

Hood River Glacier.

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 20, 1894.

THE MAILS.

The mail arrives from Mt. Hood at 11 o'clock A. M. Wednesdays and Saturdays; departs at 12 o'clock P. M. All G. A. R. members invited to attend. M. B. POTTER, Commander. C. J. HAYES, Adjutant.

SOCIETIES.

Canby Post, No. 15, G. A. R., meets at Odd Fellows hall, first Saturday of each month at 2 o'clock P. M. All G. A. R. members invited to attend.

BRIEF LOCAL MATTERS.

Tin cans and wax strings at Dallas's. S. E. Bartmess is agent for the Bridal Veil Lumber Company.

Get your horse and mule jewelry at Pierce's new harness shop.

Lou Morse is authorized agent for all newspapers and periodicals.

M. H. Nickelsen has on hand a full supply of school books, tablets, paper, etc.

French calf, custom-made shoes for $4.50, at E. V. Husbands', the shoemaker.

O. B. Hartley and W. L. Morris went to Trout Lake, the first part of the week, to buy beef cattle and hay.

Samuel Collier, chief of the Portland division of the mail service, has been deposited, and Mr. J. H. Richardson is now occupying that position.

Round trip tickets to Portland, good for return ten days from date of sale, 3 tickets on sale daily until September 30th.

O. B. Hartley, Doug Langille and W. L. Morris are opening a meat and fish market in the front room of the Langille house.

When you put up your stove, call on T. C. Dallas for stove pipe. He is now engaged making up a lot of it which he is selling at 20 cents a joint.

When you want any fruit boxes go to the Hood River Box factory. They also keep all kinds of rough and dressed lumber. Grain rolled any day.

Hall's Hair Renewer renders the hair lustrous and silken, gives it an even color, and enables women to put it up in a great variety of styles.

If you wish to fence your farm or door yard, go to the Hood River Box factory and see their samples. They are agents for the East Portland Fence Works.

Captain A. S. Blowers dug his potatoes last week on his new ground two miles west of town. They were a good crop for land plowed in the spring, yielding 100 bushels to the acre.

Saturday and Monday of each week will be our grinding days during the fall and winter. Our "Whole Wheat Graham" is for sale at the stores as usual.

William Ellis is building a neat one-and-a-half-story dwelling house on the four acres recently leased from Tom Wickens, on the west side of Phelps creek. Charley Rogers has the contract for the building.

Parties who promised us wood on subscription are requested to bring it along. Those hauling from the west side will please deliver the wood at our residence, 1 1/2 miles west of town; those on the east side deliver at the GLACIER office. We will also take wheat on subscription if delivered soon.

See the new ad. of C. Weldon, boot and shoemaker. Mr. Weldon is a fine workman. He made a pair of boots for George Crowell, six years ago, that have been worn every winter since and there is not a break in them. They seem to be good for service for several years yet.

D. D. Rogers is now making a good quality of cider from sweet and sour apples. He finds that by grinding sweet apples with sour apples, half and half, better cider is obtained than by working them separately. He is prepared to make cider for 10 cents a gallon for persons who bring the apples all ready for the mill.

P. F. Fouts of Mt. Hood came to town Tuesday with a fine lot of spring chickens. He had read in the GLACIER that they were worth $3 a dozen and expected to get that price, but the most he could get for them was $2.25. Mr. Fouts has just finished raising a barn, 20x30 feet, with an embankment and stable underneath.

Mr. Frank Tillison of Viento last week came near burning his house by dropping a match after lighting his pipe. On arising from bed in the morning he lit his pipe and dropped the match to the floor. The bed clothing caught fire, and in the bed was his baby. His brother-in-law discovered the fire and rushed in and carried the baby and the burning bed clothes out of the house. The baby was uninjured.

There is some excitement at Mosier over the discovery of a piece of quartz filled with fine gold. There is quite a deposit of cement gravel containing quartz in the hills back of Mosier, and it is probable the quartz came from this deposit. The Dalles Chronicle says: "The quartz gravel is a very ancient wash, the same deposit cropping out on the bank of Hood river at the end of the railroad bridge. The deposit, however, has been prospected with no results greater than a few fine colors."

H. J. Byrskett of Trout Lake said to a Goldendale Sentinel reporter that the creamery is a good paying investment. The butter has found ready sale in Portland the whole season through at not less than 20 cents a pound, besides there was a large local demand at Hood River. What's the matter with Hood River as a good point for the location of a creamery? The valley is now well watered and ought to raise green feed enough to furnish milk for two or three creameries.

