FRIDAY, AUGUST 27, 1897.

A year or two ago Sherman county farmers were discouraged on account of low prices for wheat. A number came from that section to Hood River to engage in fruit growing, and many others would have come could they have sold their farms. Our strawberries and other fruit crops then sold for good prices and everybody was happy. But in that short time a great change has come over the spirit of the dreams of some of our people. Our strawberries this year failed to realize as much as formerly, while Sherman county's wheat crop is No. 1 and prices have gone up to nearly double. The marvellous accounts that come to us of Klondike strikes in wheat farming are causing some to envy our fortunate neighbors in the wheat growing districts, and, could they dispose of their places here, they would go to wheat farming in Sherman county. If it is true that everything comes to him who waits, Hood River people can afford to wait as well as any people on earth. The tables will again be turned and our crops will again be the envy of other people. Our strawberry crop, it is true, did not pay this year, but there has been no cause to complain of other crops of fruit. Our blackberries sold for good prices; our summer apples sold as high as $1 a box in the distant markets of Seattle; our peaches are selling at a fair price; our Bartlett pears are being shipped East, where prices are reported good; our prunes now ripening, if shipped East, will find a good market, according to all accounts; and then will come our winter apples, samples of which, showing our splendid crop, will be exhibited at our horticultural fair to be held about October 1st. This horticultural exhibit will do more towards making those of our people who are disposed to croak satisfied with Hood River than anything else. It will show the resources of the valley, as it did four and two years ago, and all will be ready to unite in expressions of faith in Hood River.

With feelings of deep regret we read in our valued exchange, Public Opinion of Chambersburg, Pa., of the death of P. Dock Frey, who died suddenly of heart disease in Chambersburg, August 13th, aged 60 years. Deceased was a printer, and 41 years ago the writer received from him his first instructions in, and imbibed his love for, the art preservative. During all these years we have never forgotten the kindness he showed towards the boy, five years his junior, who rolled for him while he cheerfully worked the Washington hand press, or the old Ramage press, in the Repository and Transcript office. It was our pleasure to meet him seven years ago, while on a visit to Chambersburg after an absence of 34 years, when we found in the man of mature years the same genial and lovable nature we knew in his early manhood. The lengthy and beautiful tribute paid to his memory by M. A. Foltz, editor of Public Opinion, his life long friend and partner, and the many tributes of respect shown by others through the columns of the paper, show that he had many warm friends among the best people of the community and of the state. We deeply sympathize with the family of deceased and with our old friend, editor of Public Opinion, who closes his eloquent tribute with these words, "Farewell Friend, Counsellor, Companion, Brother."

Our esteemed friend, Hugh Gourlay, is making the columns of the Crook County Journal teem with his well-pointed articles. Mr. Gourlay is now in a sheep country, and, always a friend to sheep, can conscientiously labor for the welfare of the sheep men. Like the men who never owned slaves fought hardest in the civil war for the maintenance of slavery, or the men who never owned silver mines nor worked in them, but vote straight for free silver, Mr. Gourlay owns no sheep but voluntarily champions the cause of the three or four hundred sheep men of Eastern Oregon. The sheep men themselves are modest and don't want much. They are satisfied if they only have the earth for a range. They generally get what they want by letting others fight their battles for them. Ever since the misguided giant Goliath was slain while defending the government reserves of the Philistines from sheep by the young shepherd David, men who don't own sheep have risen up to fight the battles of the sheep men with pen or sword. Our friend Gourlay can point with pride to the fact that sheep now range on the Cascade reserve and claim with truth that it was through him and his efforts as much as any one that the herders are enabled to fight their pipes by forest fires. The three or four hundred sheep men of Eastern Oregon have what they want; the rest of the three hundred thousand people of Oregon ought to rejoice that the sheep men allow them to remain in the state.

The president and his party have been favored by fortune. Luck in politics was never so nicely timed as in the case, and they can be depended upon to make the most of it while it lasts. But it cannot last throughout the McKinley administration. If the Dingley tariff law does anything it restricts trade. It must interfere with commerce. The world's crop conditions this year will delay this consequence for a time, but it is inevitable. American products will be purchased only when the wants of foreign consumers can be supplied nowhere else, and stocks above the needs of the home market will be unsaleable. There would be no dollar wheat in the United States this year if the other wheat-growing countries had produced enough of the cereal to satisfy the European demand. That's the whole truth of it.—Telegram.

