Brands and Labels of the Famous Jesse

Moore Whisky Imitated by a Seattle

The recent arrest in Seattle, Wash., of Aaron Jaffe by a United States internal revenue officer for wholesaling liquor without a license has disclosed one of the most daring and dangerous frauds that has been perpetrated against the government, and against one of the most reputable and popular whisky firms in the United States.

Numerous complaints have reached Moore,

Hunt & Co. of San Francisco, sole agents on the Pacific Coast of the famous old Jesse Moore whisky, that a counterfeit article was being largely sold in Washington. The labels, bottles and wrappers were each so exact an imitation of the genuine as to readily deceive the owners of the original brand. The contents were, however, as

When arrested and confronted with the evidence of his crime, Jaffe broke down and made a full confession of his own guilt, without, however, implicating his partners in the fraud, whose identity is yet in doubt. The facts will doubtless come out on the

This is the most daring attempt yet made to imitate the Jesse Moore whisky, but the manufacturers may find some satisfaction in the fact that the culprit is suppressed. Moore, Hunt & Co. will vigorously push the prosecution of Jaffe for fraud in counterfeiting their trade-mark and labels.

the stomach of necessary blood, and this is also true of hard physical labor. When a five horse-power engine is made when a nive horse-power engine is made to do ten horse-power work something is going to break. Very often the hard-worked man coming from the field or the office will "bolt" his food in a few minutes which will take hours to digest. Then too, many foods are about as useful in the stomach as a kery of nails would be in a too, many foods are about as useful in the stomach as a keg of nails would be in a fire under a boiler. The ill-used stomach refuses to do its work without the proper stimulus which it gets from the blood and nerves. The nerves are weak and "ready to break," because they do not get the nourishment they require from the blood, finally the ill-used brain is morbidly wide awake when the overworked man at awake when the overworked man at-tempts to find rest in bed.

The application of common sense in the treatment of the stomach and the whole system brings to the busy man the full en-joyment of life and healthy digestion when he takes Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets to relieve a bilious stomach or after a too hearty meal, and Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery to purify, enrich and vitalize the blood. The "Pellets" are tiny sugar-coated pills made of highly concentrated vegetable ingredients which relieve the stomach of all offending matters easily and thoroughly. They need only be taken for a short time to cure the biliousness, constipation and slothfulness, or torpor, of the liver; then the "Medical Discovery" should be taken in teaspoonful doses to intakes Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets to should be taken in teaspoonful doses to increase the blood and enrich it. It has a crease the blood and enrich it. It has a peculiar effect upon the lining membranes of the stomach and bowels, toning up and strengthening them for all time. The whole system feels the effect of the pure blood coursing through the body and the nerves are vitalized and strengthened, not deadened, or put to sleep, as the so-called celery compounds and nerve mixtures do—but refreshed and fed on the food they need for health. If you suffer from indigestion, dyspepsia, nervousness, and any of the ills which come from impure blood and disordered stomach, you can cure yourself with Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery which can be obtained at any drug store in the country.

JOKES AND JOKERS.

SOME OF THE FUN AND FUNMAKERS OF BYGONE DAYS.

From Diogenes to More Modern Men-The English Furnish Rather a Heavy Class of Humor-Inexhaustible Supply of Irish

There is more real humor in a modern clodhopper than in an ancient phi-The jokes that have come down to us from Greece are mostly poor stuff, but college boys are glad to get any comfort at all from root grubbing, and therefore they laugh at Diogenes and Aristophanes. It is said that the old cynic begged a tub to live in and toted this about where he liked and squatted under it when he pleased. When Alexander called on him in this palatial residence, he asked what he could do for him. "Get out of my sunlight," said Diogenes. That was tolerably good, but uncivil. The nasty old cub with his tub could be duplicated by a thousand tramps in America any day, and many of them are doubtless nastier and smarter. Plato is said to have preached fatality. When a rogue ran against him with a beam and excused himself as "fated to do it," "Yes," said Plato, "I see, but I also am fated to beat you for it," and gave the fellow a good caning. For sportiveness Horace was the most pleasing of the ancients, but his verses are very amatory and some of them more suggestive than a French play. Charles Lamb is worth 20 of him, only that Horace could be a poet when he chose of a different sort. Homer's picture of Thersites is the oldest burlesque that I remember A joke coming down from 1000 B. C. ought to STUPID ATTEMPT be pretty good. Will M. Quad last as English joking is generally heavy. Here is one told by James Payn. A witness in a slander case swore that Miss Iles was thrown over the wall a dozen times. "What," said the judge. "Who was Miss Iles, and why did they throw her over?" It was missiles. I cannot see anything so very funny in Sydney Smith's wishing he could, on a certain hot day, take off his flesh and sit in his Importer, Who is Now Under Arrest. bones. But Hood and Charley Lamb are a brace that no one ought ever to be without. I have given up trying to keep a complete set of either. They are borrowed and relished, and, I suppose, read Hood was capital in every direction he turned, whether pathos, satire, pun or pure joking. His taking off of celebrated characters was as good as anything. You should first read Boswell's 'Johnson' and then read Hood's "Johnsoniana." But does anybody read Boswell nowadays? Alas, for once famons books! Hood, says Johnson, was once consulted by a lady as to the degree of turpitude and spanking due her boy for robbing an orchard. "Madam," said the ponderous doctor, "it all hangs on the weight of the boy. I remember my school fellow, Davy Garrick, who was a little fellow, robbing a dozen orchards with impunity, but the very first time I climbed an apple tree, for I was always solid, the bough broke, and it was called a judgment on me. I suppose that is why justice is represented with a pair of scales."

