TO INCLOSE YALE'S CAMPUS.

The New Phelps Memorial Gateway and Hall Completes the Quadrangle.

The pride of Yale will be the Phelps memorial gateway and hall, now being built, which will be completed about the 1st of January next. The gateway will form the main entrance to the campus, and will complete the Yale quadrangle, which will henceforth be inclosed, much after the fashion of the English universities. The new structure will fill an immediate and urgent need of more recreation rooms and carries out the idea that has lately been gaining favor at New Haven of inclosing the campus. Iron railings will be constructed between the dormitories on the campus which are not contiguous, and the entrance to Yale's classic precincts will be somewhat formal and subject to inspection from a porter or gatekeeper. The Phelps memorial will be an attractive structure, the highest building in the front row of the campus, its parapets towering to an elevation of 100 feet. It is designed as a tower, flanked by four octagonal turrets. There will be a lofty arch, 16 feet wide and forming the gateway, opening from College street into the campus. The style of architecture is known as the collegiate Gothic. The exterior of the handsome structure will be faced with sandstone from the Long Meadow quarries, similar to that used in Vanderbilt hall.

PHILIPS MEMORIAL GATEWAY AND HALL.

The memorial will occupy the space between Welch and Lawrence halls. Above the first floor will be four stories, containing 14 classrooms, and also rooms for the Classical club of Yale. It will cost $150,000.

Among the recent notable structures which adorn the Yale campus are Vanderbilt hall, the testimonial of the munificence of Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt; the new White building and the new Yale Law school building. The latter as it now stands is but a part of the structure as designed by the architects. The part already finished will be used until sufficient funds have been collected to complete it.

Another structure in process of erection is the building of the Delta Phi secret society, to be known as St. Elmo clubhouse. It will be built of New Haven stone and buff colored brick and will cost $25,000.

THE REMARKABLE VITALITY OF AN AGED CALIFORNIAN.

Stands Today Unscathed by Disease—How He Conquered Rheumatism—A Story Full of Interest.

From the Examiner, San Francisco, Cal.]

There is at least one happy man in San Francisco today—one man who can enjoy, despite the fact of his being sixty years of age and of corpulent build, the full and free use of all the powers of mind and body.

James Keenan is a prominent liquor dealer at 256 Brannan street, and it is he who is now lauding those who have restored him from a bed of pain to his former youthful activity. Mr. Keenan had, within a year ago, been blessed with the enjoyment of almost perfect health.

It was a year ago that Mr. Keenan first suffered the hand of disease to take hold upon him. At that time he was stricken down by an aggravated attack of rheumatism, which robbed him of the use of his lower limbs and of both his hands. For fully six weeks he lay on his couch, a helpless victim of the dread disease, and all the time he suffered intense pain in the affected portions of his body. He could not move himself upon his bed, and all that he ate had to be fed to him by those in attendance. He had about despaired of ever gaining release from the clutches of the frightful disease, when one morning his attention was drawn to an advertisement in a morning paper, of a remedy for rheumatism. The story of what succeeded this causal glance at a medicine advertisement can best be told in the words of Mr. Keenan himself, who, when asked for an explanation of his seemingly miraculous cure, gave the following account:

"It seemed to me that after all the weeks of terrible suffering that I had endured there could not possibly be a relief. I had no faith in patent medicines, and when I saw in a paper the advertisement of Williams' Pink Pills I was induced to try them only in sheer desperation. I did not feel any relief until I began taking the second box of the pills, but then the pain began gradually to leave me, my appetite became better, and I could sleep soundly throughout the night without experiencing any of the jerking pains that had before kept me awake. I continued to take the pills and it was only a short time until the rheumatism had entirely left my hands, and I had so far recovered the use of my legs as to be able to walk about the house without assistance. In about two weeks more I was entirely free from the disease, but I took two more boxes of the pills as a precaution against a return of the rheumatism. From the time that the last trace of the disease left me I have not felt the least sign of its return, and I can truthfully say that I now enjoy as free use of my limbs as ever I did before the rheumatism attacked me.

