FRIDAY, AUGUST 20, 1897.

During the fiscal year ending June 30, 1897, the United States exported manufactured goods to the value of $276,557,861, against $228,571,178 in the preceding year, and only $151,102,376 in 1890. During the six months beginning last January, manufactured exports increased nearly $23,000,000 over the same period of 1896, and $50,000,000 over 1895. Enormous as our shipment of cereals has been during the last fiscal year, the manufactured exports exceeded the value of outgoing breadstuffs by $76,000,000, whereas in the corresponding period ending with June, 1892, breadstuffs exported ran far beyond the shipment of manufactures by $141,000,000. An exchange, in commenting upon these facts, remarks:

The reason for this, of course, is the low price of manufactured goods in this country, and the reason for that is the low price of labor. Price of breadstuffs is made in the markets of the world, and we export our perishable surplus for whatever price we can get. Price of our manufactured goods is made by conditions of demand and supply, of wages and consumption at home. When it is low enough, our goods are bought freely abroad. That is, our large exports of manufactured goods is due to hard times. Probably prosperity will put an end to them.

One of the causes, and perhaps the main one, of the business panic of 1893 was that of over production. A high tariff had given the home market entirely to the American manufacturer. No attempt was made by them to compete with England or any other European nation for trade in the markets of the world, and the inevitable consequence was an over abundance of American goods at home, with no foreign market to absorb the surplus. The mills and factories were compelled to close down, and the employees, who had been living up to the income of their wages, were thrown out of employment and left without visible means of subsistence. Would it not be for the greater good of all concerned could these men secure steady employment at average wages, rather than occasional work at but slightly higher wages, if any? The low price of goods would enhance the purchasing power of their wages, be of benefit to the general consumer, and increase the demand for the goods.

Hood River will hold a fruit fair this fall. This is a good move, in the right direction, but one that cannot be injured by vigorous pushing. We have held two previous fruit exhibits, one in 1893 and another in 1895, both of which were a success. With the best of management, our coming fair ought to eclipse all former efforts along that line, as the fruit now ripening in the orchards is of unusual excellent quality. A fruit fair is the best kind of an advertisement of the fertility of our resources. The little valley of Hood River is widely known throughout the state and parts of the middle west for its staple productions, strawberries and apples. It has often been stated that our display of fruit at the Columbian exposition, Chicago, in 1893, excelled in quality anything of the kind in the horticultural building. Our former fruit exhibits surprised even ourselves in showing what Hood River orchards really could produce. Not a little hard work is necessary to assure the success of our fair, and as we are directly or indirectly interested therein, it is hoped that all enterprising citizens will lend their aid for that end.

Taxation of the colonies without representation culminated in American independence. Members of the present administration are endeavoring to secure the ratification, by the United States senate, of the treaty whereby the Hawaiian Islands would become American territory. And their efforts are apt to succeed. Have the people of Hawaii, excepting a few selfishly interested Americans, expressed a desire for annexation? Then why repudiate a fundamental doctrine of the declaration of independence by refusing to give them an opportunity to say anything about it?

The Oregon Railroad and Navigation company is now one of the most prosperously operated railroads in the country. The recent auditor's report shows the total net earnings of the company for the past twelve months to be $1,939,307, an increase over the preceding year of $1,015,321. Four years ago this road was forced into a receivership, but under the able management of Receiver E. McNeill the business was again put upon a stable and paying basis.

The United States is the greatest gold-producing country of the world, having produced last year $62,000,000 of the yellow metal, out of an aggregate of $219,550,000 for the world. It is estimated that by the end of the century the annual gold production of the world will amount to $300,000,000.

Virginia democrats in their state convention held last week, declared for silver, and nominated J. Hoge Tyler for governor. The platform makes the following declarations: "We affirm the platform of the national democratic convention, adopted at Chicago in 1896 and upon which W. J. Bryan was nominated for the presidency of the United States. We especially indorse the doctrine of the national democratic party upon the four great issues which are before the people of this country, viz: The tariff, the income tax, the regulating of trusts and the currency."

The necessity of shipping nothing but a first-class grade of fruit was never better exemplified to Hood River fruit growers than during the past strawberry season. Hood River had gained the reputation for putting up first-class fruit in first-class shape, but it was our bad luck this year that the greater part of our strawberry crop was not up to the average in quality, and being brought into direct competition in the markets with berries from other fruit-growing sections, they suffered heavily in regard to price. Mr. G. R. Castner, who was sent east to Omaha in the interests of the Hood River Fruit Growers' Union, says the Eastern commission men declared they didn't recognize our strawberries sent them this year as the Hood River product, and wanted to know what was the matter with us and what was the cause of it. Strawberries grown at Sarcoxie, Mo., are said to be not inferior to the Hood River berry in size, color and flavor, though of course they are surpassed by our berries in shipping qualities, but as they are raised only a few hundred miles or less from the marketing points, the item of shipping and freight amounts to little, consequently it is an easy matter with them to meet competition with fruit shipped a distance of 2000 miles. Eastern commission men all verify the fact that our strawberries are the best packed of any placed on the market, and are nearly always full weight, in fact, sometimes overweight. Not all our strawberries shipped from here last season were under the usual average, and whenever they were choice they readily commanded the highest market price. It is easily to be seen that when there is an over supply of choice fruit on any market ordinary fruit is of course unsaleable. Hood River must hereafter put nothing but a strictly high grade class of fruit on the markets, if profitable returns are expected to be secured. And by judicious cultivation and irrigation of our strawberries the best of results can be readily obtained.

