WINNIE WAS A WINNER

A Confiding Candidate For Conubial Bliss and Cold Cash.

A SAMPLE MATRIMONIAL "AD."

A Fresh Verification of the Theory That the Fools Are Not All Dead Yet—"You Pay the Draft; I'll Do the Rest" Was the Burden of Her Song.

The sage opinion ventured by the burnt cork philosopher that "there is a fool born every minute" seems to find a credence from the patrons of the matrimonial advertisement columns of some of our pretentious metropolitan contemporaries. It is evidently for the purpose of reducing the supply of fools that these columns are conducted. The bait dangled before the eyes of the aspirant for matrimonial bliss is always of the most tempting description. The advertiser is invariably rich, healthy and handsome and endowed with uncommon moral, social and intellectual qualities.

That such a one should need to go begging in the matrimonial market seems remarkable; that such begging should be successful seems preposterous. Yet there is abundant evidence that many fine gentlemen are hooked by the glittering bait of the matrimonial advertisement. Witness the following notice, which appeared in a New York paper, and its sequel:

A REFINED and accomplished young American lady, a good housekeeper, just completing her education in Europe, worth $40,000 and living unhappily with her guardian, wishes to correspond with some good, true man living in America who is matrimonially inclined; no objection to country life, no adventures need answer; no attention will be paid to replies unless the writers contemplate immediate matrimony and give full name, age, present occupation and state their financial standing. The photograph of the writer must also possibly be enclosed. Address Matrimonial, box 900, 403 Oxford street, London, Eng. and.

This tempting "ad." caught the hopeful eye of a young St. Louis man, who wrote to the "accomplished young American lady" and pictured himself in glowing colors. He was literally rolling in wealth, and all he needed was a handsome wife to help him spend it. We have the word of our voracious contemporary, the St. Louis Republic, for it that he received the following letter in reply:

MY DEAR FRIEND—Among the many replies that I have received to my matrimonial advertisement signed Box 900, 403 Oxford street, London, England, yours is the only one I intend to answer. I do not know why, but it seems as if I was guided in my choice by God and the

WINNIE WOODWARD.

(Taken from the photograph sent to St. Louis.) spirit of my angel mother. I was born and reared in New York city. My mother died first and then my father. I am the only child. My father's will left me his entire property, with my uncle as sole trustee until I marry, when his power over me ceases, thank God, forever. My property consists principally of bank stocks and railroad bonds.

Now, my uncle, who came here from London to drink the mineral waters for his health, in order to carry out his own selfish ends desires me the company of all young men and constantly forces upon me the society of his son, a wretched dunc, whom I despise and whom he wishes me to marry in order to keep the money belonging to me in the family. I would rather kill myself than marry him, and this state of affairs has become unbearable to me. I met a lady in London who advised me to advertise for a husband. She met her husband that way and leads a very happy life.

Of the man to whom I would give my heart I would not ask if he possessed a dollar, so long and attention and in perfect health. I am considered a dutiful daughter in the state of life in which it had pleased God to call him.

I was brought up in the Protestant faith, but am very liberal regarding religion. I am now 20 years old and in perfect health. I am considered a good pianist, and I know that I am a good cook and housekeeper. My feelings would never allow me to stray from the paths of rectitude and virtue.

Having decided upon this step, I intend to carry it out to the end. I am going to put myself absolutely in your hands. All the correspondence in the world would not bring us any closer than we are now. We must meet face to face and eye to eye. I must go to you, and if I am to go, must start very soon. My uncle after his course of treatment here is going to Japan and intends to take me and his son with him. My belief is that when we meet at your home we can come to an understanding in an hour and be married the same day. If you are dissatisfied with me when we meet, why, we can part good friends. If we marry, which I feel is a foregone conclusion, we will force a settlement of my estate at once.

I have been to the shipping office and learned that it will cost me about $300 to come to you first class. As it would be impossible for me to secure the money without arousing suspicion, I will draw a draft on you today for the amount. In the meanwhile, should my uncle wish to start on his journey, I will feign sickness and compel him to wait until the money arrives from you. I will then take the first train for London and will telegraph you from there what ship I will take for America.

Do not write me here, as my uncle might get an idea. Simply pay the draft; I will do the rest. Awaiting with greatest anxiety the day of my departure to begin a new and happier life, I remain your loving future wife,

WENNIE C. WOODWARD.

The letter was written on autograph stencel paper and duplicated by the mimeograph process. Therefore it is supposed that many thousands of them were sent out. Doubtless the advertiser, male or female, has secured enough money from credulous persons to enable her to pursue her continental journey until autumn, when some other brilliant idea will flit into her head, and she will proceed to cash it as she did this one. It is perfectly safe to announce, however, that any one contemplating matrimony and awaiting the arrival of the fair "Winnie" to complete the contract had better go home and raise another crop and then marry some nice American girl who has not had the advantages of a European education.

ASSIST NATURE

A little now and then, with a gentle, cleansing laxative, thereby removing offending matter from the stomach and bowels, and toning up and invigorating the liver and quickening its tardy action, and you thereby remove the cause of a multitude of distressing diseases, such as headaches, indigestion, biliousness, skin diseases, boils, carbuncles, piles, fistulas and maladies too numerous to mention.

If people would pay more attention to properly regulating the action of their bowels, they would have less frequent occasion to call for their doctor's services to subdue attacks of dangerous diseases.

That of all known agents to accomplish this purpose, Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are unequalled, is proven by the fact that once used, they are always in favor. Their secondary effect is to keep the bowels open and regular, not to further constipate, as is the case with other pills. Hence, their great popularity with sufferers from habitual constipation, piles and indigestion.
