

Hood River Glacier

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 27, 1894.

THE MAILS.

The mail arrives from Mt. Hood at 11 o'clock A. M. Wednesdays and Saturdays; SOCIETIES.

Canby Post, No. 10, G. A. R., meets at Odd Fellows' Hall, first Saturday of each month at 2 o'clock p. m.

BRIEF LOCAL MATTERS.

T. C. Dallas has apple-box nails. Tin cans and wax strings at Dallas's. Miss Bess Iseberg visited Portland Saturday.

C. E. Markham has four-weeks old pigs for sale. Judge L. J. Davenport of Mosier was in Hood River Tuesday. S. E. Bartmess is agent for the Bridal Veil Lumber Company.

Get your horse and mule jewelry at Pierce's new harness shop. Lou Morse is authorized agent for all newspapers and periodicals. Dr. G. E. Sanders at the Mt. Hood hotel October 31st and November 1st.

When in need of hay, flour, feed and grain, inquire at the Racket Store. Agent for all leading magazines and newspapers. M. H. NICKELSEN. County court meets Nov. 5th, commissioners' court Nov. 7th and circuit court Nov. 12th.

T. H. Emerson was down from Mosier, this week, at work on his ranch, a mile east of town. Henry M. Wilson of the East Side, an old Grand Army veteran, is very low with dropsy.

was gotten up by parties in town. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Crapper, Grace A. Graham, Bess Iseberg, Josie Hansberry, Eva Baldwin, Lenora Henrich, Alice Graham, Theresa Morse, Etta Teed, Mabel Hodgson, Frank Soesbe, James Dimmick, John Dimmick, Harry Hackett, T. S. Hendrick, John Castner, Charles Castner, Delbert Rand, George Stranahan, John Rogers. An enjoyable time was had by all present.

W. R. Stokes of Portland has the contract for building the school house and was here Tuesday. Langille & Cox were the lowest bidders on the work when the bids were awarded last August, and the contract was awarded to them, but owing to the delay in selling the bonds, they threw up the job.

Hon. T. R. Coon is making improvements on his place on Pole Flat, grubbing and clearing the land preparatory to planting trees. This neighborhood is one of the best in the valley for apples, and the residents there can make no mistake in planting this fruit.

Mr. William Harn, who died last Saturday night, was a pioneer of Oregon and at one time a well known contractor and builder in Portland. At the time of the building of the O. R. & N. Co.'s road he received a fall from a bridge, sustaining injuries from which he never entirely recovered.

The sand bar in front of Hood River is longer and larger than ever, and it is evident Oregon has acquired more acres of land by the high water, but it is of the kind that Frank Button has several feet too much of on his meadow near the boat landing.

A great many of our apple growers are putting up commodious fruit and vegetable houses. Jack Lueky is finishing a good apple house with double walls filled with sawdust. Horace Stranahan is doing the carpenter work for him.

Patronize home industries. Get your trees at the Columbia nursery, and then if the trees are not true to name, you can have a chance to kick at short range rather than swear by mail at some nurseryman who don't care a cent.

The fine Holstein cow of J. N. Reynolds got caught by a train, Wednesday afternoon, and received a broken leg. The cow was worth about $25. There is no chance for her to get well, and she will have to be killed.

"If you don't see what you want, ask for it" at the Columbia nursery. I can supply any varieties in any quantity at lowest rates, and save your paying freight to Hood River. Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Curtis of Portland came up last Friday and went out to Curry Top, their country place in the Crapper settlement, for a short stay of a few days.

C. J. Hayes, our surveyor, is farming some this year. Thursday he brought to town a couple of Early Rose potatoes, the largest of which weighed 4 1/2 pounds. For Sale: Forty acres unimproved land, east side of Hood river, 4 1/2 miles from town. Will sell 5 or 10 acre tracts cheap. Inquire at GLACIER office.

W. G. Ballard, at one time foreman at the Oregon Lumber Co.'s planer, is now employed at the machine shops of the O. R. & N. Co. at Portland. Rev. F. L. Johns, Rev. T. G. Gregory and F. C. Sherrie went to Goldenale, Monday, to attend the M. E. gathering at that place.