"I have taken the pains to recommend Williams' Pink Pills to a number of my friends who are suffering from rheumatism. I think I know of no other remedy that will afford such quick and permanent relief from rheumatism as do Williams' Pink Pills, and I only hope that many others may be brought to see and feel the high curative powers that the pills possess."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills contain, in a condensed form, all the elements necessary to give new life and richness to the blood and restore shattered nerves. They are also a specific for the troubles peculiar to females, such as suppressions, irregularities and all forms of weakness. They build up the blood and restore the glow of health to pale and sallow cheeks. In men they effect a radical cure in all cases arising from mental worry, overwork or excesses of whatever nature. Pink Pills are sold in boxes (never in loose bulk) at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50, and may be had of all druggists, or direct by mail from Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

How Massachusetts Treats Debtors. Some recent letter writers in various newspapers have been complaining that Boston is provincial in several respects. So it is. But the charge may be extended to the state just as well. It is said to be possible to imprison a man for debt in Massachusetts, barbarous as it is looked upon in other regions, and it is said to be possible, too, for a creditor to intercept the salary of a man with a family, except $10 a week, and this, too, even if there are a dozen in the family, and the judgment debt is really another person's. When one learns of such things as these, one ceases to wonder at the extent of the emigration from regions where such things are possible.

Inflated Beds For Sleeping Cars. Kate Field's Washington says that some genius has devised for sleeping cars a system of beds made of rubber bags, which are to be stretched over steel frames and inflated with hot air from the locomotive. In 15 minutes an entire car can be made ready for the night. In the morning, when the hot air is turned off, the mattresses and pillows will immediately collapse. Such beds, it is claimed, would be cheaper, lighter and more comfortable than those now used, and could be thrown away in far less space when not in use.

HIS TRUE FRIEND.

And He Didn't Understand Why the Other Wanted to Break It Up.

Witherby—Let's see, how long have we known each other?

Bellnob—About all our lives, I guess. Remember how we used to play together when we were boys?

Witherby—Do I! And just think, old fellow, how we have been such close friends all these years!

Bellnob—That's so.

Witherby—Never a cross word, never a misunderstanding of any kind. I tell you, it's just such close companionships as ours that make life worth living.

Bellnob (much affected)—That's so, that's so.

Witherby—But that isn't what I was thinking of at first. I was thinking of this: Has it ever occurred to you what a strange thing it is that our wives have never met?

Bellnob—By Jove, that is singular, now that you come to speak of it.

Witherby—Isn't it? Here we have been so close to each other too. Well, it's never too late to mend. We must arrange to have them meet at once.

Bellnob (excitedly)—Old man, do you want to break up our friendship?—Brooklyn Life.

Both Equal to the Occasion.

A well to do gentleman of middle age said to me several days ago: "Do you know that I had rather shell green peas than do almost anything else? My wife says that it demoralizes the servants to have me do it, but I'm not living for the servants."

"The other day I sat down on our back porch with a pan of my favorite vegetables in my lap, and was enjoying myself in great shape, far from the maddening crowd, for my wife had some swell callers."

"All of a sudden I heard a woman's voice say:

"Oh, I must see your cute back yard; I've heard so much of it."

"Then the window flew open and out popped two pretty bonneted heads."

"I turned mine away, and my wife was equal to the occasion."

"Patrick," she said, "you must remember to mow that grass before Mr. comes home."

"Yis, ma'am, I'll repress in my best brogue, and all was well."—Louisville Post.

A Ridiculous Mistake.

The other day, in a public place, two suburban schoolmistresses fell into conversation with a precise and somewhat airy lady, not from Boston, who began to criticize the attainments of Boston teachers. "It is most extraordinary," she said, "what ignorant people they employ to teach school in Boston. Such English as they sometimes speak!" The two schoolmistresses ventured to ask what unfortunate peculiarities she had observed in the English of Boston teachers. "Why, their pronunciation is so bad," she answered. "Just fancy—I heard a Boston teacher the other day say 'programme.'" The two teachers opened their eyes, wondering why people shouldn't say "programme." They hardly dared to ask, but the lady enlightened them. "When any one who had been to school at all," she added, "should know that it should be pronounced 'program'!"—Boston Transcript.