Fifty million bushels is the estimate for the wheat crop of Kansas. The corn crop will be what is called a fair one in that state, and there are 87,000,000 bushels left over from last year. The average yield of potatoes is over twenty-five bushels to the acre, which will make a crop of 25,000,000. For the first time in many years Kansas really has a fine crop of most agricultural products and the farmers are happy. More than that, they are paying off their mortgages and taking care of back interest, which the East never expected them to do. Politics has almost disappeared in the face of the goodness of Providence in sending such crops to reward the farmers. The occupation of the professional politician will be gone.—Chicago Chronicle.

We don't hear so much nowadays about a scarcity of money to transact the business of the country. The millions and millions of bushels of wheat now being harvested and threshed in Oregon and Washington are being gobbled up by buyers as fast as it is offered for sale at prices double that of two years ago. No trouble, it seems, to get money to move the big wheat crop.

The 49th annual meeting of the Oregon Congregational Association will be held in Hood River, beginning Sept. 29th.

A Bright Outlook for Washington. The editor of the GLACIER returned last Thursday from a week spent in Cheney, Spokane and Medical Lake, Washington. We made the trip on the O. R. & N. railroad, going through the wonderfully productive Palouse country, which is now harvesting its greatest wheat crop, and arrived at Spokane in 12 hours from Hood River. We were favored with several drives through the farming country around Cheney and Medical Lake, and must say that the crops of that section are astonishing. Farmers will realize more from their farms this year than they have been asking for the land during the past two or three years of business depression and low prices for farm products. Mr. D. F. Percival of Cheney, Wash., a pioneer of that country and dealer in real estate, writes as follows to the Northwest Magazine, giving a pretty accurate description of the situation in his locality:

In the spring of 1893, when the financial crisis came on, the people of this state were heavily in debt, having been large borrowers of Eastern and foreign capital. Nearly everyone who had money loaned in this state at that time became alarmed, fearing that they might lose, and as fast as their money became due they demanded prompt and immediate payment. The consequence has been that many old mortgages have been paid off and very few new ones have been made. For the past four years there has been a constant and steady liquidation of old debts. In former years the farmers, as well as men engaged in other occupations, were in the habit of running store bills; but since 1893 they have changed their method of doing business and have paid cash at the time of purchase or have gone without many articles which they would formerly have bought under the credit system. This course has worked well; the people of the state are really in a better financial condition than they have been in for many years.

I have been a resident of Washington twenty-five years, and I have never seen such fine crops as are now growing here. All kinds of fruit, vegetables and grain are looking splendid. If nothing occurs to destroy the crop, an abundant harvest will be gathered. The farmers will finish paying old debts, and have a surplus of cash. Hard times for the past four years have taught the people that borrowing money is not a safe proposition. At this time there appears to be no desire to borrow, but nearly everyone seems determined to become freed from debt by his own exertions and by direct economy. There is no doubt that the people of this state are in better condition than at any time for the past ten years. Land is gradually and steadily rising in value; many who were anxious to sell their farms at almost any price, will neither sell nor set a price upon their holdings now. Confidence is being restored, and everything indicates better times. We feel that an era of prosperity is near at hand—such as has not been experienced since the construction of the railroads across the continent.

More of Our Resources. PORTLAND, OR., August 24, 1897.—Editor GLACIER: A gentleman and his wife, who had had no children for some time, went to Hood River valley several months ago and lived for awhile. They returned to Portland not long since, and on the 11th of this month the wife presented her husband with twin daughters. Other childless couples have recently bought property in the valley, and if the first example proves contagious, the growth of Hood River in the near future will be unprecedented. The climate is everything.

Portland, Or., August 24, 1897.—Miss Alice Cleaver is slowly recovering from her severe illness. She was confined to her bed five weeks.

Boys' and men's suits from $1.50 up, at Wolfard & Bone's.

W. J. Baker shipped 328 boxes of pears in the fruit car that left Hood River August 20th.

Mr. and Mrs. John Henness returned to their home at Whatcom, last Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. V. Y. Binnian of Portland are visiting Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Cunniff.

C. L. Auble, who has rented the Coe place, moved in Wednesday. His family will arrive today.

Wm. Yates has received the combination lock boxes and put them in the post office. After one gets onto the combination, which is easy, it will be found much handier than keeping the run of a key.

