domestic life was supposed to be especially happy. Mrs. Gardner's next move appeared to have been to apply at a well-known teacher's agency for a position. She selected one of the places which were open and made arrangements to leave at once for that place, which was in Connecticut. She then appears to have written the pathetic letter to her husband, telling him that she was ill and commending him and the children to the care of God. The next day she appears to have gone to a clerk in a stationery store and had him write the letter signed "G. A. Brown," telling of the death and burial of Mrs. Gardner. With her family thus disposed of Mrs. Gardner sold her return ticket to Nebraska to a scalper, bought a ticket and had her trunk checked at the New York & New England depot and dropped out of sight. So far as can be ascertained there was no man in the case. The persons engaged in the search expect to locate the woman SOOD.