MARRIED.

At Straitsburg, Oregon, Sunday, October 21, 1894, at the residence of the bride's parents, by Rev. Troy Shelley, Mr. G. F. Boswell and Miss Edith A. Straight, both of Straitsburg, Hood River valley. Mr. J. N. Hartley of Portland acted as groomsmen and the bride's sister, Miss Ida, as bridesmaid.

Mr. J. N. Hartley of Portland acted as groomsmen and the bride's sister, Miss Ida, as bridesmaid. The groom was attired in a navy blue suit, with a rose of Sharon on the lapel of his coat. The bride was dressed in light tan, trimmed in rich silk, with a wreath of orange blossoms in her hair, and her neat form encased in a handsome bridal veil, which added greatly to her appearance and made the young men present envy Mr. Boswell's position.

DIED.

At Belmont, October 19th, William Harn, aged 65 years.

Apples Growing in the Woods. HOOD RIVER, Oct. 24, 1894.—Editor GLACIER: The apple is rightly claimed to be the king of all fruits. It is also an antiquated opinion that all our beautiful varieties had their origin from the little sour, puckering crab.

The writer has shown a number of parties a dozen or more native apple trees growing in the woods without care or culture, measuring from six to forty inches in circumference, some of which today have from one to ten boxes of beautiful apples—among the lot a red and yellow crab of superior excellence for jelly, as my wife can show—proof positive of the natural adaptability of Hood River climate and soil for the apple. Another proof: No matter how much neglected the orchard for years, there is always present a green, luxuriant foliage that I have never seen in any other section of country.

Some of this wild fruit is on exhibition at the GLACIER office. We saw it on the trees, which are growing in a thicket, surrounded by oak, pine and fir trees, and the brush is so thick a man can hardly get to the apple trees. They are growing on T. J. Watson's place, in Idlewild.—ED.]

A Little Girl's Thoughts. What do the birds say to each other, 'Tis hard and 'tis hard to be a sparrow, I wish I could fly like the birds, do you know, how sweetly and cheerily they sing, I would fly to the birds, and sing with them, and see what the birds are doing now.

A Household Treasure. D. W. Fuller of Canajoharie, N. Y., says that he always keeps Dr. King's New Discovery in the house and his family always found the very best results follow its use; that he would not be without it if procurable. G. A. Dykeman, druggist, Catskill, N. Y., says that Dr. King's New Discovery is undoubtedly the best cough remedy; that he has used it in his family for eight years, and it has never failed to do all that is claimed for it.

A UNIQUE FACTORY.

Where Medicine and Food is Manufactured for Dogs. One of the two factories of this country for the making of patent food and patent medicine for dogs has been described in the New York News. The founder of this novel establishment was a Scotchman. He was employed in London kennels, studied the needs of dogs, thought out special treatment for them, and finally took out patents on food and medicines, and in his unique business amassed a fortune.

On the second floor the visitor enters the receiving room of the raw materials. Thousands of pounds of butchers' scraps are brought here in the course of a month. Oatmeal in wholesale quantities and tons of herbs are used. The old-fashioned dog's bone, boneseat, catnip and beet root, under various scientific names, find a use as food or as medicine.

The second floor is occupied by four curious machines with great cylinder attachments. After the fat and the meat have been sorted, they are ground separately in these machines, and then placed in great wooden tubs where various mixtures are added. The next process seems so much like the ordinary baker's work that one is quite disposed to taste things, and when the round and square cakes of a tempting brown have been taken from the brick ovens, one really envies the aristocratic dog. After cooling, the biscuits are packed in neat pasteboard boxes.

According to size these boxes are labelled for pet dogs, for greyhounds and for St. Bernards. There are especially prepared dishes for cats. Sufficient food to keep pussy for two days may be had for five cents. But it costs a pretty penny to keep a dog. A large dog must have six or eight cakes beside a quantity of meat. The meat costs probably about ten cents and the cakes are four cents apiece.