The devil of the GLACIER office started to school last week. This promoted the editor, and he assumed the duties of first compositor and set up the paper last week. Having great faith in the work of the "intelligent compositor," he dumped most of his work into the forms without taking proof. Several glaring errors of course crept in, but the worst one was in not giving credit to an item clipped from The Dalles Chronicle, in which the editor of that paper stated he had visited Hood River, and in a drive through the valley had stopped and taken dinner at Mr. John Parker's. It was not our intention to rob Bro. Cradlebaugh of his good dinner in that way, and we hope he will lay the blame to the work of the compositor.

Mr. Cates, representing Harris Bros., commission merchants of Seattle, was here Tuesday looking after apples. Oscar Stranahan took him out through the valley. He told Mr. Stranahan that his house was buying apples in Southern Oregon for 35 and 40 cents a box and that he expected to get the same rates here. Mr. Stranahan told him there would be no use going any further if he couldn't do better than that, that he could not buy apples here at these prices. But he concluded to see what Hood River could do in the way of raising apples, he was willing to pay the prices asked. He said he had been buying apples for ten years and he had never seen such fine fruit as he saw in Hood River.

Prof. C. L. Gilbert has received the prizes awarded last spring for first best and second best improvement in penmanship. Seeley Rand received the gold medal and Earl Bartmess the silver medal. The medals are made from solid gold and silver plate, furnished by our jeweler, J. H. Ferguson. They were designed and engraved by Clarence English of this place and reflect credit on his ability in that line. The pendant, besides the inscription, "Penmanship—1894," has a floral wreath underneath, with two pens crossed at top and ink well.

Returns were received Wednesday from the carload of prunes shipped two weeks ago to Peckye Bros., Omaha. The returns, though the best heard of for any fruit shipped East, so far this season, were far from satisfactory. The receipts for the carload were $200.34, which just about pays for the boxes and work of picking and packing, with nothing left to pay for the fruit. Mr. Hill of Belmont shipped fifteen boxes of apples in this car, which did not sell for enough to pay freight and commission, leaving him in debt 38 cents.

Mrs. L. H. Addison of Leites, Oregon, will lecture in the United Brethren church next Monday evening, at half-past 7 o'clock, under the auspices of the W. C. T. U. Mrs. Addison is a forcible speaker as well as writer, and comes to us highly recommended. Every one invited to come and hear a good lecture. Also, she will hold a ladies' meeting at half-past 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, to which all ladies are especially invited.

At the meeting held last Saturday to consider the question of holding a horticultural fair it was decided not to have one. Instead, it is suggested that Hood River prepare exhibits for The Dalles fair and the exposition at Tacoma, and arrange the display in the warehouse of the fruit union, where it can be viewed by members of the Press Association when they pass this point.

The rain Tuesday interfered with the old soldiers' camp fire advertised for that day, and the attendance was small. Comrades Calkins and Hansberry and the latter's family, and Thos. Pollock, an old veteran of several wars, and Tom Pierce, a confederate veteran, assembled at the camp ground on the hill, had their beans and coffee, and voted that they had a good time.

The U. B. Christian Endeavor society will give a dime social at the house of M. V. Harrison, Tuesday evening, October 23. Proceeds to be applied on amount ($10) pledged by the society. Each member is requested to leave some money; children 15 cents, adults 25 cents; or more, and state at the meeting just how earned.

The Hood River Union Endeavor will hold its regular quarterly meeting at the U. B. church Sunday evening. A good programme has been prepared.

This is the season of the year when we need rubber boots and shoes. Hanna & Wolfard have a full stock of the Woonsocket rubber goods on sale.

Epworth League will have a public installation of officers at Belmont chapel Sunday evening, September 30, at 7:30.

There will be a dance and oyster supper at the house of Joseph A. Knox, on the East Side, Saturday evening, Oct. 6th.

H. J. Byrskett has bought of Rev. C. W. Weldon the house and lot adjoining the U. B. church for $700.

The warm rains during the week have been favorable for the newly-sown grain and the new grass.

James A. Crossen, postmaster at The Dalles, was married to Miss Auburn E. Story Tuesday evening.

The Oregon Lumber company contemplate moving the planer from the Parker mill to Viento.

Wanted—200 cords of oak wood, at Hanna & Wolfard's, in the next sixty days.

Rattlesnakes in Fodder. One day last week, while R. J. Ellis and his son Will were hauling in corn fodder, a bundle came loose and Mr. Ellis tied it before forcing it up on the wagon. The band burst a second time and again it was tied. Mr. Ellis each time taking the bundle to his breast with his arms encircling the fodder. After the third tying it was forked up to Will on the wagon, when two rattlesnakes dropped from the bundle of fodder to the ground in front of Mr. Ellis. One of the snakes showed fight, but both were soon dispatched by the aid of the pitchfork. Hereafter, like the woman who habitually looks for a man under the bed, Mr. Ellis will look for snakes before embracing a bundle of fodder.

