Two weeks ago Sherman county was visited by a rainfall that made the roads muddy for three days.

Dr. G. E. Sanders delivered his first of a series of lectures on dentistry Wednesday evening. Owing to the fact that the evening was the warmest of the season, and many of our citizens are away in the mountains, the audience was not so large as it should have been. Those who attended were well entertained.

From Oklahoma, Wash:

William Orser of the Oklahoma setdement, near Chenowith, Wash., was in town Monday. He reports good crops in his neighborhood. The settlement had a fine crop of strawberries, which commenced to ripen about the 4th of July, making them just right for late berries. Black-cap raspberries, Booth. wild, were plentiful, and now the woods are full of wild blackberries.

Oklahoma settlement is in the upper part of the Little White Salmon settlement, seven miles from Chenowith. It derived its name from the grand rush for government land that was made here two years ago, which was likened unto the rush to Oklahoma. When the boomers learned that they had to work their claims to make them pay, most of them abandoned their places and left the country. Government land can yet be taken in this settlement. Mr. Orser or David Schock will gladly show intending settlers over the valley free of charge; but, Mr. Orser says, no bachelors need apply. Fameling his lots corner Fourth and River llies are wanted, so that schools can be established and supported.

> The new wagon road up the valley from Cook's Landing on the Columbia. known as the West Side road, is so far completed that wagons can travel it.

> Mr. Orser and family and Bert Veatch and wife will start next Monday for the Yakima hop fields. They will go with their teams, prepared to camp out on the way.

The little child of William Wallace of Chenowith was quite sick the first tator at the conference. part of the week.

Is Mars Inhabited?

During the next two or three months pearance of Mars as seen through the big telescopes of the world. The Schiaparelli "canals" will be observed and photographed with more care than they were in 1802 by even the famous Italian whose name they bear.

It has been pretty well establisted that Mars has an atmosphere, that its poles are capped with snow, covering at times almost the entire frigid zones Mr. Hunt has taken the contract of of the planet, and that its temperate clearing five acres for O. L. Stranahan and torrid zones are divided into seas adjoining A. B. Jones on Indian and continents. But we have no good grounds as yet for believing that Mars Five teams are kept busy hauling is inhabited by animate beings of any vegetation have an existence there. nite about these matters before the close of the year.

Mars will soon be in opposition and the planet is also near perihelion. At will be only about 40,000,000 miles from the earth. This is some 5,000,000 further than it was at the opposition of 1892, but the planet is so much further north now than it was then-nearly 33 better advantage by American and European observers than was possible two years ago.

It was such as to enable him to make out a dozen of those "canals' two months and a half, is the way Prof. Lowell puts it, before the summer solstice of Mars' southern hemisphere. At first "Mars assumed his old-fashioned, orthodox appearance, quite Freight Rates Greatly guiltless of cauals and such like inexplicapabilities, an appearance which the admirable drawings of Mr. Green have raised to the rank of portraiture and to the finality of which the Royal Astronomical Society, by its skepticism of Schiaparelli, has done so much to commit itself." But a few nights later 'the disk began to show symptoms of heresy to these established Anglican views, until finally in the best moments, under better air, the planet's surface came out with all the clear-cut character of a steel engraving as Schia-parelli and Terby have described it."

The professor devotes a considerable portion of his article in Astronomy and Astro-Physics to a description of these canals as he saw them. A vast vernal freshet seems to be in process now on the planet. The polar snow cap is melting fast, or rather disappearing. The disappearance may be caused in part by evaporation, but their telescope furnishes them direct evidence of the melting process. As to whether fresh Montana.

From Trout Lake.

S. J. LaFrance and family arrived home Tuesday from Trout Lake, after a week well spent at this delightful meiting process. As to whether fresh or salt water is produced, he cannot say, but this is a vital question for the theory of irrigation by means of Schlaparelii's irrigating canals. These canals are supposed to be filled at the vernal freshets caused by the melting of the snow ways. These is no story of the snow ways. summer resort. Mr. LaFrance thinks a week not long enough to rusticate there and contemplates building a not condense into cloud or fall as rain cabin for summer residence. The party or snow. Here we have a raison d'etre for the canals. In the absence of spring rains, a system of irrigation seems an absolute necessity for Mars if the planet is to support any life upon its great continental areas."

It is evident that Prof. Lowell is very much inclined to believe that Mars has not only vegetable but animal life, and that the alleged discoveries of Prof. Schiaparelli are in reality irrigating
