

Hood River Glacier.

FRIDAY, JULY 10, 1896.

The Chicago convention seems to have created more interest than the St. Louis convention. The one at St. Louis carried out a cut and dried programme. The one at Chicago is full of surprises and probably will be to the end. The national committee, according to long-established custom, selected the temporary chairman. Senator Hill was his selection, but the convention voted him down and installed Senator Daniel. Senator White was made permanent chairman. The national committee elected the gold delegates from Michigan by only one opposing vote; the convention unseated enough gold men to give the delegation a majority for silver; and the unit rule votes the delegation solid. Other contestants seated by the committee were summarily ousted. The silver crowd have the votes and are showing no quarter to the 365 gold men. Yesterday was a day of argument on the adoption of the platform. It was expected that balloting would begin last night.

Outside of its financial features, the Chicago platform reads like sound democracy. Among its good points is the declaration in favor of a constitutional amendment to allow the levying of an income tax. Had the income tax clause of the Wilson bill been allowed to stand there would be no deficiency in the revenue. This would have left no excuse for the strong tariff plank of the republicans and McKinley would not have been nominated.

If the sound money democrats decide to make a nomination for president it would be policy for them to select a Southern man and the most popular ex-confederate to be found. In the campaign of education during the next four months they could literally "carry the war into Africa" and capture some of the states whose delegations now at Chicago are overriding established usages in their frenzy for free silver.

It will be gall and wormwood for democrats to vote for McKinley, but many of them will vote that way, all the same. This is an off year in politics.

Sound-money democrats will knife the ticket nominated at Chicago—not that they love their party less but their country more.

We fail to see any mention in the Chicago platform about protection to Western wool growers.

The Chicago Platform.
We, the democrats of the United States in national convention assembled, do reaffirm our allegiance to those great essential principles of justice and liberty upon which our institutions are founded, and which the democratic party has maintained from Jefferson's time to our own—freedom of speech, freedom of the press, freedom of conscience, the preservation of personal rights, the equality of all citizens before the law, the faithful observance of constitutional limitations.

Recognizing that the money question is paramount to all others at this time, we invite attention to the fact that the federal constitution names silver and gold together as the money metals of the United States, and that the first coinage law passed by congress under the constitution made the silver dollar the unit of value and admitted gold to free coinage, at a ratio measured by the silver-dollar unit.

We declare that the act of 1873 demonetizing silver without the knowledge or approval of the American people has resulted in the appreciation of gold and a corresponding fall in the price of commodities produced by the people; a heavy increase in the burden of taxation, and of all debts public and private; the enrichment of the money-lending classes at home and abroad; paralysis of industries and impoverishment of the people.

We are unalterably opposed to the single gold standard, which has locked fast the prosperity of an industrious people in the paralysis of hard times. Gold monometalism is a British policy, founded upon British greed for gain and power, and its adoption has brought other nations into financial servitude to London. It is not only anti-American, but anti-American, and it can be fastened upon the United States only by the stifling of that indomitable spirit and love of liberty which proclaimed our political independence in 1776 and won it in the war of the Revolution.

We demand the immediate restoration of the free and unlimited coinage of gold and silver at the present legal ratio of 16 to 1, without waiting for the aid or consent of any other nation. We demand that the standard silver dollar shall be a full legal tender, equally with gold, for all debts public and private, and we favor such legislation as will prevent the demonetization of any legal tender money by private contract.

We are opposed to the policy and practice of surrendering to the holders of the obligations of the United States the option reserved by law to the government of redeeming such obligations in either silver coin or gold coin.

We are opposed to the issuing of interest-bearing bonds of the United States in the time of peace, and condemn trafficking with banking syndicates which, in exchange for bonds at enormous profit to themselves, supply the federal treasury with gold to maintain the policy of gold monometalism.

Congress alone has the power to coin and issue money, and President Jackson declared that this power could not be delegated to corporations or individuals. We, therefore demand that the power to issue notes be taken from the banks, and that all paper shall be issued directly by the treasury department.

ment. We hold that the tariff duties should be levied solely for the purpose of revenue, and that taxation should be limited by the needs of the government, honestly and economically administered. We denounce as disturbing to business the republican threat to restore the McKinley law, which has twice been condemned by the people in national elections, and which enacted under the false plea of protection to home industry, proved a prolific breeder of trusts and monopolies, enriching the few at the expense of the many, restricted trade and deprived the producers of the great American staples of access to their natural markets.

Until the money question is settled, we are opposed to any agitation for further changes in our tariff laws, except such as are necessary to make the deficit in revenue, caused by the adverse decision of the supreme court as to the income tax.

There would have been no deficit in the federal revenue during the last two years but for the annulment by the supreme court of the income-tax law, placed upon the statute books by a democratic congress. The obstruction to an income tax, which the supreme court discovered in the constitution after it had laid hidden for a hundred years, must be removed, to the end that accumulated wealth may be made to bear its just share of the burdens of the government. We, therefore, favor an amendment to the federal constitution that will permit the levy of an income tax. We hold that the efficient way of protecting American labor is to prevent the importation of foreign pauper labor to compete with the home market, and that the value of the home market to our American farmers and artisans is greatly reduced by a vicious monetary system that depresses the prices of their product below the cost of production, and thus deprives them of the means of satisfying their needs. We denounce the profligate waste of the money wrung from the people by oppressive taxation and lavish appropriations of recent republican congresses, which have kept taxes high, while the laborer that pays them is unemployed, and products of the people are depressed in price until they no longer repay the cost of production. We demand a return to that simplicity and economy which best befits a democratic government, and a reduction in the number of useless offices and salaries of which drain the substance of the people. Confiding in the justice of our cause, and the necessity of its success at the polls, we submit the foregoing declaration of principles and purposes to the considerate judgment of the American people. We invite the support of all citizens who approve them and who desire to have them made effective through legislation for the relief of the people and the restoration of the country's prosperity.