Miss Irma Coe, after a pleasant time in Hood River for the past three weeks, during which time she spent a week in Wolfard's camp at Trout Lake, returned to Portland yesterday.

Mr. E. Locke presented the GLACIER office, last Saturday, with a basket of his fine Early Crawford peaches. He says his peach crop is the best this year it has ever been.

Dan Maloney, who was shot by Jack Prawl in The Dalles, died Tuesday evening at 5 o'clock.

Dr. Hines' tent on the Watson place has been taken down and he is now in attendance at the M. E. conference.

The market value of the bullion in the silver dollar Wednesday was 39.66 cents.

A Eugene fruit grower recently realized 3 cents a pound net on a car load of Italian prunes sent East.

M. V. Harrison was in Hood River during the week. He expects to remove from Eugene to Portland with his family in the near future.

Mrs. Mary Palmer has rented her farm at White Salmon to Mr. Wires of that place.

It is estimated it will require $3,750,000 to move the wheat crop of Wasco and Sherman counties.

Did you notice how pure and white Soap Foam washing powder looks?

Wheat was selling last week in Walla Walla at 76 cents, and on the same day in The Dalles was worth 75 cents.

Moments are useless if trifled away; and they are dangerously wasted if consumed by delay in cases where One Minute Cough Cure would bring immediate relief. Williams & Brosius.

The thermometer went to 107 in The Dalles August 19th—the highest ever recorded in that city.

To heal the broken and diseased tissues, to soothe the irritated surfaces, to instantly relieve and to permanently cure is the mission of DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. Williams & Brosius.

Jack Prawl, the man who shot Dan Maloney at The Dalles, was given a preliminary trial before a justice of the peace and held in $750 bonds. Bail was readily furnished and defendant went to his home in Kliekkit county.

An Indiana man who claims to be 115 years old, and in the enjoyment of robust health, has informed a reporter that his parents died of consumption before they were 30, and that he has used whisky and tobacco excessively for 50 years. His longevity was a mystery until it was learned that he is a peunisioner.

Running sores, indolent ulcers and similar troubles, even though of many years' standing, may be cured by using DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. It soothes, strengthens and heals. It is the great pile cure. Williams & Brosius.

The Sherman county horticultural society held a meeting last week. The Observer's report says: "It having come to the knowledge of the committee on pests that diseased apples, wind falls, etc., were being retailed to farmers at the price of good healthy fruit, it was resolved that the committee secure evidence of the fact sufficient to prosecute vendors of such stuff at the October term of circuit court. People who buy any such fruit are requested to make a record of it together with day and date of purchase and the name of the person or persons from whom such diseased fruit was purchased."

If you have ever seen a little child in a paroxysm of whooping cough, or if you have been annoyed by a constant tickling in the throat, you can appreciate the value of One Minute Cough Cure, which gives quick relief. Williams & Brosius.

The O. R. & N. is running a special fruit train from Portland to points East. The first train started last Thursday, and if sufficient fruit can be had to make up a train of 13 cars this will be run every week. This arrangement will make a difference of from one and one-half to two days in reaching eastern points and will be an immense saving to the shippers in ice, besides getting the fruit to market in better condition.

The "Bicyclist's Best Friend" is a familiar name for DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve, always ready for emergencies. While a specific for piles, it also instantly relieves and cures cuts, bruises, salt rheum, eczema and all affections of the skin. It never fails. Williams & Brosius.

The Oregon Mining Journal, midsummer special edition, has been received. This splendid number gives many illustrations of the mines of Southern Oregon, besides other interesting features. It also contains the Oregon Mining laws. Published at Grant's Pass; price 25 cents.

Small precautions often prevent great mischiefs. DeWitt's Little Early Risers are very small pills in size, but are most effective in preventing the most serious forms of liver and stomach troubles. They cure constipation and headache and regulate the bowels. Williams & Brosius.

The Illinois state board of pharmacy caused the arrest of 200 apothecaries and grocers for selling adulterated drugs and chemicals. Quinine pills with no quinine in them, lithia tablets with no lithia, and cream of tartar with 85 per cent of plaster of paris in it, were a few of the things brought to the notice of the board.

Certainly you don't want to suffer with dyspepsia, constipation, sick headache, sallow skin and loss of appetite. You have never tried DeWitt's Little Early Risers for these complaints or you would have been cured. They are small pills but great regulators. Williams & Brosius.

