stopping in town for the past three weeks, went out to her home at Mt. Hood Wednesday.

Clarence English returned from a trip to Portland Sunday night, having gone down to see how the metropolis looks during high water.

To retain an abundant head of hair of a natural color to a good old age, the hygiene of the scalp must be observed. Apply Hall's Hair Renewer.

A large force of men are repairing the telephone line, and communication with the Cascade Locks and The Dalles no doubt, will soon be the result.

Our "Whole Wheat Graham" is for sale at all the stores. We guarantee every sack to be made of clean No. 1 wheat.

HARBISON BROS.

The Hood River box factory has the agency for the combination fence made of wire and pickets. The best and cheapest fence made. Call and see it.

We acknowledge the receipt of an invitation to be present at the commencement exercises of the university of Eugene, commencing June 17th and ending the 21st.

At The Dalles, Wednesday, George Prather measured 41 feet of water in Third street in front of the court house, and at the same time it was three inches deep in the clerk's and sheriff's offices.

George T. Prather took the election returns from West Hood River and Capt. F. M. Jackson those from East Hood River to The Dalles Tuesday, returning Thursday morning on the Regulator.

I have arranged for handling strawberries and other fruits the coming season, and having had ten years experience in the commission business, feel confident of getting the best returns for my customers.

C. R. BONE

The vote on the legislative ticket in Sherman county was: Axtell, pro., 93; Tozier, pro., 211; Brock, dem., 148; Harrison, dem., 137; Coon, rep., 260; McGee, rep., 267; Henry, pop., 186; Peddicord, pop., 205.

Law Morse intended to come down from The Dalles on the Regulator Monday, but he did not for the reason that the boat did not come. However, he paired with his opponent, T. J. Driver.

There will be a meeting today at 2 o'clock, at Blowers & Co.'s store, to perfect arrangements for the 4th of July celebration.

All efforts to get our paper from Portland this week were unsuccessful and we are compelled to issue the GLACIER as you see it.

A platform was placed under the fruit grower's building in front of the depot, Wednesday, to keep it from going down with the high water.

75 acres of land for sale all fenced in, and within 3 miles of Mosier station. Half cash balance on time a living spring on the property. Enquire at this office. Price $15 per acre.

The Hood River Box Co. has put in its machinery and is prepared to roll barley or wheat. The Co. also keeps on hand all kinds of rough and dressed lumber. Agents for combination fence.

The lightning Saturday night struck the telephone wires or poles near the summit, five miles east of town, shattering them badly. Ed Williams went out Sunday to see about having the damage repaired, but found the wires all right.

The Indians from Yakima, The Dalles and Warm Springs have gathered here to the number of about 200 to pick berries. They have nearly fifty tents on A. B. Jones' place and expect to give a big dance in his barn Saturday night. They will dance American fashion until 12 o'clock, then the Indian custom will hold full sway till morning. They have their own orchestra.

The Regulator did not make her regular trip Monday on account of a bad slide on the portage, which made the transfer next to impossible. She took a large number of crates of berries on her down trip Sunday, but being unable to get them across the portage, returned them the same night. The nearest feature of the whole business is that we can't even can them; the town, like The Dalles, having a sugar famine.

BORN.

Mrs. Oilar leaves one son and five daughters; the son and one daughter living here, two daughters living in Iowa and two in California. Deceased united with the Baptist church at the age of 18 and remained a member of the same until four years ago when she united with the United Brethren church of this place of which she was a member at the time of her death.

CARD OF THANKS.

For the kindness and sympathy of our friends during the sickness and death of our mother, we tender our sincere thanks and heartfelt gratitude.

ASAHEL OILAR,
HATTIE OILAR.

Questions About Change.

Did you ever start out with more errands than you had time to do, grudging every moment of delay, and find yourself without your purse when the conductor called for your fare? Did you ever see a conductor hold the pennies that some other passenger gave in change till you passed up your coin and then work them off on you?

Did you ever think that you'd lost your purse and make frantic little dashes into any place that could hold it and presently find it where it belonged? Did you ever take perforated dimes and quarters in exchange for good coin? Still worse, did you ever hand up a coin in good faith and see the salesman ring it on the counter and say "N. G.?"—Boston Commonwealth.

How A. T. Stewart's Body is Guarded.

The body of the late American millionaire, Alexander T. Stewart, was once stolen from the St. Marie's church graveyard in New York, and the robbers demanded a ransom for its restoration. The amount having been agreed upon and the body recovered it was deposited in a splendid crypt in the cathedral at Garden City, and in order to prevent any future body snatching the coffin is now in direct electric communication with the cathedral bells, which would sound an instant alarm if it were being tampered with.—Exchange.

An Aged Man's Amusement.

Henry Russell, the veteran composer of "Cheer, Boys, Cheer," passes half the day in making miniature chests of drawers. They are in every respect a work of art, each drawer fitting with a truly remarkable exactness. The dear old gentleman has a room on the ground floor of his charming house especially set apart for his work, and therein may be seen all kinds of tools and nails, two benches, tins of paint, glue pots and large planks of wood.

