There are now thousands of sheep in the vicinity of Mt. Hood, and the entire region north and east of the mountain is rapidly being denuded of everything green that the sheep can reach. There is scarcely a foot of the stage road that they have not been over between the bridge and the Elk beds. On Sunday last a forest fire was seen to start up in the canyon near Cloud Camp Inn. Mr. W. M. Ladd and Bert Langille hastened to the scene and found it started from a fire left by a sheep herder. After a desperate fight they succeeded in extinguishing the flames. Shortly afterward the herder returned, and upon being questioned regarding the fire, said he had left it so he would have coals to light his pipe with when he returned. This is an example of the sheepmen whose "best interests lie in the perpetuation of the forests," and who "never allow fire to escape, as it injures their pasture."

A Peculiar Railroad.

Skamania county, Washington, has a railroad that is a curiosity. It is less than four miles long, but is said to have cost $3,000,000. It is the old portage road from the Upper to the Lower Cascades, and was built by the old O. S. N. Co., and is now the property of that company's successor, the O. R. & N. There was a time when the road did an immense business, carrying all the products of the Island Empire to tide water, all the freight destined for the mines of Idaho, Eastern Oregon and the vast region east of the Cascades. The days of its glory have departed, and today it is scarcely more than two streaks of rust and a right of way. Its sole use now is to carry salmon from the fisheries along the rapids to the lower Cascades, from which point they are shipped to Warrenton, so the road only runs with the run of fish. Mr. Jones, who has been employed on the road since it was first built, has entire control. He is superintendent, engineer, conductor, brakeman, fireman, section foreman and section crew—the Alpha and Omega and all the balance of the alphabet. Mr. Jones has grown gray in the service of the company, yet every day he gets out the solitary engine, gets up steam and makes the round trip over the road. The engine has gotten wheezy, and to get up steam a fire has to be built in the smokestack to get up a draft. Recently the railroad commissioners made a trip over the road, and to do honor to the occasion, Mr. Jones got out the "director's car," the one solitary passenger coach. It had been used for a long time as a storehouse for chicken feed, and occasionally the chickens had used it as a sleeper, but Jones oiled the hen coop up and gave the commissioners a ride over the road. He is good natured, happy, contented, and thoroughly enjoys his unique position as a whole railroad company.

A Jolly Surveying Party.

Capt. C. J. Hayes, government examiner of surveys, accompanied by S. F. Gill, E. W. Udell, W. S. Bossman, Robert Stott and Chas. Webb, passed through town Monday en route to Dayville. They had just finished examining the survey of the northwest corner of township 3 south, range 21 east, near Condon, and were next going to survey two townships in Grant county, then one in Wallawa, one in Baker, five or six in Harney, as many in Lake, and one in Clackamas.

Capt. Hayes' Instructions.

Capt. Hayes' instructions are to examine certain townships, descriptions of which are furnished to him from Washington, and to report the results to the commissioner of the general land office at Washington. The party spent four days examining their commission in this county, examining a portion of one township.

Capt. Hayes is a Hood River man, and a jolly old chap he is, who recently received his appointment through the influence of Congressman Ellis. Among the men he has employed in the expedition are a brother-in-law of Mr. Ellis—Mr. Stott, and Mr. Ellis' stepson—Mr. Webb, who is a son of Mrs. Ellis by a former husband.

Mr. Gill is a brother of J. K. Gill, the well-known bookseller of Portland, and is the talker of both the Gill family and the surveying outfit, and they say that he is the life of the party. Sam's tongue hangs on a swivel and works at both ends at once and never needs greasing.

The party is having a fine time traveling over the country in an emigrant wagon, sleeping at night in the open air with only the star-studded heavens for a canopy, and Gill's never-ceasing gentle voice for a lullaby. As their work takes them clear to the Nevada line, they will probably have employment until snow flies.

The residence of C. A. Shurte at Arlington was burned last Tuesday night and Mrs. Shurte and two children perished in the flames. The fire was caused by the explosion of a lamp.

Wm. N. Wiley, deputy stock inspector for Wasco county, has been authorized by the state domestic animal commission to at once cause all horses afflicted with mange in this county to be quarantined, and if necessary to destroy them according to the laws provided for preventing the spread of contagious diseases among domestic animals.—Mountaineer.

Hints on Canning and Preserving.

In the August Ladies Home Journal Mrs. S. T. Rorer writes on "Canning and Preserving." At the outset of her lesson she emphasizes the value of securing perfectly sound and fresh fruits, and the necessity of getting the cans and canning appliances in readiness in advance. "To prevent breakage when filling the jars," Mrs. Rorer advises that they be slipped "sidewise into a kettle of hot water, rolling them so that every part may be quickly and uniformly heated. Fold a damp towel, place it in the bottom of a pudding pan, then near the preserving-kettle; stand a jar on the towel, and if the fruit is small adjust the funnel; fill quickly to overflowing. Run a heated silver knife around the inside of the jar, to break any air bubbles that may have been caught with the lid, and adjust the rubber, then lift the lid from the hot water and place it at once. If large fruit fill with a wooden spoon, arranging the fruit so that the weight of one piece will not destroy that of another. Fill to overflowing with the liquid, water or syrup, and fasten tightly. After sealing stand the jars out of a draught over night. The glass by that time will have contracted, and the lids will, in consequence, be loose. Wipe each jar carefully and give the top an extra turn. Put away in a cool, not cold, dark closet. At the end of a week examine each jar carefully, without shaking or disturbing more than necessary. If you find the lid slightly indented, the contents free from air bubbles or froth, and the liquid settled, you may rest assured they will keep. If you do not find it so, open the jars to prevent bursting. Reheat the fruit, being careful to bring it to a boiling point, and recan."

