

The latest investigations by the United States and Canadian Governments show the Royal Baking Powder superior to all others in purity and leavening strength.

Statements by other manufacturers to the contrary have been declared by the official authorities falsifications of the official reports.

Satelli's English Speeches.
One characteristic of Mgr. Satelli is the power of his memory. His duties require him to make frequent speeches before American congregations, and therefore in the English language. He writes his speeches out in Italian, formulates in his own language and on paper what he wishes to say and in just what words he wishes to say it, has these speeches translated into English by his interpreter and then commits the English to memory. So wonderful is his memory and so thorough his mastery of detail that no one would suspect from listening to his utterances that he was not an English scholar. Although not understanding the words he speaks, he gives them an inflection and a pronunciation that are nearly perfect and proves that the power of imitation has been strongly cultivated within him, for he copies every emphasis taught him by the interpreter.

THAT LUMP in a man's stomach which makes him irritable and miserable and unfit for business or pleasure is caused by indigestion. Indigestion, like charity, covers a multitude of sins. The trouble may be in the stomach, liver, bowels. Wherever it is, it is caused by the presence of poisonous, refuse matter which Nature has been unable to rid herself of, unaided. In such cases, wise people send down a little health officer, personified by one of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets, to search out the trouble and remove its cause.

BUFFALO BILL SAVED HIS LIFE.

Congressman Hall Tells of an Adventure in the Black Hills.
"Buffalo Bill Cody will always live warmly in my heart. I'm by no means sure but I owe him my life." It was Representative Hall of Missouri who thus pronounced for the showman scout, and a Washington Post man was among his auditors. Continuing in explanation of that earnest regard in which he held the long haired Cody, Hall went on to say: "I was a very young man when I first met Cody at the little juncow camp in the Black Hills country. I had gone there to seek my fortune, and, I might add, came away a year or so later without finding it."

"It was in there I met Buffalo Bill and another of the same long haired brood, somewhat celebrated at that time—California Joe. I was a tenderfoot of the tender kind, and these two knights of the border, whose experiences were as long and thick as their hair, seemed willing in a casual but protecting way to be friendly. When I came into camp, I was given a room at the ramshackle construction which passed for a hotel, the same room being but that morning vacated by a very bad man who left for Deadwood. I had called it mine about a week when the bad man from Deadwood came back, cornered the landlord and demanded 'his room.' The landlord said he would see me. I saw no good reason for giving way to the gentleman from Deadwood, and as to give up the room meant to sleep in the sage brush I declined the proposition.

"The landlord took me one side after supper that night and with a pale face whispered: 'I want you to look out for yourself. This yore sharp from Deadwood is prowling about camp some'ers talking mighty hard about you and that room. And, here the landlord threw a vast deal of mystery and dark significance into his tones, 'he's been drinkin.'"

"That evening, as was usual with the entire male population, I went down to the dance hall—a fashion of hurly gurdy where everybody met everybody else and swapped news and views and lead and whatever they stood in most need of. I was sitting in quiet talk with Buffalo Bill and California Joe and was just telling them of this collision in our destinies between me and the Deadwood gentleman when a ringing warwhoop rent the air outside. The next moment the party in question came into the place. A glance showed me that the landlord was justified in saying that 'he was drinkin.'"

"Where's that long, slim, blankety blank 'Shorthorn' who calls himself 'Hall'?" he yelled. "I'm going to run him out of camp. I need his room, and I've took a notion agin him, and he can't stay where I am now." Then he gave another yell and favored us with the information that he was a wolf.

"Cody, California Joe and I were sitting a bit to one side, and as the Deadwood man came surging down the center of the situation he didn't see us. It came to pass therefore that about the time he was in the middle of the fourth yell I hit him in the head with a sandstone mitchsafe which weighed about 30 pounds. The Deadwood man went down like a tenpin, and as that a dozen of his friends jumped up and pulled their pistols. But quick as they were Cody and California Joe were quicker. They unlimbered their six shooters in a flash, and Cody, who had two, passed one to me with his left hand. Cody then stepped in between me and the trouble. Cody seemed so bright and alert with it all, and California Joe appeared so coolly ready at his elbow, that the other side came to a dead halt.