He never attempts to make any thing else but these little chests of drawers, and he often sends them to charity bazaars, where, if his autograph is on them, they have been known to fetch as much as $2 or $3. Thus he provides himself with an innocent amusement and does good at the same time.—London Tit-Bits.

The Mighty Columbia.

The annual flood of the Columbia is an occasion that is always looked upon with dread by the settlers living within the reach of its mighty waters. This season it has so far outdone all former efforts that the notable floods of '82, '74, '80 and '82 are completely left in the shade. The mark of '76, that up to this year carried the "broom," has been passed by nearly five feet, and no one has the temerity to try the end. The situation in the Willamette valley is simply awful and beggars description. Below Vancouver the river covers the land from mountain to mountain, a distance of nearly twenty miles, and the losses can scarcely be computed. Houses, barns, fences, and in fact everything except the very land, has gone. The labor of years, the results of toil and industry, gone in a day. Not only the improvements, but the crops and the prospect of after crop for the year are gone beyond peradventure. At the Cascades the sight is gruesome, indeed. At the lower end of the portage, on the Washburn side, everything is gone; not a building remains; round house, warehouse, residences and all have been swallowed up by the relentless flood. At the Garrison many houses have gone, and probably every one will be swept away, and so on the story goes to the very spring head of this raging stream; with resistless power it rushes downward to the sea, bearing on its angry bosom the evidences of its cruel work. We turn away sick at heart, the unbidden tear of pity fills our eyes for those who in this evil hour have been left homeless and destitute. God pity them.

Sinking of the Harvest Queen.

Sunday morning last the Union Pacific authorities, recognizing the necessity of some sort of connection with its eastern division, ordered the steamer Harvest Queen fitted up for the purpose of attempting to scale the rapids at the Cascades. Reaching the Cascades at noon, she immediately "tackled the proposition." After a half day's struggle with the rushing waters she succeeded in reaching a point above the most difficult place, but night coming on, was compelled to drop down to a suitable place to tie up. In making the landing she struck a rock, knocking a hole in her, and before assistance could be had she sank to the bottom in about six feet of water. The Queen was too old a boat to have undertaken such a job. Her officers were Capt. Ed Baughman, master; Capt. H. C. Coe, pilot; John Anderson, engineer. All were old and competent swift-water men. We hope the next attempt will be more successful.

Irrigation Rates for 1894.

The following rates will be in force from and after May 1st:

Each half lot or less.....75 cts.

Each lot or less.....$1.50

No deduction for a number of lots will be made. Parties not regular consumers will not be allowed to use water for irrigation. Regular consumers desiring to use water must first apply to the agent and have time allotted to them. Time allowed will be 2 hours a day three times a week. Street sprinkling is positively prohibited; sidewalk sprinkling, according to schedule rate. The Hydrant Co. will reserve the right to curtail irrigation whenever it interferes with household uses.

H. C. COE.

For The Grand Dalles.

If pleasant the steamer Irma will make the round trip to the grand Dalles tomorrow (Sunday) leaving at 7:30 a. m. sharp. Take your girl and see the mighty river as it was never seen before, and never will be again. Fare for round trip 75 cents.

Pine Trees on Volcanoes.

Every one who admires trees must be interested in the result of Professor Heilprin's studies of the pines that clothe the slopes of the great volcanic mountains of Mexico. These huge peaks seem to have pierced their way upward through a mantle of pine forest, which clings to their sides up to a height of nearly 3 1/2 miles.

The vertical range of the pine in Mexico is remarkable. It is found among the sun loving palm trees at the foot of the mountains, and it stands defiant of the cold close to the perpetual snows that cover their summits.—Youth's Companion.

Columbian Stamps For Etiquette.

An elderly lady in a modest manner leaned over the counter of a west end drug store, and pointing to a letter with a Columbian stamp asked:

"Will you please tell me if these stamps are good for just common use?" When assured that they were so intended, she bowed politely and remarked as she left: "I didn't know. I thought they were to be used perhaps for etiquette."

"I have to answer that same question 10 times a day," said the clerk, "but I wonder what she meant by etiquette."—Baltimore Sun.

Willie Thought It Was "Jam."

"A door has two jambs. Write that on the blackboard, Willie." And Willie wrote, "A daw has two jambs," and his teacher had to admit that he was right.—Harper's Buzar.

He—With all my soul, my dear; but why do you ask?

She—Because I know mamma is listening.—Exchange.

THE PERFECT BLOOM.

'Tis not the bud, though wondrous fair,
Nor yet the full blown, regal rose,
But that rare charm, half seen, half crossed,
Unfolding from her spicy breast
A subtle fragrance on the air,
A pink blush where her sweets repose,
And slow unveil in modest bliss,
Wooded by the sun's warm, loving kiss.

'Tis not the child, though dimpled fair,
Nor yet the woman's thoughtful face
That wins most hearts. 'Tis that sweet blush
On girlhood's cheek like sunset's blush
The bloom of heaven that lingers there,
And crowns her with angelic grace,
Her clear, pure eyes behold afar
The glory of Hope's gate ajar.