Monday, August 16th, Justice Field of the supreme court of the United States broke the record for continuous service on the supreme bench, having served 34 years five months and six days, or one day longer than former Chief Justice John Marshall, whose record of service has hitherto been the longest of any justice since the establishment of the national tribunal of last resort.

Mark Hanna, in his efforts to effect the election of a legislature that will make him senator for six years, will have eighteen United States senators and eleven congressmen stumping the state of Ohio this fall. He should not despair of success.

Silver continues to fall. The present intrinsic value of the silver dollar is 42 cents.

Pity There Are Not More.
Springfield Republican.

A young man writes to Wade's Fiber and Fabric of a remarkable experience in profit on low wages. He had gone to Boston last fall in search of work and succeeded in getting a job paying only $1 a day. He had no money and only one suit of clothes, and doubted his ability to live in the city on such wages. But he found a lunch room on Washington street where 22 meal tickets were sold for $1, or at the rate of 4 1/2 cents a meal. The food was coarse and service homely, but it was sufficient and he has continued to board there ever since. He obtained a labor for $1 a week. As the result of his labor and economy from October 1 to March 29, he had been able to buy two suits of clothes and put $75 in the savings bank. He now has $125 in the bank and hopes "to have cash enough by next spring to start a little business of my own"—all on a wage of $1 a day. We shall never hear of poverty and calamity from that man. He is made of the stuff out of which most of the successful business men of the country were constructed. They began life generally in the same humble way. The secret of their success was that they never allowed their expenses to come quite up to their income, no matter how small the income.

Registered as Other People Do.

Much ado is being made over the fact that the president registered at his hotel as "William McKinley and wife, Canton, O." As that is his name, as he was accompanied by his wife and as it is difficult to understand how he could have done otherwise without practicing a deception.

The Clark county (Wash.) prune crop promises to be larger this year than ever.

Don't nauseate your stomach with teas and bitter herbs, but regulate your liver and sick headache by using those famous little pills known as DeWitt's Little Early Risers, Williams & Brosius.

Jacob S. Coxey has been nominated by the middle-of-the-road populists for governor of Ohio.

"They don't make much fuss about it." We are speaking of DeWitt's Little Early Risers, the famous little pills for constipation, biliousness and all stomach and liver troubles. They never gripe. Williams & Brosius.

The Good Time Coming.
Philadelphia Ledger.

The quick impulse of returning prosperity can scarcely be expected to reach all branches of trade during the ordinarily dull summer season, but it is a pleasure to note various signs that "there's a good time coming, and it's almost here." We may reasonably conclude that the improvement is due to a reaction that does not depend upon tariff rates, and that it is brought about less by the tariff bill, to which it will be ascribed, than by trade conditions, of which the settlement of the tariff question for four years is only one factor. But whatever the cause or causes, it is certainly a fact that within the last 30 days there has been an increase in the army of men employed in mills and factories, and that in consequence there will be an increased circulation of money. The farmers of the country, as a whole, will not only have better crops than usual, but will dispose of them for better prices. Europe wants our wheat, and we have wheat to sell. It is not always that these conditions come together. When, however, the farmers have big crops which they can sell at good prices, all other businesses are sure to be stimulated. That is the reason for the hopeful view taken of the situation by the 1610 merchants from whom the Dry Goods Economist has obtained an expression of opinion on the trade situation. These merchants represent every state and territory in the union, except Alaska, and their answers are very encouraging. Only 13 failed to express an opinion as to the outlook; of the 1697 who wrote respecting trade conditions, only 107 took a gloomy view of the situation. More than 1000 say that business is good or very good, and 421 that it is fair.

Another encouraging sign of the times is to be found in the condition of business enterprises, as indicated by the record of failures. Liquidation has been going on for some years under the pressure of hard times, and Dun's Review for July shows that the business of the country has reached a sound basis. The failures of that month show liabilities of only $7,117,727, the smallest amount for any month since 1892. The liabilities vary greatly from month to month, so that this is not an infallible sign, but the amount for July is so much below the average as to be significant. Four years ago the liabilities for a single month's failure reached $80,000,000, and with the exception of one month, when they were $710,000 greater than in July, they have been very much greater in every month for the past five years.

Business cannot be stimulated by false representations regarding a revival, but if the representations are true, then it is worth while considering them; for the process of revival once started, can be hastened by the increase of confidence engendered by the publication of the facts. This is the reason, or excuse, for noting the signs that tell of returning prosperity. Whistling for a favoring breeze may not bring it, but the whistling is not without its use, if it prepares us to take advantage of the breeze when it is really coming.

