The Outlook in England.
 Is Lord Salisbury likely to give the franchise to women? It is quite possible that he will do so. The Liberal Unionists almost to a man (Mr. Leonard Courtney the one conspicuous exception) are against the re-empowerment of women, but the Conservative majority without the Liberal Unionists will be strong enough to carry anything. There will undoubtedly be a registration of voters bill, and in all probability a redistribution of seats bill, brought in by the government, and it is thought very probable that in these an opportunity will be found for enfranchising at least some women. Woman suffrage has always had considerable Conservative support. Lord Beaconsfield was absolutely the first person to say a word in its favor in the house of commons, and Lord Salisbury and Mr. Balfour are both its advocates. Probably, however, a Conservative woman's suffrage would be confined to propertyed ladies. It would be rather a representation of that property than an enfranchisement of women. To this, probably, the house of lords would not object.—London Illustrated News.

CANADA'S LIBERAL LEADER.
 Sir Wilfrid Laurier, the noted leader of the Liberal Party in the Dominion, is an able man. He was born in the province of Quebec in 1842, and was educated in the college of L'Assomption. He afterward took the degree of B. C. L. at McGill University in Toronto. He studied law and was called to the bar of lower Canada in 1865. In 1880 he was appointed queen's counsel. He has had a brilliant career in the dominion house of commons. He first attracted attention to himself as an orator in a great speech on the Riel question at the time of the rebellion in the northwestern territories. It was at the dead of night, when the house was tired out and sleepy. But the flood of eloquence he poured forth, the mighty power he disclosed, roused the members to the fact that a new force was among them, and his success as a leader was assured from that moment. Laurier is a tall, slender man, and in the very prime of his physical and mental power. He speaks French and English with equal fluency, and the suggestion of Gallic accent he has only serves to lend an additional charm to an oratory whose rhetoric is perfect. One thing about him will make him dear, perhaps, some day to Americans. He is an ardent annexationist.

MOTHERS
 Anxiously watch declining health of their daughters. So many are cut off by consumption in early years that there is real cause for anxiety. In the early stages, when not beyond the reach of medicine, Hood's Sarsaparilla will restore the quality and quantity of the blood and thus give good health. But to the following letter:
 "It is but just to write about my daughter Cora, aged 19. She was completely run down, declining, had that tired feeling, and friends said she would not live over three months. She had a bad cough and nothing seemed to do her any good. I happened to read about Hood's Sarsaparilla and had her give it a trial. From the very first dose she began to get better. After taking a few bottles she was completely cured and her health has been the best ever since." MRS. ADDIE PECK, 12 Railroad Place, Amsterdam, N. Y.

WHAT NEGLECT MAY DO.
 There are some infirmities that only a surgeon's knife will relieve, and mostly strictly because of neglect. A neglected nerve pain may become so chronic as to cripple, and this is often the case with Sciatica. If taken in time, it is easily subdued, like other nerve pains, and vigor and health are restored. Thousands of cases have been treated by the use of St. Jacobs Oil, with the result of a prompt and permanent cure and restoration to health of the affected nerve. People cannot be too careful with their nerves. There is too much to suffer to admit of foolish neglect, and the simple thing of getting a bottle of St. Jacobs Oil and applying promptly may save years of misery and perhaps years of crippled condition. Let this warning serve to show what can be and what ought to be done without delay in an attack of this disease.