God grant this perfect opening flower
May blossom full without a blight;
May wear her crown of womanhood
As something noble, grand and good;
May spend her strength in righteous power,
With heartstrings ever tuned aright.
Then shall God's presence, like a dove,
O'ershadow her with wings of love.
—Rose Thorpe in Ladies' Home Journal.

Wonderful Work of Earthworms.

Darwin, the great naturalist, gave it as his opinion that earthworms annually bring to the surface not less than 10 tons of dirt to every acre of earth-coverage. This they do through swallowing earth for the sake of the vegetable matter it may contain, the rejected "casting" being the portion brought to the surface, because it is rendered unfit for further use by the action of the worm's digestive fluids. Thus it will be seen that earthworms are the farmer's best friends, aiding in agricultural work by rendering the surface porous. Their work of constant perforating makes the soil highly pervious to rains, the tender stalks of plants, etc. They also cover up decaying vegetable matter that may be lying upon the surface and perform other services that are as yet unexplainable.

The earth without worms would be like dough without yeast, cold, hard bound and void of fermentation, and consequently sterile. This has been the case in many instances where the earthworms have been accidentally or intentionally destroyed. In all such cases the lost fertility of the soil has been again restored as soon as the worms resumed their work of fertilization.—St. Louis Republic.

A Horse That Reasoned.

One very dark night a doctor was driving along at a fast trot on a level road, when he heard a wagon approaching at a rapid pace from the opposite direction. He could see nothing, but as his lights were burning brightly and the highway was a broad one he was not alarmed. Suddenly, however, his horse made a violent jump to the left and crossed the road just in time to let the approaching team, driven, as it appeared by a drunken man, dash by in the track which the doctor's buggy had that instant left.

The intelligent creature had waited till the last minute, thinking that the vehicle would keep to the right, and then, when she knew a collision to be inevitable, had sprung out of the path of danger.—Road, Track and Stable.

An Interesting Change.

Students of natural history have pointed out many instances of animals and birds adapting themselves to changed conditions of life. A somewhat interesting example of this is asserted to be taking place at the present time in Australia. The fleeces of the strains of English sheep imported into that continent are said to be growing decidedly lighter, owing to the fact that the heavy fleeces is not necessary under a warmer sky.—New York Post.

House Furnishing.

A woman who was confiding to her street car companion that she intended to give her husband "a sofa pillow for the sitting room lounge," her eldest son "a set of swinging shelves for some china in the dining room" and her daughter "a silver inkstand that can go on the library table," glared very fiercely at a man who remarked to his companion that many homes were furnished on the "Christmas installment plan."—Exchange.

A Thief's Candor.

A bandit thief appeared the other day before the correctional tribunal in Paris. The judge, addressing him, "Tell me now, why did you steal this pair of old shoes?" The thief, "I thought they were new."—London News.

The tower of Babel at Babylon was composed of eight square towers, one upon the other, the pile being 660 feet high. Babylon was a square, 15 miles on each side, the walls 87 feet thick and 370 feet high.

Fast Talkers.

When Charles Mathews was in this country, the rapidity of his speech was a cause of much astonishment, but there was no loss of distinctness on that account. He was said to be the most rapid talker and singer on the stage. Sarah Bernhardt talks at a furious speed sometimes, but every speech that is to be spoken fast is practiced again and again, a little more quickly each time, in order to insure clearness of utterance.

An Enthusiast Indeed.

Mrs. Trulove—What on earth ever induced you to engage yourself to Count Lackpenny?

Miss Bricklybrac—Why, my dear, don't you know that he will inherit a service of renaissance plate? How it will improve my collection!—Jewellers' Weekly.

A Bright Lad,

Ten years of age, but who declines to give his name to the public, makes this authorized, confidential statement to us:

"When I was one year old, my mamma died of consumption. The doctor said that I, too, would soon die, and all our neighbors thought that even if I did not die, I would never be able to walk, because I was so weak and puny. A gathering formed and broke under my arm. I hurt my legs and it pained me to throw out pieces of bone. If I hurt myself so as to break the skin, it was sure to become a running sore. I had to take lots of medicine, but nothing has done me so much good as Ayer's Sarsaparilla. It has made me well and strong."—T. D. M., Norcatur, Kans.

NOTICE FOR PUBLICATION.

[Timber Land, Act June 3, 1878.]

United States Land Office,
The Dalles, Oregon, March 21, 1894.

Notice is hereby given that in compliance with the provisions of the act of Congress of June 3, 1878, entitled "An act for the sale of timber lands in the States of California, Oregon, Nevada and Washington Territory," James M. Hogg, of Hood River, county of Wasco, State of Oregon, has this day filed in this office his sworn statement No. 1000, for the purchase of lots two, three, four and nine, of section thirty, in township No. one north, range No. nine east, W. M., and will offer proof to show that the land sought is more valuable for its timber and stone than for agricultural purposes, and to establish his claim to said land before the Register and Receiver of said office at The Dalles, Oregon, on Monday, the 11th day of June, 1894.

He names as witnesses Herbert Ellsworth, Marion Lay, George C. Jones Jr and John Divers, all of Hood River, Oregon.

Any and all persons claiming adversely the above-described lands are requested to file their claims in this office on or before said 11th day of June, 1894.