"See here," I said, for it struck me as a good time to be widely-magnanimous, "if there are any differences, they're between me and this Deadwood gentleman. I don't want my friend shot up on my account, and I suppose he feels the same way about his. Now, I'm here and perfectly ready to arrange our troubles in any way he'll suggest."

"All right," he retorted, with an oath, as he searched out a 9 inch bowie knife from somewhere back of his neck, "we'll settle this with knives. Come right outside, and I'll have you split into half apples in about a minute."

"This was a starter. I didn't like the programme at all. That knife he drew had a dull, evil glimmer which was very fatiguing. But I saw no way out. Cody passed me over a bowie knife. "Don't take it that way," said Cody instructively, as I held it dagger fashion, after the style of an actor on the stage. "There!" changing it. "Hold it just the same as you would a sword. Now, don't let this fellow rattle you at all. You've got a knife two inches longer in the blade than his, and with your height and length of arm the thing's a push over."

ON THE SPOT.

"Out damned spot," was what troubled Mrs. Macbeth; but it was something intangible that she saw. In the active season of spring and summer sports—there are spots that are not visionary, but which bring with them pain and great discomfort. Bruises, black and blue, are the accompaniments of every active sport. They often cripple and are always a sore trouble. Come from what source they may, the thing to do on the spot is to use St. Jacobs Oil freely and promptly. There is nothing surer and it wipes out the pain as we would wipe off a slate. In like manner sudden attacks of rheumatism, to which people are liable at this season, can be promptly cured by applying St. Jacobs Oil to the pain spot.

As the American people come to use their brains more and their muscles less, fat meat—mutton included—goes out of favor. People want flesh and not fat more and more.

A TERRIBLE VISITANT.

Pain is always a terrible visitant, and often dominates life with one for life. This affliction is preventable, in cases of rheumatism by a timely resort to Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which checks the encroachments of this obstinate and dangerous malady at the outset. The term "dangerous" is used advisedly, for rheumatism is always liable to attack the vital organs and terminate life. No testimony is more conclusive and concurrent than that of physicians who testify to the excellent effect of the Bitters in this disease. Persons incur a wetting in rainy or snowy weather, and who are exposed to draughts, should use the Bitters as a preventive of ill effects. Malaria, dyspepsia, liver and kidney trouble, nervousness and debility are also among the ailments to which this popular medicine is adapted. For the infirmities, a relief and stiffness of the aged it is highly beneficial.

KNOWLEDGE

Brings comfort and improvement and tends to personal enjoyment when rightly used. The many, who live better than others and enjoy life more, with less expenditure, by more promptly adapting the world's best products to the needs of physical being, will attest the value to health of the pure liquid axative principles embraced in the remedy, Syrup of Figs.

Its excellence is due to its presenting in the form most acceptable and pleasant to the taste, the refreshing and truly beneficial properties of a perfect laxative; effectually cleansing the system, dispelling colds, headaches and fevers and permanently curing constipation. It has given satisfaction to millions and met with the approval of the medical profession, because it acts on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels without weakening them and it is perfectly free from every objectionable substance.

Syrup of Figs is for sale by all druggists in 50c and $1 bottles, but it is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, whose name is printed on every package, also the name, Syrup of Figs, and being well informed, you will not accept any substitute if offered.

That Tired Feeling

It is remarkable how many people there are who have That Tired Feeling and seem to think it of no importance or that nothing need be done for it. They would not be so careless if they realized how really serious the malady is. But they think or say "It will go off after a while."

We do not mean the legitimate weariness which all experience after a hard day's work, but that all-gone, worn-out feeling which is especially overpowering in the morning, when the body should be refreshed and ready for work. It is often only the forerunner of nervous prostration, with all the horrible suffering that term implies. That Tired Feeling and nervousness are sure indications of an impure and impoverished condition of the blood. The craving of the system for help can only be met by purifying the blood. Hood's Sarsaparilla is the one great blood purifier. It expels all impurities, gives vitality and strength, regulates the digestion and makes the weak strong.

"In the spring I felt very much run down—no strength or appetite. I began to take Hood's Sarsaparilla and my appetite improved and I did not have that tired feeling."—H. R. SQUIRES, East Leverett, Mass.

BEWARE OF OINTMENTS FOR CATARRH THAT CONTAIN MERCURY.

as mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hood's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hood's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally, and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co. Testimonials free. Sold by all Druggists, price 75c per bottle.