Notes and News.
The first ripe Oregon peaches were shipped from Blalock July 3d.
Jackson Gulick, aged 30, was drowned at his father's fish wheel at The Dalles last Sunday.
A post office has been established at Blount, Klickitat county. The office is two miles southeast of White Salmon and two and one-half miles east of Hood River. Theodore Sukesdorf has been installed as postmaster.
Mr. Emil Schanno regards the article published yesterday by a farmer concerning boring a hole in a tree and filling it with sulphur to kill caterpillars as the inspiration of an idiot. He says sap will not carry sulphur, and if it did it would not reach the caterpillar; if it did reach the caterpillar it would reach the fruit. Schanno says that idea was exploded long ago.—Chronicle.

The organization of great industrial combines goes on dally. Not long since the iron and steel factories pooled and iron rose in price. Then the coal interests pooled and coal advanced 25 cents on the ton; and now we have the thread consolidation for the purpose of keeping up the price and limiting the output. A good remedy for the prevention of these combines would be to drop those lines of industries forming trusts from the tariff list.—Spokane Review.

Mr. and Mrs. John Hollingshead returned last Monday from their wedding tour, and about dusk the same evening they were pleasantly serendipitous by Antelope brass band, which turned out in full force, and played a few of their best selections in front of the residence of Peter A. Kirchhner, where the bride and groom were stopping at the time. Mr. and Mrs. Hollingshead launched out into the sea of matrimony under the most favorable and encouraging circumstances, and as they journey through life they have the best wishes of an immense circle of friends throughout Wasco county.—Antelope Herald.

A somewhat remarkable family reunion took place at the Wetemiss soda springs last Sunday when the Pierce brothers, Daniel, Edgar, George, Henry and Charles all met for the first time in thirty-seven years. Charles, the youngest, is now 45 years of age, and their father is still living. Since their last meeting the four eldest had gone through the war of the rebellion in different armies and not one of them received a wound. The youngest was only kept from joining in the great struggle by his tender years and parental discipline. And now, after a separation of nearly forty years, and after having passed through stirring scenes in many parts of the country they have all met again. Not often does a family of five brothers live to join in such a gathering, and they were naturally impressed by the occasion.—Agriculturist.

The Excursion to Hood River.

Times-Mountaineer.

An event that was most pleasant to a large number of residents of this city was the excursion to Hood River given by The Dalles Concert Band. At 8 o'clock on the morning of the Fourth the Regulator left her dock with 292 Dallesites on board, and with the strain of classic music wafted upon the air, a pleasant ride down the river was experienced. Arriving at Hood River, the band gave a concert in front of the Mt. Hood hotel, after which all proceeded to the ball grounds to witness a contest on the diamond between a picked nine from this city and the Hood River players. Both sides put up an excellent game until the seventh inning, when a misunderstanding arose (no body appeared to know just what it was or how it happened) but in less than no time the ball grounds were turned into a battle field, and the players tumbled over each other, depicting the scenes of two crack teams of some of the leading colleges at foot ball. No body heeded the command of the umpire to "play ball," and the game was declared off, with the score standing 12 to 12. It was a most unfortunate affair, heartily regretted by all, but could probably not have been averted.

Bearing the little unpleasantness this occasioned, nothing occurred to mar the happiness of the day. Many of The Dalles people took lunches with them and enjoyed their dinners under the numerous shades in and about Hood River, while others partook of the hospitality of the genial Charlie Bell of the Mt. Hood. On the return trip the band again rendered a number of fine selections, and by the time the boat arrived at The Dalles all on board were in excellent humor, having forgotten the unpleasant termination of the ball game.

From White Salmon.

Lyle celebrated the 4th in great style. The celebration was held on the 3d so that the dancers could keep it up all night and not hurt their consciences by dancing Sunday morning. Besides the dance they had horse races, and in the evening a local theatrical club rendered the play of "Uncle Tom's Cabin." Between 400 and 500 people attended the celebration.

John R. Rankin has traded his sail boat to Ira Rowland of Lyle for the Covington boat.

A picnic with a dance in the evening was held at Mrs. Wagnitz place, at Trout Lake, on the 4th, and about 200 were present.

The sheepmen at Glenwood celebrated by a dance on the night of the 4th.

In the vicinity of Glenwood, on Canas Prairie, a community of quiet and peaceable citizens has existed for years. It has always been considered a good stock and dairy country, and great numbers of cattle have subsisted and fattened on the rich and extensive pastures in summer, and in winter their owners have fed them from the well filled barns on hay made from the inclosures on the prairie. Of late years the sheepmen have been encroaching on the pastures of the cattle men till the numbers of their sheep made life a burden for the citizens of the community. In the latter part of last month a party of masked men went at night to a sheep camp where there were three men. They advised the sheep men to move their sheep out of the neighborhood. One of the men pulled a gun on the maskers and threatened to shoot, whereupon he was overpowered and taken to the woods, where he was tied to a tree and whipped with hazel switches. In the meantime some of the maskers amused themselves by firing their guns over the head of the rash unfortunate, seeming to try to see how near they could come to his head without hitting him. The maskers then went back to their sheep camp and burned up everything in it. The sheepmen have since retired to the mountains with their flocks.