BORN. September 21, 1894, to Mr. and Mrs. Frank Davenport, a daughter.

Clabbing Rates. We can furnish the New York Weekly World with the Glaciers, both papers, for $2.50. The price of the World alone is $1 a year.

PERSONAL.

Charley Hayner returned from British Columbia last week.

Hon. A. R. Byrskett started Monday for Troy, Ohio, where he will remain for the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. Hibbard have quit the hotel business and returned to their ranch south of town.

Mrs. Lyman Smith returned Tuesday from Astoria in improved health, after a six weeks' visit.

Dr. G. E. Sanders will be in Hood River October 3d and 4th, with rooms at the Mt. Hood hotel.

Mr. M. Wheeler has been on the sick list and is now stopping at his daughter's, Mrs. Wils Winans.

Mrs. J. H. Cradlebaugh is moving to The Dalles. Dr. Watt will move into her house here October 1st.

Miss Anna Jones of Portland, who has been visiting Mrs. Hanson, returned to Portland Tuesday.

J. E. Hanna returned last week from a trip to Eastern Oregon, where he got orders for posts and cordwood.

The Misses Eta and Stella Parrish will go to their grandmother's at Albany, Oregon, about the first of October to attend school during the winter.

J. W. Morton and family arrived from Tillamook Wednesday. He will move to his ranch, the old Haynes & Sanders place, as soon as his goods arrive.

W. B. Perry and daughter returned from Portland Sunday night. Miss Anna Mack of Portland came with them and is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Perry.

Grand Chancellor J. A. Waddell of Portland made an official visit to Waucoma lodge, K. of P., Tuesday evening. After adjournment lunch was served at Gerdes' restaurant.

Mrs. Galvin, sister to Mrs. T. L. Elliot, and her two children, who have been the guests of Rev. Dr. Elliot and Mrs. Elliot, returned to their homes in the East on Sunday night's train.

S. J. LaFrance returned Thursday from Pendleton, where he has been for several weeks on business connected with the firm he represents. He will return to Eastern Oregon next week.

Henry A. York, who has been in the employ of Williams & Bros., at their drug store in Hood River, for a year or more, will leave Sunday for Portland, where he will enter the Portland School of Pharmacy for a six months' term of study.

Revival services begin at the U. B. church Wednesday, October 3d.

The pastor, Rev. J. L. Hershner, will preach at the Congregational church next Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. There will be no evening service, that the congregation may unite with the Union Christian Endeavor to be held at the U. B. church.

Rev. R. E. Kaufman will preach his farewell sermon at the U. B. church tomorrow. Mr. Kaufman will leave here in a week or two for his old home in Indiana, and will enter college at New Manchester.

Elder J. W. Jenkins will preach in the Valley Congregational church the first Sunday in October. All the members are earnestly requested to be present, as matters of importance will come before the church for consideration.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Congregational church held its monthly meeting at Mrs. J. N. McCoy's on last Friday. A large number were in attendance and an interesting time was had.

Oscar Stranahan is shipping a car of apples.

Dr. E. T. Carns, Dentist, Has returned to Portland. The doctor will return to Hood River November 1st, prepared to examine, fill, extract, regulate and make new teeth; also, crown and bridge work.

A Quarter Century Test. For a quarter of a century Dr. King's New Discovery has been tested, and the millions who have received benefit from its use testify to its wonderful curative powers in all diseases of throats, chest and lungs. A remedy that has stood the test so long and that has given so universal satisfaction, is no experiment. Each bottle is positively guaranteed to give relief, or the money will be refunded. It is admitted to be the most reliable for coughs and colds. Trial bottle free at the Hood River Pharmacy. Large size, 50c. and $1.

Only the Scars Remain. "Among the many testimonials which I see in regard to certain medicines performing cures, cleansing the blood, etc.," writes HENRY HUDSON, of the James Smith Woolen Machinery Co., Philadelphia, Pa., "none impress me more than my own case. Twenty years ago, at the age of 18 years, I had swellings come on my legs, which broke and became running sores. Our family physician could do me no good, and it was feared that the bones would be affected. At last, my good old mother urged me to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I took three bottles, the sores healed, and I have not been troubled since. Only the scars remain, and the memory of the past, to remind me of the good Ayer's Sarsaparilla has done me. I now weigh two hundred and twenty pounds, and am in the best of health. I have been on the road for the past twenty years, have noticed Ayer's Sarsaparilla advertised in all parts of the United States, and always take pleasure in telling what good it did for me."

For the cure of all diseases originating in impure blood, the best remedy is

POLITICS IN CHINA.

There is Much Corruption Among High Officials.

Scandals That Approach Very Close to the Doors of the Imperial Palace—Office Obtained Through Bribery.