Miss Nettie Kemp of Hood River secured a teacher's certificate at the quarterly examination at The Dalles last week.

Did you notice how pure and white Soap Foam washing powder looks?

Two young men, representing the Field Columbian Museum of Chicago, ransacked the Indian graves on Memaloose Island, Saturday, but on arriving in The Dalles with their plunder, they were very properly arrested and taken before Justice Fillion, who permitted them to go free after they had agreed to replace the relics.

Jno. Griffin of Zanesville, O., says: "I never lived a day for 30 years without suffering agony until a box of DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve cured my piles." For piles and rectal troubles, cuts, bruises, tetter, eczema and all skin troubles, DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve is unequalled. Williams & Brosius.

Spokane is to have a grand fruit fair beginning October 5th and closing October 16th. Wasco county should make an exhibit, as the fair is well attended and thousands of strangers, attracted from the east by the mining boom, will thus get an idea of what can be done in this neighborhood in the way of fruit raising.—Chronicle.

Burning, itching skin diseases instantly relieved by DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve, unequalled for cuts, bruises, burns, it heals without leaving a scar. Williams & Brosius.

The Vancouver Columbian says the Regulator line has recently cut off a number of small landings on the lower end of their route, in order that the steamers can make better time on the through trip. The tourist travel by this line has been very heavy this summer, and the managers have done everything possible to make the service first-class.

"I crave but One Minute," said the public speaker in a husky voice; and then he took a dose of One Minute Cough Cure and proceeded with his oratory. One Minute Cough Cure is unequalled for throat and lung troubles. Williams & Brosius.

"John Sherman, crowded out of office," is the appropriate inscription for the political tombstone of the secretary of state. Cozened into accepting an office for which his training, temperament nor years fitted him, and thereby made to relinquish his position in the senate, the Ohio trickster is now pushing the old man into oblivion. It is one of the cruellest spectacles of politics.—Chicago Chronicle.

There is a time for everything, and the time to attend to a cold is when it starts. Don't wait till you have consumption, but prevent it by using One Minute Cough Cure, the great remedy for coughs, colds, croup, bronchitis and all throat and lung troubles. Williams & Brosius.

Sunday, Oscar Angel, a boy 11 years of age who resides at Eight-Mile, while firing a shot gun, the breech exploded, and lacerated his face in such a manner that it is probable he will never again be able to talk.

Vive Cameras and Photo Snapes.

A fine stock on hand. Vive cameras are much improved—$5 size holds 18 glass plates or 50 cut films or any combination of same; $7.50 size holds double. Nothing like them for satisfaction in snapshots. Williams & Brosius.

Nicholas Billen and wife to Mrs. Emma Brosius 17 1/2 acres in sec 22, t 2 n, r 10 e, $525.

In 1862, when I served my country as a private in Company A, 167th Pennsylvania Volunteers, I contracted chronic diarrhea. It has given me a great deal of trouble ever since. I have tried a dozen different medicines and several prominent doctors without any permanent relief. Not long ago a friend sent me a sample bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy; and after that I bought and took a 50 cent bottle; and now I can say that I am entirely cured. I cannot be thankful enough to you for this great Remedy, and recommend it to all suffering veterans. If in doubt write me. Yours gratefully, Henry Steinberger, Allentown, Pa. Sold by William and Brosius.

To Cure a Cold in One Day.

Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. Williams & Brosius refund the money if it fails to cure. 25c.

Austin Wilson went to Portland yesterday for further treatment.

An open air C. E. meeting will be held at Mr. Shelley's next Sunday evening. A report of the San Francisco convention will be given by E. H. Merrill, and a number of the convention songs will be sung, with organ accompaniment.

At 3:45 Tuesday afternoon Dan Maloney and Jake Praul, a sheepherder, met in front of the Baldwin saloon at The Dalles, and after exchanging a few angry words, Praul drew a five shot revolver and fired three shots into Maloney's breast at short range. All three balls entered his chest, inflicting mortal wounds.

Last Service.

The last service of the present conference year will be held by Dr. Hines in the M. E. church Sunday next. At 11 a. m. he will preach on "The Freedom of the Church of Christ," and the Sacrament of Baptism will be administered, and members will be admitted. In the evening his subject will be "Lessons of the Year for Pastors and People." An especial invitation is extended to business and working people and young people to be present at these last services. They may be held as services as pastor of this church, and he would be happy to greet all his friends on this occasion.

Annual Conference.

The Columbia River Conference of the M. E. Church meets at Pendleton next Wednesday at 9 a. m. I shall leave for its session Monday night. The members of the church, and especially the official members, are desired to meet at the church Monday evening, at 7:30 o'clock. H. K. HINES.

A Card.

Hood River, Or., Aug. 19, 1897.
Mr. H. H. Bailey resigned his office as director of the Water Supply Company of Hood River for the reason that the company would not pay the ditch walker the wages they agreed to. He paid him out of his own pocket and then told them they could keep it. Also, for making part of their customers pay full price for their water while others paid only half price. That was not justice. J. H. H.
