Labor and Machinery.

It is an old ery and one that has frequently been raised during the present century of industrial development that improved machinery is the hostile comquently been raised during the present hack hire and refreshment. People go son, and fashionable men and women petitor of the workingman. With the Kinley went traveling around the were fresh from the dancing classes of In petitor of the workingman. With the introduction of each new labor-saving device it was freely predicted that capi-tal would be etriched, labor impover-ished. It was so with the cotton gin and the loom; with the locomotive and the reaper; with the sewing machine and the typesetter. In each case the prophets were false prophets; not because they loved lying, but for lack of knowledge. Their outlook was too nar-row. They mis ook the little circle $3,000,000 spent in the town. grew riotous and declared the bread was being taken out of their mouths. Yet to-day in the United States alone the railroad gives employment to nearly a million men, and by the stimulus, which its transportation facilities have given to industry is the indirect cause of the employment of ten millions more,

Elias Howe with his sewing machine in a public competition beat five of the swittest sewing hands in a factory, and at once the cry went up that the new device would throw thousands of tailors out of employment. Instead of so doing it made a reduction in the cost of sewed g iods that the increased demand called into existence an army of workmen and workwomen greater than ever existed in the days when sewing was done by hand.

It seems like the repetition of a mere truism to state that the cheapening of manufactured products by the invention of improved machinery has brought fifty men into employment for there are some truisms which will ocal and which demand occasional reitera-tion. We have noticed during the past few weeks that there is a tendency among the public speakers who are in-structing the people in matters pertain-ing to industrial economy to attribute ing to industrial economy to attribute the present depression, at least so far as it concerns the great army of the unem- by the treasurer or assistant treasurers in the ployed, to the introduction of laborsaving machinery.

Prayed for Bryan.

A colored minister in Virginia, a day or two before Candidate Bryan entered that state, offered the following prayer: O Lord, save the country from the hands of them who is trying to bust it up. Give us plenty of work and good money for it, so we can take care of our wives and children and buy good bread and meat and pay for it. We want to keep politics out of our churches and out of our prayer meetings but we can't help asking Thee to keep a lookout for that poor miserable sinner, Bryan, who, we hear, is coming into this state hand in hand with Satan. We ask 'Thee, don't let him do no harm; forgive his sins that he is committing every day, and then knock the stuffin' out of him