The corruption in Chinese public life is so general that it has ceased to excite any comment among those who are familiar with the workings of that bureaucratic system, so perfect in theory, so lamentably deficient in practice. It is generally believed by foreigners, however, that the emperor and the highest officials, like the viceroy, Li Hung Chang, are not to be included among the class of corrupt officeholders; but a recent incident serves to show that the young emperor has not escaped this Chinese public service. This incident, says a Shanghai letter in the New York Tribune, is the appointment of a new taotai of Shanghai. For months there have been rumors of a change in this important official place, but no one knew exactly the facts. Recently the Peking Gazette came out with the notice that January 11 last "Lu Pei-Yang is appointed taotai of the Soo-Sung Tai circuit." It may be necessary to state that though this gazette appeared a few days ago, it really represented the official acts of the emperor and the heads of the different boards for January 11. There are no reporters in China eager to send out appointments by telegraph the day they are made. Three or four months is the usual time consumed in getting any official action before the public in the pages of the court organ.

The circuit mentioned includes Shanghai, which, by reason of the large foreign settlement and the great increase of foreign trade, has become a very important place. Usually such an office is filled from a number of minor officials who are designated as "expectant taotais." Those who know the "pull" of each candidate can determine pretty accurately who will be the lucky one to win a coveted office. But in this case all the calculations of experts were upset by the naming of a man who was not only not included among the expectant officials, but who was unknown to any mandarins. The Gazette throws no light on the secret of this outsider's appointment, but diplomatic gossip declares that he secured the place by bribing one of the emperor's favorite eunuchs.

One may imagine the rage of the old viceroy Liu, of Nanjing, in whose province Shanghai is located, when he heard that the man he had recommended had been "turned down" to make way for the protégé of a palace eunuch. But Liu is a diplomat to his finger tips. He received the new taotai with great ceremony, and suggested in his courtly way that the post was one which required great experience, because of the necessity of constant association with foreigners. The proper thing for the new official to have done was to reply that he was sensible of this, and, therefore, relied on the viceroy to aid him, and also to suggest an experienced deputy. Instead of this polite reply, the new taotai answered that he was aware of the difficulties, but he fancied he could meet and overcome them without asking anyone's aid. The old viceroy would have enjoyed ordering the upstart to receive a hundred blows of the bamboo, but he dared make no manifestation of anger.

Some light on the corrupt purchase of official posts is shown by a case in the same issue of the Peking Gazette, which records the appointment of the Shanghai taotai. It records the investigation by an imperial censor of the charge of securing the place of literary special examiner by a metropolitan official. Curiously enough he adopted precisely the same method as that of the taotai—that is, he bribed a palace eunuch. The latter agreed to use his influence as well as that of several of his companions, but he stipulated that notes must be given for certain amounts to each, and that these notes must be cashed at a certain bookstore when the applicant received his commission. Ting-Wei-Chih, the man who yearned to be examiner, had his ambition only partly gratified, as he secured only a small examination post at Szechuen, which he applied for. So he refused to pay the palace eunuchs. When they came with their notes to the bookstore they were curtly told by the book-keeper that Ting had left no money, and that he had said he did not propose to be blackmailed. This made the eunuchs furious, and they raised such a commotion that the police were called. The bookseller, fearing publicity, shut up his shop and tried to bury himself until the storm should blow over, but a censor who witnessed the affair began an investigation that resulted in many damaging facts. Then he called upon the throne to appoint a commission of inquiry.

Three high officials were selected, and the result of their work shows the peculiar methods by which the ear of great personages is reached. Ting, it was shown, lasted after the post of special examiner of Szechuen during the examinations held in honor of the empress dowager's sixtieth birthday. He saw two friends, who recommended him to the bookseller. The latter agreed to move the machinery. He knew a schoolmaster, whose friend was a tailor, and this tailor was on terms of intimacy with a barber in the palace, and the barber knew a eunuch whose duties were to examine the emperor's food before it was taken from the kitchen to the imperial table. The eunuch was reached by this circuitous chain of people, but he failed to accomplish what he promised. Instead of getting the examinership at Szechuen, which is one of the most lucrative in the empire, he obtained only the post at Shensi, which carries with it some honor but precious little coin. Hence his refusal to pay and the resulting scandal.

TO FRUIT-GROWERS.

It is very essential that those who have fruit to ship advise us of the kind and quantity they will have to ship as far ahead as possible. The markets are not hunting the fruit, but the fruit must hunt the market this fall. Fine fruit can be sold at a profitable figure if properly handled. Poor fruit must be kept at home, or somebody will lose money.

Come and see us at our office near the depot. We will not ship your fruit if we can't make you some money.

Regular office hours, Wednesday and Saturday afternoons.
