

Hood River Glacier.

FRIDAY, MAY 15, 1896.

In Portland the republican bolters have named their ticket the "Mitchell republican." In Wasco county as will be seen by the following report of a "democratic meeting" taken from the Dufur Dispatch:

A large audience met Messrs. E. B. Dufur and J. W. Armsworthy last Saturday night in the Odd Fellows hall to learn what they would do if they were elected to the state senate. Both gentlemen were in the best of humor, confident of election, and had evidently had some experience in running for office, for they were very "promising" speakers.

Each took for his text the "Free Silver of the Democratic Party and the Reform Resolutions of the last two or three Republican Platforms," and they did each part of their text justice.

Pledges were given to allow no dead lock in the legislature on United States senator and to vote for John H. Mitchell if the democrats were favorable to a bimetallic double standard. Were it possible for a democrat to be elected, the News would do all in its power to elect him, but under the circumstances, believing it impossible for Oregon to send a man other than a republican, then let the candidates pledge themselves to support the man who will do the most for the most of the people.

The following from the Wasco News, whose editor, J. W. Armsworthy, is the democratic nominee for joint senator from Wasco and Sherman counties, corroborates the above:

It will be necessary for the different candidates for the legislature this year to define their position regarding the choosing of a U. S. senator. In existing circumstances, when the country is under such an unsettled condition, it becomes a question of more importance than is usual. In choosing a senator this year we must have a man who can have influence enough in congress to get certain measures for Oregon passed. He must be a man favorable to a bimetallic double standard.

Sound-money democrats of Hood River are still in doubt about how they will vote in the coming state election, outside of their regular county ticket. It will be a good day for some of them to go fishing. They are somewhat in the same fix as the democratic editor in Indiana in 1890. When the split in the democratic party that year resulted in the nomination of two candidates, Breckinridge and Douglas, it was hard for the country editor to decide which it would be the best policy to support. The writer was then working at the case on the Washburn plain-dealer. The editor, who had opposed Douglas before the nominations, was in a quandary which to support. He finally sat down and wrote on one side of a foilsheet sheet declaring that Breckinridge was the true democratic nominee and denouncing Douglas as a traitor to his party. He then turned the sheet and wrote on the other side in favor of Douglas, expressing his appreciation of the Little Giant and promising him the powerful influence of his pen. The copy was then handed to us and the Douglas article was put in type. Before the paper went to press he took down the democratic flag and hoisted that of Lincoln and Hamilton and the whole republican ticket.

The following shows the strength of the opposing currency delegations so far elected to the Chicago convention:

States	For	Against
Missouri	94	4
Washington	8	8
Oregon	8	8
Mississippi	18	5
Colorado	5	5
Massachusetts	30	30
Rhode Island	5	5
Alabama	12	12
Pennsylvania	64	28
Michigan	28	21
Tennessee	21	21
New Jersey	20	20
Nebraska (contested)	21	21
Total (uncontested)	122	153

Wasco county has another newspaper. The Dufur Dispatch has been reissued and is now issued by H. S. Turner. The first number, May 8th, has been received at this office. Under the editorial management of Mr. Turner the Dispatch bids fair to be a good local paper, worthy the support of the good people of Dufur.

V. C. Lewis of Cascade Locks, democratic nominee for joint representative from Wasco and Sherman counties, has withdrawn. He says his withdrawal is in the interest of Mitchell. This leaves the clear field for populist and democratic votes.

It is estimated there are 1,500 veterans of the war in the second congressional district. Of this number over fifty are residents of Hood River valley.

Judge Northrup, the sound-money candidate for congress, was department commander for Oregon of the Grand Army of the Republic about five years ago.

The Oregon supreme court rendered a decision last Monday that women are not eligible for the office of county school superintendent. This decision affects adversely fifteen candidates for that position in the state. The time for filing certificates of nomination expires today.

Major McKinley has now more than a majority of the delegates to the St. Louis convention pledged to his support, and his nomination on the first ballot is considered a foregone conclusion.

Congress has voted to adjourn next Monday.

Memorial Exercises.

EDITOR GLACIER. The committee appointed by the G. A. R. and W. R. C. to make suitable arrangements for memorial services on Sabbath, May 24th, to be held at the Christian church in the valley, and the memorial services of decorating the graves of deceased soldiers and sailors on Saturday, May 30th, at the cemetery near E. 10. Closing.

The committee would most cordially invite the pastors of the different churches to be present with us on both occasions and take part in the solemn services of honoring our noble dead, and especially do we want the Sabbath schools to be with us, and in the language of our commander-in-chief, "Let trusting childhood weave garlands for them, and at their graves receive inspiration that will keep them earnest in loyalty, pure in citizenship and faithful to duty." Let all come and make it an occasion worthy of the object for which it was instituted.

By order of the committee.
C. J. HAYES, Secretary.

The Lying Telephone.

John Roth of Dufur was a candidate before the late populist convention for sheriff. For some reason his fitness for that office was not recognized by the convention and another was nominated. The boys at Dufur, to have some fun, induced Roth to come out as an independent candidate. He was in the Dalles the other day, looking after his political fences, and of course made his headquarters at the Umatilla. The boys in the telegraph office across the hall called him to the telephone in the hotel office. He was called from Cascade Locks, Hood River, Astoria and other places, all promising him the support of the leading citizens of each. Then the leading citizens of the Dalles began to call him up and he listened to the most cheering promises of support from all. While listening to the flattering words of Malcolm Moody through the 'phone, Roth was horrified to see Malcolm enter the door of the hotel. He dropped the receiver with the exclamation, "Mine Cott!"

