Mr. Willis Brown returned Monday from Chicago, where he has been in attendance at the national convention of fruitgrowers and shippers. An organization was formed called the American Fruitgrowers' Union, which brings into effective co-operation practically all the minor associations of fruitgrowers in this country and Canada. The central headquarters will be located in Chicago, and through a system of bulletins, it is proposed to keep the fruitgrowers and shippers in every part of the country informed of the movements of the markets. By this means it is hoped to distribute the output more evenly and to prevent any gluts and consequent loss of money and goods.
