From P. A. Snyder in Alaska. IN CAMP, 110 from Juneau, Alaska, any one would be able to come very any one. readily to our house, when the street and number are so clearly designated. grammatical slip of "is designated." See? I'm forgetting the mite of English I once did know. While I give our city address as it is at present, 10:45 p. m., it any one wants to find us here, he with have to get here by 4 a. m. tomorrow morning, for just after that we "pick up our traps and go." I write this communication while I sit up waiting for the camp kettle full of dried appies to cook, Frank J. baked the bread for supper, but he had to nail it to the bottom of the pan to keep tellow raising the top of the oven off, while the witter of this was out gathering Kingsley; Hattie Allen, Endersby; Annie B. Thompson and Hester Rusk, heds (four feet of snow), and Mr. woodpile.
But in more serious mood, I thought perhaps, some friend (if we have any) might wish to know where we are or what we are doing. To-morrow morning we leave the silver Salmon river, a tributary of the Taku, and ascend the side of a mountain about 2000 feet high, which will take us out into an open country about 50 or 60 miles from lake Teslin our objective point, reaching to make suitable arrangements for which, we turn and go north to the foot of the take, another 50 or 60 miles.

Each man has a sled, tools and a "grub stake" for six months, all of which weigh about 600 pounds. Occasionally of it at one load, but most of the time we have to make two loads of it. We left Juneau, Alaska March 10. lett Juneau, Alaska, March 16th and liave been steadily working our way up the Taku, eastward, ever since. From two to five miles is about the best we can do. The snow is deep and we have to take advantage of every works that forms or also we love the same of the same and we have to take advantage of every successive that forms or also we love the same and the same a crust that forms or else wallow through three or four feet of snow. Our first 60 or 70 miles on the lower course of the s ream, which carries perhaps double the volume of water carried by Hood river, but slower and deeper, was a constant's rife to keep ahead of the outgoing ice. Ice which was safe and sound in the morning, in the atternoon was soft and dangerous to cross, and in several instances our sleds cut through, when we had to pull them across with ropes. One of our tent mates, Mr. Bryant f in into the river and was carried under the ice, but by a great effort he succeeded in shoving his body back towards the opening again, when sticks and a rope were turown to him. We are over the worst of our trip now, and after two or three day's more work we shall be able to make seven or eight miles a day.

The mountains of this part of the country for grandeur surpass anything I have ever seen. Most of the native rock formation is granite, slate, flint, sandstone, etc. The mineral wealth is unsought as yet. Yesterday, as we were coming up the canyon of this stream, while I stopped to rest, I looked across the rocky side and noticed a peculiar looking rock formation, perhaps a hundred feet high and 75 feet wide, on examining it, it proved to be a great coal seem. Only one quartz ledge so far has been located; but the field for the prospector is almost unlimited. No white men have been in this part of

In 110 miles travel we have met but two Indians, one of whom we employed to go back three days with Frank J. and Peter Shearer to show them the schools to be with us, and in the lander of the schools to be with us, and in the schools to be with us, and in the lander of the schools to be with us, and in the lander of the schools to be with us, and in the schools to be with us, and in the schools to be with us, and in the lander of the schools to be with us, and in the schools to be with us, and in the schools to be with us, and in the school to be with us, from the interior towards Juneau, to sell their furs. This letter is carried out by the Indian who acted as guide for the three days.

In the short space of a letter, I can-not teil you the many haps and mis-haps. How we got onto the wrong Fiver and hauled our sleds eight days before we discovered the error. My! weren't things sulphurous around that camp for a while? The work is pretty tough, but on the whole our party is a joily one, and every person turns in and helps his neighbor whenever he needs it. If we can find another Siwash coming out, and I have the time, perhaps I can send you another line. P. A. SNYDER.

Fruit Will Bring High Prices.

Mr. Mark Levy, a leading fruit buyer and commission man of Portland, is in the city today. He speaks in most encouraging terms of the market for fruit to the coming season, and believes that Portland can alone furnish a good market for Wasco county fruits. He says that the Willamette valley will have that the Willamette valley will have a lighter crop than for twelve years; that peaches, prunes and early apples are almost a total failure, and that cherries and strawberries will not be more than a half crop. The general is the stomach were the follow. "The stomach is an extension of failure is caused by the excessive rains, which were unusually prolonged this season.—Chronicle.

Berry Plekers.

The question of where the strawberry growers will get their pickers hasn't been settled yet. Hood River has the reputation of putting a first class brand of fruit on the market, and to keep up this reputation the growers must have pickers who will pick and pack the fruit as it should be done. Both picking and packing fruit is almost a trade in itself, and it is not everyone that can master the art. To let those who intend coming here with the intention box by themselves, and the good ones by themselves, packed carefully. We pay the same for picking the culls so as to be sure to have them kept out. If you want to pick and will pack them as good as we have to have it done, there is no doubt but that you can get pienty of chances to pick. Each one boards himself. Most of them live in tents. The best way is to bring your tent and what few dishes you may need, and sufficient bedding, dishes you may need, and sufficient bedding, The rest can be had here. We pay cash each night if needed. It will be 10 or 12 days before the season opens, although there are a few ripe berries now. But it would be better to come early, so you could make arrangements before the season commences, for if we cannot get whites or Indians, we will have to get Japs and Chinamen, for when berries are ripe we cannot wait for any one. It is by close picking and careful packing that Hood River has won her great reputation. By letting all who think of coming know this you will confer a favor on them as well as the berry growers.

Yours respectfully, A. B. JONES.
