The Address by Mr. Tate.

A full house greeted Past Grand Master Workman J. G. Tate, last Saturday. In the evening he went to The Dalles, and quite a number of the members of Riverside lodge accompanied him to hear his address at that place. We condense the following points from his address in Hood River: Twenty-nine years ago, in Mead-ville, Pa., 13 mechanics met and organ-the first lodge of the Ancient Order of United Workmen. If some stranger had appearded before this handful of men and suggested that within a period of 29 years $8,000,000 would be required to discharge the financial obligations of this new order to the widow and or phans, and $20,000 more to provide for the sick and the needy, they would have been appalled at their task and given up in despair.

In the early history of the order, our plan was a very simple one. Each member was required to deposit $1 in the beneficiary fund when he joined the order, and whenever thereafter the death rate should demand it, an assessment of $1 upon all members in good standing was levied, and out of the fund so collected death claims were paid. It was believed if a certain per-centage of growth could be maintained this plan could be continued indefinitely, but increasing age and enlarging membership gave rapid increase to the number of assessments necessary for the discharge of our financial obligations and we were forced to learn the lesson that radical changes were necessary. When it was realized the old plan would not work and that the safety of the order depended upon a wise change, the supreme lodge took the matter under advisement, and with a courage boru of convictions, made rad-ical changes in our method of doing business and gave to the order what is now known as the classified assess-ment plan. This plan divides our ment plan. This plan divides our membership into groups, whose ages range from 18 to 50 years, and provides for a change from the lower to the higher rates as members pass from the higher rates as members pass from the lower to the higher ages. These rates are changed every five years until the age of 50 is reached, after which no change is made. The present plan is the result of the combined experience of old line insurance companies and fraternal organizations for the past 200 years, and we have no reason to doubt ts efficiency and safety. The great question men are asking themselves concerning this and similar institutions is, Will these orders last? Can they be trusted? I point to you the history already made by our order. I recall with pride the self denial and heroic sacrifice and service rendered in the late '70's when yellow fever swept the late '70's when yellow fever swept the South and left desolation and ruin in its path. This order suffered a strain which it will probably never be our lot to know again, and yet we came to last being the famous little pills for stomach and liver troubles. Williams & Brosius.

We are anxious to do a little good in the late '70's when yellow fever swept the south and left desolation and ruin in its path. This order suffered a strain which it will probably never be our lot to know again, and yet we came out of the struggle victorious, having met every claim upon us, discharged every financial obligation, and kept our faternity untarnished. our fraternity untarnished.

A Mistaken Impression. From the Times-Mountaineer.

From the Times-Mountaineer.

The GLACIER is in receipt of a copy of the souvenir edition of the Times-Mountaineer, giving a write up of Wasco and Sherman counties, with illustrations. It is a fine specimen of the art preservative and a good ad for the country it aims to make known, the wheat producing sections of Wasco and Sherman counties. We regret that Brother Douthit didn't see fit to send his representative to Hood River and give it a place in his publication. A write up of Wasco county is deficient in the most important part when Hood River is left out.—Hood River Glacier.

The GLACIER and perhaps the peop

The GLACIER and perhaps the people of Hood River valley are laboring under a mistaken idea, for that section was solicited to take space in the souvenir edition, but refused. During the fruit fair Mr. Charles Arnhold, one of the solicitors for the publication, visitand safe to take.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is the ber of the leading citizens and prominent business men of that city, but was ed Hood River and interviewed a num-would have cost them nothing.

Not being able to interest those who would have been most benefited by the publication he could do no more, hence Hood River was not represented except in a general way in an article on the fruit industry of the country.

The Times-Mountaineer would have been pleased to have given Hood River and vicinity unlimited space in the souvenir edition, for it recognizes Hood River yalley as being one of the richest River valley as being one of the richest sections of Wasco county, but it could not force the people of that locality to lend their patronage or good will. Every section that showed a willingness to take hold of the enterprise was given all the space it desired, while those places which ignored the solicitors when they called on them were of necessity left out, because they could not be taken in against their will.