HOW INDIANS MEASURE TIME.
 They Fix Their Dates by Sleeps and Moons and Winters.
 Our Indians measure time solely by days, by sleeps, by moons and by winters. The Indian has no name for any subdivision of time less than a day. When he desires to indicate a shorter period, he points to the heavens, and measuring off a space says, "It was as long as it would take the sun to go from there to there." A day is from daylight to darkness, "sleep," or night, from dark to daylight. He has no name for any day, nor has he any subdivision of time corresponding to our week. A moon commencing with the first streak of the crescent in the west and lasts until the next one appears, but the days of the moon are neither numbered nor named. "From winter to winter" is the nearest approach he has to our term. The year commences with the first fall of snow. An Indian will tell you he is 80 many winters old, but having no months or days he never has a birthday. The Indians who formerly inhabited the southern part of Texas, where there is no snowfall, are said to have fixed the commencement of the year at the first "norther," a furious and chilling wind that sweeps from the north and is of frequent occurrence during the winter months.
 No year has any name or number fixing a sequence or point of reference, but each band will designate a year by its most prominent occurrence, as a fight with hostile, death of a chief, prevalence of disease, abundance or scarcity of food, or failing anything marvelous or striking by the name of the winter camp. But these are mere remembrances, and excellent as is the Indians memory they, after a few years, fade into a jumble of disconnected facts without sequence or usefulness.

Meaning of the Word "Omaha."
 The name "Omaha" bears testimony to the long journey of the people, and reveals some of the causes which brought about this breaking up into distinct tribes. It is composed of two words, which signify "going against the current," or up the stream. The Omahas were the people who went up the stream, while the Quapaws, their near of kin, went, as their name reveals, "with the current," or down the stream. The traditions of both these peoples say that the parting occurred during a hunting expedition, each division finally settling in the lands whither they had wandered apart. This epochal hunt must have been centuries ago, for the Quapaws bore their descriptive name in 1540, being mentioned in the Portuguese narrative of De Soto's expedition as then living on the Arkansas river, where they dwelt until 1839, when they ceded their long-occupied lands to the United States.—Alice C. Fletcher in Century.

THE LAWS OF NATURE.
 The laws of nature are just, but terrible. There is no weak mercy in them. Cause and consequence are inseparable and inevitable. The fire burns, the water drowns, the air consumes, the earth buries. And perhaps it would be well for our race if the punishment of crimes against the laws of man were as inevitable as the punishment of crimes against the laws of nature—were man as unerring in his judgments as nature.—Longfellow.

YOUNG AT FIFTY.
 HOW A METHODIST MINISTER CARRIES HIS YEARS.

Rev. William Young, of Oswego, Tells a Reporter His Secret of Good Health—Will Surely Benefit Everyone Who Follows His Advice.

From the Times, Oswego, N. Y.

Probably no man is better known or more highly respected in Oswego, N. Y., than Rev. William Young, of the Methodist church. Mr. Young has not a conference appointment, but holds a responsible position with the Oswego City Savings bank, where he has been a trusty employe for the past twenty years.

In the spring of 1894 Mr. Young looked as if his time was limited and that he would be laid at rest with the great majority before the snow covered the ground. But, instead of falling as predicted, he soon gained a more healthy look and appeared stronger. As the months went by this improvement continued, until now he is as vigorous and apparently as healthy as a young man of thirty, although his gray locks denote a more advanced age. A Times reporter determined to find out what had made this great, and it might be said phenomenal, change, called upon Mr. Young at the bank and put the question direct and received the following reply:
 "In truth I am a changed man, and I owe my present good health to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. In the spring of 1894 I was all run down and had commenced to think that my time had come. I had to be prescribed for by physicians, and although I received temporary relief, the same old trouble came back again and I was worse than before. I had no strength or appetite, and physically I was in a miserable condition. After my work I would go home, but the general lassitude which hung over me left me without any ambition, and when I would go to the table to eat, my appetite failed me and I would have to leave without taking hardly any nourishment. My kidneys were also badly affected, and I was in utter despair. One day, here at the local papers, and my eye fell on an advertisement of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. The advertisement gave a description of a man who, afflicted as I then was, had been cured by using Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I was not a believer in that kind of doctoring, but concluded as a last resort to try a box of the pills, making up my mind that if they did not help me I certainly would not be injured any. Going to a drugstore, I purchased a box of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and commenced taking them according to directions. Very soon after I began to feel better and I saw I had made no mistake in trying the pills, and before the first box was emptied I felt so much improved that I immediately purchased another. I had taken several boxes of the pills, and at the end of last summer I felt I was certainly cured and discontinued their use, but always keep a box handy if occasion requires. I am now entirely cured. The lassitude has left me, my kidneys are all right and my appetite—well, you should see me at the table. I am a new man again, and instead of feeling like a man of fifty, which is my age, I feel like a youngster of twenty, and I give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills the full credit for this great change. I have recommended these pills to several of my neighbors and acquaintances who have been relieved of their complaints." William Young, being duly sworn, deposes and says he is the gentleman referred to in the above interview, and it is true in every respect.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this 25th day of May, 1895.
 Bernard Gallagher, Notary Public.
 Dr. Williams' Pink Pills contain all the elements necessary to give new life and richness to the blood and restore shattered nerves. They are for sale by all druggists, or may be had by mail from Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Boston, N. Y., for 50 cents per box, or six boxes for $2.50.