From Sherman County. J. J. Gibbons returned from the harvest fields of Sherman county Wednesday. He was engaged driving a header wagon about eight miles out from Rufus. He reports the Hood River boys in that neighborhood all doing well. They struck a tough job, but are staying with the work manfully. During the hot spell the men worked right along without any serious results, but many horses succumbed to the heat and gave out. The boys in the harvest fields put in 16 hours a day. The engine whistle roused them every morning at the break of day. Several times Mr. Gibbons looked at his watch when he hitched up in the morning, and again in the evening when he unhitched, and found he had worked 16 hours. But the boys from Hood River had no complaints to make; they had enlisted to help save the big crops of the ranchers and were bound to stay if it took the hair off. Frank Caddy is the life of the crew he is working in. He is known all over the neighborhood, and his reputation for truth in telling his droll stories remains as good as it is in Hood River. Abe Foley has a job hauling water to supply the men and horses in the field. The water, Mr. Gibbons said, was hauled a mile and a quarter, and being quite warm in the cistern, there was no perceptible rise in the temperature of the field on the trip to the field. The men have Sunday for a day of rest, all except the water haulers, who work every day. Jack Binns is running a traction engine, one which others failed to make work. Mr. Gibbons says the crops of wheat are great, and to witness the combined harvesters and threshers at work is worth going to Sherman county to see.

A Prayer that Was Not in Vain. The following petition to the weather bureau by Bro. Cradiebaugh in last Saturday's Chronicle is supposed to have broken the hot spell and given us the refreshing breezes that have since come from the Pacific:

For heaven's sake, Pague, won't you please to let go, And order us frost, sleet, hail, ice and snow? Won't you stop getting weather from over the Sixty? The thermometer from reaching 107? Won't you turn your old wind gauge around to the west, And give us a sea breeze, and also a rest? Turn your eyes from the skies you so knowingly scan, And wait us a breath from the isles of Japan? Webfooted and banchgrassier swear and persepire As the mercury races up higher and higher, With its safety valve locked. Is it never to stop? Or shall we forever sweat, sizzle and mop? Oh! Pague, we beseech you, catch on to the weather, And don't broil us all on your gridiron together! Relent and repent, and from off the cool seas Give us a breeze, Pague, give us a breeze!

No man or woman can enjoy life or accomplish much in this world while suffering from a torpid liver. DeWitt's Little Early Risers, the pills that cleanse that organ, quickly. Williams & Brosius.

Moody's bank at The Dalles has been ordered by the comptroller of the currency to pay another 25 per cent dividend to depositors. The bank will pay dollar for dollar.

Apportionment of School Funds. The state and county apportionment of school funds for Wasco county for 1897 amounts to $9,505.87, being $4,142.32 state funds and $5,363.55 county funds, making $1.04 and $1.35 per capita respectively. We give below the amounts of warrants drawn in favor of school clerks in Hood River and near by districts: District No. 2, W. H. Perry, $274.85; No. 3, M. H. Nickelsen, $470.83; No. 4, C. E. Markham, $26.61; No. 5, C. D. Hinrichs, $191.20; No. 6, O. Fredenburg, $81.25; No. 7, J. C. Porter, $172.06; No. 8, W. T. McClure, $129.06; No. 43, J. P. Hillstrom, $21.51; No. 52, L. Lamb, $120.06; No. 56, S. W. Curran, $71.70; No. 61, C. W. Reed, $107.55.

Remarkable Cure of Chronic Diarrhoea. In 1862, when I served my country as a private in Company A, 167th Pennsylvania Volunteers, I contracted chronic diarrhoea. It has given me a great deal of trouble ever since. I have tried a dozen different medicines and several prominent doctors without any permanent relief. Not long ago a friend sent me a sample bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy; and after that I bought and took a 50 cent bottle; and now I can say that I am entirely cured. I cannot be thankful enough to you for this great Remedy, and recommend it to all suffering veterans. If in doubt write me. Yours gratefully, Henry Steinberger, Allentown, Pa. Sold by Williams & Brosius.

To Cure a Cold in One Day. Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. Williams & Brosius refund the money if it fails to cure. 25c.

Vive Cameras and Photo Supplies. A fine stock on hand. Vive cameras are much improved—$5 size holds 18 glass plates or 50 cut films or any combination of same; $7.50 size holds double. Nothing like them for satisfaction in snap shots.
