BRIEF LOCAL MATTERS.

Holiday goods at the Racket store.
The famous leather suspenders at the Racket store.
F. L. Hubbard, photographer, Hood River, Oregon.
M. H. Nickelsen is selling his Christmas goods below price.
Lou Morse is authorized agent for all newspapers and periodicals.
Andy Rand moved his family from the mills to Haynes spur last week.
Just received at the Racket store, another full line of gent's underwear.
David Gibbons and Wm. Iseberg have returned from their trip to San Francisco.
Mrs. M. A. Cook has been sick with a gripe for the past month and is now bedfast.

Remember, the Racket store is originator of popular prices. We lead, others follow.
Saturday and Monday of each week will be our grinding days throughout the fall and winter. HARRISON BROS.
Tom Pierce of Drano, Wash., was in town last Friday. Tom is now captain of the Oregon Lumber Co.'s steam tug.
Miss Sadie Orser of Chewoweth came up Tuesday and visited friends in the valley during Christmas, returning home Thursday.

The Frankton school is taking a recess this week and will begin again January 21. The Hood River school will take their recess next week.
Col. Sinnott has abandoned the scheme of raising a brigade to fight the British and will enlist but one regiment. He thinks one regiment is enough, of the kind of material offering their services to him.
Notice our fancy new graham sacks. We will use these henceforth and they will always be filled with the choicest product. Examine the brand and see that you get our "Whole Wheat Graham." Beware of inferior stuff.

At the Valley church, Christmas eve, there was a full house and a very enjoyable time was had. The Crapper district united with the people of the Valley church. Two hundred and six bags of candy were given out, and then it was found there was not enough to go round.

William Langille and William Graham have been working for the past five weeks on a new house for Malcolm Moody, at the bridge over the Deschutes. Mr. Graham came home to spend Christmas, while Mr. Langille took his Christmas dinner with Mr. Moody at The Dalles.
Mr. and Mrs. E. Locke entertained a number of friends and their families on Christmas. At 2 o'clock the guests were served to an excellent dinner, after which Mr. and Mrs. Santa Claus, who were impersonated by Tom Calkins and Miss Margaret Locke, appeared and distributed the presents from a Christmas tree laden with gifts for all present.

The wife of Mr. D. Robinson, a prominent lumberman of Hartwick, N. Y., was sick with rheumatism for five months. In speaking of it Mr. Robinson says: "Chamberlain's Pain Balm is the only thing that gave her any rest from pain. For the relief of pain it cannot be beat." Many very bad cases have been cured by it. For sale at 50 cents per bottle by Williams & Brosius, druggists.

Persons who are buying second-class fruit trees from abroad can get the same kinds of trees of Tillet for less money. He has 2,000 second class trees, two to three feet high, well rooted—Yakima, Spitzberg, Ben Davis, Gano, King, Red Russian, Delaware Red and Jonathan—which he will sell for $25 per thousand. Or, if you wish first class trees at regular rates, he can accommodate you.

The following letter from F. P. Wagnener of Vancouver to Mr. Amos Underwood was considered a good enough Christmas gift by the recipient: "Vancouver, Dec. 23, 1895.—Dear Sir: Your land is O. K. Cook's motion for review was denied by the secretary. The case is now closed and the apple tree is yours; also the subterranean cavern 60 feet across and 80 feet deep, which Mr. Cook told me he found on the place. Merry Christmas."

A passenger who had imbibed too much holiday whiskey was aboard the local train leaving The Dalles Christmas day. When the conductor called on him for his fare he refused to put up the full amount and was dropped off at Rowena. He started after the train afoot, but his jug was so great that it is not likely he got very far towards his destination, which was Viento. He had a well filled bottle with him, and did not seem to care whether school kept or not so long as the bottle didn't go back on him.

When most needed it is not unusual for your family physician to be away from home. Such was the experience of Mr. J. N. Schenck, editor of the Caddo, Ind. Ter., Banner, when his little girl, two years of age, was threatened with a severe attack of croup. He says: "My wife insisted that I should go for the doctor, but as our family physician was out of town I purchased a little of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, which relieved her immediately. I will not be without it in the future. For sale at 50 cents per bottle by Williams & Brosius, druggists."

The local passenger train on Christmas day, in rounding a point of rocks two and one-half miles east of Mosier, ran into a pile of rocks that had rolled from the bluff upon the track. The tender was derailed and brake beams knocked off the baggage car. The train was detained one hour and a quarter while removing the rock and getting the trucks of the tender onto the track. It looked like a serious matter for a while, and the half-dozen passengers thought they were doomed to stay there the rest of the day. But the train men were equal to the emergency and soon had the train spinning along toward The Dalles.