REV. ZEPHANIAH MEEK, D. D.
 Eminent Methodist Divine Cured of Nerve Trouble by Paine's Celery Compound.

Rev. Zephaniah Meek, D. D., is a household name all over the South. Since 1867 he has owned and edited the "Central Methodist," the leading paper of the Methodist Episcopal church in the South. He represented his state at the General Conference.

He was one of the Kentucky commissioners at the Chicago Columbian Exposition. During his ministry in the South he has built and dedicated five chapels. He writes from Catlettsburg, Ky., where his home is, as follows:
 "I have used several bottles of Paine's celery compound for nervous trouble, resulting from overwork, and with immediate effect, as well as permanent benefit. It is the best nerve tonic that I have ever tried. It has also been used in my family with great benefit."

Tired out, half-sick men and women need something more than a mere rest. They need a positive, unmistakable nerve food; they must have a reserve of nerve force to draw from, before their heads will cease to ache and their nerves cease to tremble with neuralgia.

It is estimated that there are over ten million nerve fibres in the body. So long as these minute tissues are kept fully nourished, one lives in blissful ignorance of any such thing as neuralgia, headaches, or even a nervous system, but let one become "run-down" and the nutrition of the body get low, and every one of these myriad fibres becomes a "live-wire" within the flesh. Headaches, neuralgia, rheumatism, and other forms of nervousness and debility result directly from a famished nervous system. Paine's celery compound is able to correct this faulty condition. It builds up the nervous system and sustains it. The brain at once feels the strengthening effects of the superb nutriment. There are thousands of men and women today who have been enabled to keep vigorously at work, who must have given up but for Paine's celery compound. Nervous affections are a warning to busy people.

At the earliest sign of reduced nerve force, inability to sleep, languor, or a gloomy habit of mind, everyone should look immediately to the nutrition of their nervous system and to the purity of their blood. Paine's celery compound will attend to both of these urgent needs more thoroughly and more speedily than anything else in the world. Paine's celery compound is not to be confounded with the common preparations, the sarsaparilla and the nervines. Being the discovery of a man of science, Prof. Edward E. Phelps, M. D., LL. D., of Dartmouth College, it has the support of the best physicians; they prescribe it universally; and the many sick persons made well by its use proves that that support is merited.

To the great majority of business men a vacation, to say nothing of three months of complete inactivity, is out of the question at this season, even when their brains demand a complete rest and their nerves ache and threaten them with prostration. Now, there are hundreds of business men and hard-worked professional men in this city in just this condition. What are they to do? Those who are tired out, "run-down" and debilitated at this trying season will do well to read some of the straightforward and convincing statements from the men and women who have been cured by Paine's celery compound.

Nervous weakness vanishes before Paine's celery compound as mist before the strong, health-giving rays of the sun. Convince yourself of the fact at once, if your health is at all impaired.