brand. The contents were, however, as might be expected, not even an imitation, but of so vile a character as to be readily detected by any one who is familiar with the high quality of the Jesse Moore whisky. Jaffe confined his operations to the sale of case goods; therefore detection was easy, as was also success in disposing of his goods, which bore the popular AA brand. Ostensibly Jaffe was acting as agent for the "Golden Medal Distilling Company of Chicago," possibly a mythical concern. At any rate, all bills were made out and receipted in the name of that company However, in a type-written letter prepared Sheridan was the best of jokers, but half that is attributed to him is floating However, in a type-written letter prepared by Jaffe and mailed without signature to liquor dealers in Washington, he openly claimed that the whisky was spurious, but that the labels and bottles were so successfully imitated as to deceive even Jesse Woore & Co. or their agents and in this wit that needed a father. It is probably true that he asked his roistering but highborn crew one night whether they should drink like beasts or like men. Some one said, "Men, of course." "Oh, Moore & Co. or their agents, and in this then," cried Sheridan, "we'll get awful drunk, for beasts only drink what they need.'

single claim he was correct.

It has been said that "poor things are never imitated," which is a truism that even Jesse Moore & Co. and Moore, Hunt & Co. may accept with some small degree of satisfaction, and the fact that the Jesse Moore whiskies have become immensely popular and are steadily superseding all other brands of whisky on this Coast as well as throughout the Eastern States, was doubtless the strongest incentive to Jaffe to embark in an illicit and fraudulent manufacture. Irish wit is famous the world over. Part of it consists in the brogue, but it is rare that an Irishman has not surprises of speech, in which consists the wit of the highest order. Le Fanu, in his "Seventy Years of Irish Life," has collected a great deal that is delicious. A witness that was badgered by a lawyer was asked, "You're a nice fellow, now, ain't you?" Witness answered, Selling liquor at wholesale without a license is a serious offense against the United States internal revenue laws, and Jaffe will doubtless, as he should, upon conviction receive a severe penalty for his wrongdoing.
Infringement of a copyright is also a serious offense, with severe penalties. Altogether, it would seem that this imitator of an excellent article has involved himself to an extent which will necessitate his prolonged retirement from the whisky busi-"I am, sir, and if I were not on oath, sir, I'd say the same of you." Another witness was asked by a bullying coun-sel, "So you had a pistol?" "I had, sir." "Who did you intend to shoot?" "I wan't intendin to shoot no one." "So you got it for nothing?" "No, I didn't." "Come, come! On your oath, what did you get that pistol for?" "For three and ninepence, sir, in Mr. Richardson's shop." The Irish bull is often better than any deliberate wit. Sir Richard Steele insisted these bulls were owing to the air of the country, "and, sir," he added, "if an Englishman was born here, I don't doubt he'd do the same." In a debate on taxation an Irish member of parliament insisted that "a tax on leather would press heavily on the barefoot-ed peasantry." Sir Boyle Roche replied they could "make the under leathers of wood." The same Sir Boyle proced the union of England and Ireland, so that "the barren hills would become fertile valleys." In another debate he answered, "I boldly answer in the affirmative -No!" He was author of "You should refrain from throwing open the floodgates of democracy, lest you should pave the way for a general conflagration." At a race an Irishman was delighted because he was "first at last." When they laughed, he added, "Sure, wasn't I behind before." One day a friend of Bishop Bramstone approached him with the remark that he wanted "a wife, young, rich and pretty," and he wanted the bishop to pick her out for him. "Tut, tut!" said the bishop. "My name is Bramstone, not Brimstone! I do not make matches!"-E. P. Powell in St. Louis Globe-Democrat.