The most interesting department is that of the patent medicines at the top of the building. The mixture of herbs and chemicals are boiled in great kettles, and the liquid is brought up to this floor to be put in bottles of various sizes and labelled "cure for mange," "liniment for sprains," and "to prevent baldness." Sure cures for seventeen diseases, and pills as well as liquid medicines are made.

This curious establishment also makes dog collars, dog soaps, crates for carrying or shipping dogs, dog brushes and combs, blankets and mackintosh waterproofs with hoods, for greyhounds.

A RUSSIAN EMPEROR'S METHOD.

How He Replenished and Maintained the Imperial Treasury. Among other expedients to raise money, Ivan resigned the crown in favor of a Tartar khan, who was baptized under the name of Simeon, says the Gentleman's Magazine. Ivan feigned to withdraw himself from public affairs, but in reality he held on to them, and made the new czar call in all the charters formerly granted to the monasteries and bishoprics and all the charters were canceled.

After retaining the monopoly for awhile he would sell for a high rate and even compel merchants to buy at the prices he named. He followed a similar course with foreign imports, creating a monopoly and forbidding others to sell their stock until he had disposed of his own. By these means he cleared two hundred thousand rubles in a year.

A Yankee Skipper's Cordwood. Capt. Robbins had an experience with the peculiar taxes in Sicily, says the Portland (Me.) Press. He took over a cargo of oil from Philadelphia to Marseilles and had thirty cords of ordinary four foot firewood to pack the oil barrels with to prevent their rolling. It is called by the sailors "oil wood." He paid for this wood one hundred and fifty dollars in Philadelphia. He did not sell in Marseilles because he expected to get more for it in Trapani. But the dealers there offered him only fifteen dollars for the whole of it, saying that the enormous tax upon it would not allow them to offer more. He declared that he'd bring it back to America before he'd sell it at that price, and so he did, and it is here in Portland now, after traveling eight thousand miles over the ocean, and it may go three thousand more, because if he can't get a decent price for it here he will take it back to England, where he is going from here with spool wood. There he can get about one hundred dollars for it. England doesn't want cordwood. She has got enough coal, and less is paid for cordwood there than here.

Supreme Courtesy. A Bengalese magistrate, having been informed of the whereabouts of a mad dog, armed himself and went to the place where the rabid animal lay by a house door. He learned upon inquiry that two women were in the house and sent word to them that he was about to shoot the dog, and, therefore, they should not be alarmed by the report, and that as he might not inflict a fatal wound at the first fire, and, in fact, might miss, they should remain within until notified. Such a supreme courtesy is in marked contrast with that of western civilization.

M. Hammerly, a well-known business man of Hillsboro, Va., sends this testimony to the merits of Ayer's Sarsaparilla: "Several years ago, I hurt my leg, the injury leaving a sore which led to erysipelas. My sufferings were extreme, my leg from the knee to the ankle, being a solid sore, which began to extend to other parts of the body. After trying various remedies, I began taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and, before I had finished the first bottle, I experienced great relief; the second bottle effected a complete cure."

Ayer's Sarsaparilla Prepared by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass. Cures others, will cure you.

WEBSTER'S INTERNATIONAL DICTIONARY

Successor of the 'Unabridged.' Standard of the U. S. Gov't Printing Office, the U. S. Supreme Court and of nearly all the Schoolbooks. Warmly commended by every State Superintendent of Schools, and other educational authorities almost without number.

A College President writes: "For one who with which the eye finds the word sought, for accuracy of definition, for effective methods in indicating pronunciation, for terse yet comprehensive statements of facts, and for practical use as a working dictionary, Webster's International excels any other single volume."

The One Great Standard Authority. Hon. D. J. Brewer, Justice of the U. S. Supreme Court, writes: "The International Dictionary is the perfection of dictionaries. I commend it to all as the one great standard authority."

EP A saving of three cents per day for a year will provide more than enough money to purchase a copy of the International. Can you afford to be without it? G. & C. MERRIAM CO., Publishers, Springfield, Mass., U. S. A. Send to the publishers for free pamphlet. Do not buy cheap reprints of ancient editions.