Council Proceedings.

The common council met at the office of the recorder May 8th, Mayor Blowers presiding. Present—Councilmen Henry, Watson, Dukes, Bartness and Morse and Recorder Prather.

Minutes of last regular meeting read and approved.

Ordinance No. 16 was read second time. On motion of Morse, the ordinance was rejected.

Committee on streets and public property reported that a dog pen had been built and is now in condition to impound dogs.

Bill of J. P. Watson for $1.90, for labor and material for dog pound, was read and referred to finance committee.

On motion of Henry, the bill of J. P. Watson was allowed and warrant ordered drawn on general fund for the payment of same.

On motion of Henry, the recorder was authorized to purchase two dozen dog checks or tags.

On motion, the mayor was instructed to notify the marshal that the council had ordered him to appoint one or more deputies for impounding stock.

Look to Your Laws—Coxey's Coming.

MASSILLON, Ohio, May 5, 1896.—C. L. Morse, Hood River, Or.—My Dear Sir: There's such a discrepancy in the hand-writing of two letters bearing your name that we are at loss to know what it means. However, Bro. Morse, do not oppose your state committee. Mr. Coxey is not under their pay. He has laid out a trip through Oregon on his own hook. He desires to study botany as he goes along, and especially the different grasses that thrive in your soil and under your climate. He has fixed one of his stopping places at Hood River; will arrive there on the 18th, and if, while in the vicinity, the natives, through curiosity or otherwise, see fit to corner him to get a speech or explanation of his measures, why I guess it might be done without violating any rules of party discipline or endangering the orthodoxy of your populism. He will be at Hood River on the 18th. So warn the timid ones to move out and take their lawns with them. As a reminder or suggestion of what they may expect to see when he comes, we send a few lithographs. Place them as your discretion best dictates, but if the trains stop at your town there is sure to be a Coxey visitation to Hood River. It is well to be warned of these things, and knowing that your people will appreciate a friendly tip, for there is no way of escape so far as I can see now. I speak thus frankly. There are some things that can be stopped, some courses can be diverted if taken in time, but Coxey is out of that list entirely. I discovered that when I was with him two years ago and saw Chief Murphy of Pittsburg try to keep him from entering that city. That's the best we can say now. P. S.—When the natives take in their laws, tell them to take in their signs, too. Yours,
H. VINCENT.

Strawberries in the Willamette Valley.

Tuesday's Oregonian says: "The continuous cool, showery weather is not favorable to the early development of strawberries, and many are anxiously inquiring as to the prospects for the strawberry crop this season. A reporter yesterday met Mr. N. B. Harvey, the well-known grower of berries at Milwaukie, who is inclined to take rather a gloomy view of the situation. He says that in not one of the 40 years he has been engaged in growing strawberries have the vines or plants looked so unpromising as at present; in fact, they are not more than half as well grown as is usual at this time of year, and where the plants make a poor growth he says there cannot be a big crop of berries. He says the fruit will be 10 days later than usual this year. Generally speaking he has commenced picking berries for market from the 28th of May to the 1st of June, but he thinks it will be June 10th before there will be any picking done this year, and then there will not be over half a crop.

Mr. S. O. McCafferty of Hood River and Miss Clara Wraga of Drano came down on the Regular Monday in order to see what kind of a matrimonial knot Judge Gray could tie. The found out all right enough. After interviewing County Auditor Green and procuring the necessary legal document, John Williams was started post-haste after the judge, who was at home at work on his farm. The ceremony was performed at the Nix hotel, but it was too late for the happy couple to take the boat for home, so they remained in Stevenson until the next morning. Some of the boys tried to get up a chivari during the evening, but the attempt was a failure and the young couple were allowed to rest in peace.—Skamania Pioneer.

The Discovery Saved His Life.

Mr. G. Cailhoute, druggist, Beaversville, Ill., says: "To Dr. King's New Discovery I owe my life. I was taken with the grippe and tried all the physicians for miles about, but of no avail and was given up and told I could not live. I saw Dr. King's New Discovery in my store. I sent for a bottle and began its use, and from the first dose began to get better, and after using three bottles was up and about again. It is worth its weight in gold. I won't keep store on house without it." Get a free trial at the Hood River Pharmacy.

For sale at the Hood River Pharmacy.

Why Did You Come Out Independent?

At the request of many friends and voters of this county who believe, like myself, that this free country should be run by the people and not by any faction or political bosses of any party, that would down a man because they could not use him.
Now, gentlemen, I do not ask for any more than others have before me, and have only done my duty as a faithful custodian of the funds of this county, and shall continue to do so as long as you say by your votes that I shall stay in the office of treasurer of Wasco county. Not favoring the rich any more than the man who toils hard and long for his hard-earned dollars, I leave it for the voters of this county to say if a tried man is not as good as an untried man in this responsible office.
I am at your service.
WM. MICHELL,
County Treasurer.

A FEW GOATS TO BOAT.

Secretary Carlisle's address of his verbal secretary at the auditorium of the Chicago Convention. It fitted five eggs common with journal, set in fine type. It lay on the ground extensive marshing of figures the varied in groups up to thousands of millions, set for many arrays of percentages and required for its argument ratios and equalities appertaining to wages, prices of commodities, and the fluctuations of depreciated currency and voluminous comparative statistics affecting labor and life in various countries. It was delivered without manuscript or notes or reference to notes except in two instances, once in Chili and a second to cite the report of a senate committee covering wages and prices of commodities for a designated period in the United States.—Chicago Times-Herald.