The Ruling Passion.

"I was coming down town the other day about noon," said a man on a grip car to a Journal reporter, "and a party of girls from the high or one of the public schools was just ahead of me. They started to cross the street just as a wagon came along at a rapid rate. The wagon brushed the girl in front, and she fell to the ground. I think she fainted from sheer fright. Of course, several of us who saw the occurrence ran over, picked her up and carried her into a drug store that was right at hand. As she seemed to be unconscious one of us said in lack of knowing what to do, 'I think we ought to give her something.' The girl sort of half opened her eyes and said sleepily, 'I'll take vanilla, please.' Well, you bet, she got her vanilla, and a few minutes later she was walking off as spry as if nothing had happened."—Minneapolis Journal.

Felt Safe.

Sunday School Teacher (to little girl)—Do you say your prayers every night before going to bed?

Little Girl (promptly)—No, ma'am.

Sunday School Teacher—Are you not afraid to go to sleep without asking God to watch over you during the darkness?

Little Girl—No, ma'am, I'm not afraid, 'cause I sleep in the middle.—Firefly.

Tonsorial Item.

Victim—Huh! you better try the crimping iron on a piece of paper to see if it is not too hot?

Barber—Don't need no paper. As soon as I smell your hair burning I know right off it is too hot.—Texas Sittings.

ASKING THE CAPTAIN.

Just What Happened When Information Was Sought From the Commander.

"Once on an ocean steamer," said a traveler, "we had a heated shaft bearing, or something of that sort, so that the engines stopped for five or six hours. I had often read and heard about how the captain was the great mogul aboard ship, how about all things pertaining to the affairs of the ship he held aloof and must not be approached by the passengers, and that it was a sort of violation of the unwritten rules of the sea for a passenger to ask the captain anything. And there may be some reason in all this; if one passenger might ask him, 40 might, and surely the commander of the ship ought not to be unnecessarily disturbed by useless questions. We had been lying there three or four hours waiting. There was no danger whatever, but it was a delay and an incident of interest, and of course all the passengers talked about nothing else—the common information was that the delay was due to a heated bearing."

"I was standing on the upper deck by the door to the main companionway leading to the deck below. The captain came along the upper deck from the after part of the ship and went below by that companionway. He must pass within a foot of me, and under the circumstances it did not seem like a violently unreasonable breach of salt water etiquette to ask him what was the matter, which I did. A passenger who stood on the other side of the doorway looked at me with the amused smile of an older traveler. The captain said nothing. He simply passed on, to all outward appearances quite unconscious of my question or even my presence."—New York Sun.

THE JEWEL CASKET.

The constantly increasing use of enamel is the most obvious tendency in ornamentation. A stickpin that holds its own through various modifications is the little pretzel-like coil of gold or silver, either by itself or enmeshing a tiny stone.

Two serpents interlaced are among the various designs for necklet bars; slender spirals starred with tiny lilies, each end terminating in a flower-de-luce, is another design; little wheels with curving spokes and a large stone for the hub is a third.

Yellow diamonds are having their inning. A large proportion of the prettiest jewelry of the week and especially in rings had for the most prominent feature a large yellow diamond. The appropriate relief was found in the colorless stone.—Jewelers' Circular.

SMALL BEGINNINGS

Make great endings sometimes. Ailments that we are apt to consider trivial often grow, through neglect, into atrocious maladies, dangerous in themselves and productive of others. It is the disregard of the earlier indications of ill health which leads to the establishment of all sorts of maladies on a chronic basis. Moreover, there are certain disorders incident to the season, such as malaria and rheumatism, against which it is always desirable to fortify the system after exposure to the conditions which produce them. Cold, damp and miasmata are surely counteracted by Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. After you have incurred risk from these influences, a wineglassful or two of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters directly afterward should be swallowed. For malaria, dyspepsia, liver complaint, kidney and bladder trouble, nervousness and debility it is the most decidedly popular of remedies and preventives. A wineglassful before meals promotes appetite.

DEAFNESS CANNOT BE CURED

By local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure Deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.