On the 10th of October last, Mrs. Alma Howe met with an accident by a stick of cordwood falling upon her ankle. She thought at the time that it was only a bruise and kept on about her work, but in a few days she was unable to walk and has been confined to her house ever since, not being able to bear her weight on the injured ankle. Physicians here say they can do nothing for her and advise her to go to Portland for treatment. She expects to go to Portland about the 1st of January.

The lecture course committee regrets having to announce that the Stauffer University Mandolin club will not come north this season, therefore we must be disappointed with other places in the northwest. We have just learned that the club has decided to go south, the objective point being Atlanta. The committee is making every effort to supply the place and hopes to be able in the near future to announce the date.

Christmas was observed as usual at the Belmont M. E. church on Christmas eve. A short programme, consisting of recitations and music by the Belmont choir, was carried out, after which the candies and presents were distributed. The church was tastefully decorated with evergreens, while on the wall were the words, in cedar boughs, "Peace on Earth, Good Will to Men."

Before throwing aside this paper, gentle reader, and declaring there's nothing in it, as usual, cast your eyes over into the next column and read the price list in B. R. Tucker's big ad. Then, when you have bought a bill of goods at his prices you will have money left and gladly call and pay up your subscription for the GLACIER.

Mr. C. P. Heald and family left Hood River last Friday night on the train for their future home at Peoria, Illinois. They expected to reach their destination on the evening before Christmas.

Any one who wishes to ascertain the manner in which the Thanksgiving collection, lifted for the afflicted, was distributed, can do so by calling at the store of A. S. Blowers & Co.
Owing to the storm, Hubbard, photographer, will continue his offer till New Years. Cabinets $2, cards $1 per doz. After New Years, cabinets will be $2.50, cards $1.50 per doz.
Little Gladys Markley is still at Mrs. Howe's, recovering slowly from her late spell of typhoid fever.

Rolled wheat, the best of horse feed, can now be had at the box factory.
Look out for the Maccabees' ball announcement next week.
Candies, peanuts and gum at the Racket store.

One doz. cabinets and life size erayon, $5. F. L. HUBBARD.
Gent's slippers at the Racket store.

At the Methodists' Barracks.
In addition to their services, heretofore announced, on Christmas eve the Methodist Sunday school took advantage of the holiday season to have a picnic dinner at the barracks on Christmas. Two long tables, loaded with tempting viands, were surrounded by the happy children, before whose onslaught the piles of eatables soon grew small. One of the amusing features of the occasion was a group of four Indians who seemed to have smelled the savory articles from afar. They were provided with a table by themselves, and the way they stored away the provisions was a wonder to the children. Again and again were the good things heaped upon their plates, only to quickly disappear down their capacious throats. Finally, even they were satisfied and left taking with them an invitation to come again next year. Nearly dark, the company broke up, all feeling that they had indeed had a Merry Christmas.

Written for the GLACIER.
To Mr. J. Bull.
Grover, keep your foot tight down,
Just let the lion froth;
He thinks to make us, by a frown,
Declare Monroe was off.
He won't be gosh! Just let him roar;
Our daddies met him twice before,
And now we've sixty millions more—
Oh, "Some one head us off!"
Perhaps he thinks that party lines
Will cut a figure some,
No; they are used in peaceful times,
In family fights alone.
Say, Johnny Bull, lend me an ear—
I have a tale that you should hear.
You won't? Confound your dirty ear!
Then, "Johnny, get your gun!"
My tale when told might surprise
A few o'ers here at home,
If Bull depends on broken ties,
He'll find our nation one.
We pray for peace, but if we array,
We'll have one cause, one flag display,
The "Star Spangled Banner" our bands will play—
And "Johnny comes marching home."
Grover, if you should call today,
To arms! on land and water,
No jealousies could hold their sway,
They'd meet with instant slaughter.
Each patriot's star would then shine forth,
And while we never want the earth,
Our boundary lines might move up north
If "We fight for Grover's daughters."

The print is too fine—most of it is, nowadays. Don't injure your eyes attempting to read it. We can make it so much easier for you with a pair of spectacles or eye glasses. We have no poor glasses; our cheap ones are good glasses in cheap frames. There are too many of other kinds on the market—made to look at, not through. We test every pair before we let you take them away, and if they don't suit after trying them a short time, we take them back, of course.

Major C. T. Picton is manager of the State Hotel, Denton, Texas, which the traveling men say is one of the best hotels in that section. In speaking of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, Major Picton says: "I have used it myself and in my family for several years, and take pleasure in saying that I consider it an infallible cure for diarrhoea and dysentery. I always recommend it to my guests in the hotel, and in every case it has proved itself worthy of unqualified endorsement." For sale by Williams & Brosius, druggists.