Barbara Frietchie.

Robert R. Roth of Frederick, Md., a nephew of Barbara Frietchie, in speaking of Whittier's poem, says: "There is no truth in the story that Aunt Barbara waved the stars and stripes as Stonewall Jackson's army came through the street. She was sick at the time and too weak to have made the effort even had she had the disposition. Another thing about the story that is untrue is that Stonewall Jackson rode at the head of the rebel troops, as Whittier has it. He came through Frederick at 4 o'clock in the morning in a closed carriage and visited a family named Ross. They were old friends and he came to pay his respects. He never went near the street in which Aunt Barbara lived."

Notwithstanding the fact that about $600,000 has been paid in the Dalles for wood this season, there is still a comparative scarcity of money. This is evidence of the oft repeated statement that wood raising is not the most beneficial industry of the country. Half the money paid out for any other products that has been expended for wood would have put money into the hands of everybody. When the wheat harvest is marketed in the Dalles will see its prosperous times.—Mountaineer.

Stevenson now has a daily mail. Did you notice how pure and white Soap Foam washing powder looks?

The Shutt Brothers, S. P. and E. M., editors of the Condon Globe and Antelope Herald, have gone back to Pennsylvania to attend the celebration of the golden wedding of their parents. They have five brothers and six sisters all living near the old homestead in Pennsylvania, and there will be a general family reunion when the Oregon Shutt's arrive.

Don't nauseate your stomach with liver and sick headache by using those famous little pills known as DeWitt's Little Early Risers. Williams & Brosius.

The school census of Wasco county for last year shows in rounded numbers 4,000 school children, making the population of the county between 11,000 and 12,000.

"They don't make much fuss about it." We are speaking of DeWitt's Little Early Risers, the famous little pills for constipation, biliousness and all stomach and liver troubles. They never gripe. Williams & Brosius.

The death of Mrs. Alexander Campbell at 85 years, will remind the public of the remarkable growth of the church founded by her husband. She saw the very beginning of a sect which now numbers over 1,000,000 communicants, which once turned the scale in a presidential election, and which is rapidly adding to its membership in many states in the union.

Jno. Griffin of Zanesville, O., says: "I never lived a day for 30 years without suffering agony, until a box of DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve cured my piles." For piles and rectal troubles, cuts, bruises, fetter, eczema and all skin troubles, DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve is unequalled. Williams & Brosius.

A British royal commission, after months of assiduous study and anxious investigation, have discovered that the cause of agricultural depression is the low prices of agricultural products. How could the world get along without such wise men to ascertain and proclaim such great and intricate truths?—Welcome.

Burning, itching skin diseases instantly relieved by DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve, unequalled for cuts, bruises, burns. It heals without leaving a scar. Williams & Brosius.

The Rush for Clondyke.

Over the mountains and far away,
In the regions of an ancient day,
Many a pilgrim is trudging today,
With a heart full of hope and shouting "Yo Ho Ho"
For Clondyke!

Over the mountains, beyond the plains,
Where the great river winds to the sea,
Many a pioneer has turned the scale in
And sings in a frenzied ecstasy—
In Clondyke!

Thousands and thousands of miles away,
In the land of the polar bear,
Many a man is digging today,
Only to find that there's nothing there—
In Clondyke!

Many a husband, many a son,
And many a father and many a one,
Many a man who is dear to some one
Is climbing the glaciers leading through
To Clondyke!

Many a mother and many a wife
And many a one that is dear
Is dreaming today of a happier life
And hopefully waiting to hear
From Clondyke!

And thousands and thousands of golden hopes
And many a dream that is fair
Are destined to die on the frozen slopes
And find their graves there
In Clondyke!

Remarkable Cure of Chronic Diarrhoea.

In 1882, when I served my country as a private in Company A, 167th Pennsylvania Volunteers, I contracted chronic diarrhoea. It has given me a great deal of trouble ever since. I have tried a dozen different medicines and several prominent doctors without any permanent relief. Not long ago a friend sent me a small bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy; and after that I bought and took a 50 cent bottle; and now I can say that I am entirely cured. I cannot be thankful enough to you for this great Remedy, and recommend it to all suffering veterans. If in doubt write me. Yours gratefully, Henry Steinberger, Allentown, Pa. Sold by William and Brosius.

Hon. Geo. H. Stevenson, late register of the land office at Vancouver, will start for the Clondyke. The Skamania Pioneer says: "There will be several in the party. They will take ample provender and two small boats and horses, so that they will not be embarrassed in any way. Obstacles like mountain passes, lakes, rivers, etc., will have no terrors for them. Mr. Stevenson is not bound for any definite location, and will go to Forty Mile. He will sail up the Yukon, making extensive excursions occasionally into the interior, keeping a sharp lookout for any business that seems feasible. He will also investigate the fishing business along the mighty Yukon thoroughly, and may establish canneries there in the near future."
