BRIEF LOCAL MATTERS.

A door key was found and left at the GLACIER office for the owner.
Hood River chapter, O. E. S., meets this Saturday evening, at 7 p. m.
Hon. Emile Schanno was in town Saturday attending the institute.
Mr. Andy Burdick and family moved up from Cascade Locks last week.
Milton Odell and wife and Mrs. Alice Kemp went to The Dalles Tuesday.
Early Rose seed potatoes for sale by W. E. Neff & Bro. at 1 cent a pound.
Fresh cow for sale. Inquire of or call on see B. R. Tucker, Tucker, Or.
Wm. Yates, P. M., is authorized agent for all newspapers and periodicals.
George Rich and John Chapman returned last Saturday from Baker City.
Mrs. D. D. Rogers was quite sick last week. The old lady has been quite feeble all winter.
Mr. Thomas, the White Salmon merchant, is putting up a large store building at Bingen.
Mr. T. J. Cunning has purchased Prof. Snyder's claim, on Hood river, and moved upon it last week.
Bromide of Quinine Compound, cures colds while you sleep. 10 and 25 cents at Williams & Brosius, pharmacists.
Mr. L. Blount lately finished cutting 30 cords of wood and is now engaged in planting an orchard of apple trees.
Miss Elba Gribble, who has been at Heppner during the winter, returned to her home at Mt. Hood last Saturday.
A farewell party was given to Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Miller the evening before they left for their Sherman county home.
Mr. Al Macrum of Mt. Hood returned home last week from Sumpter, where he has been sojourning during the winter.
Mr. H. M. Williamson, editor of the Rural Northwest, and Frank Lee, editor of the Pacific Farmer, attended the institute.
George Boorman arrived from Sherman county, last Saturday, bringing a fine team of horses from Mr. G. D. Woodworth's ranch.
F. H. Watts, general agent for the Monumental Bronze Co., Dufur, Or., will make periodical visits to Hood River. See his work in the cemeteries and then see him for terms.
The niece of Mr. A. W. King, who has been visiting Mr. King's family for several weeks, was called to her home at Fort Wrangel, last week, by the death of her stepfather.
A surprise party was given at Geo. Rordan's place last Friday night. About twenty young people were present and a very pleasant evening was spent. Music was furnished by Ellis and Dornecker.
W. S. Gribble and James Cooper of Mt. Hood returned, Saturday, from The Dalles. Mr. Gribble has been employed at the Umattila house, while Mr. Cooper has been on the Deschutes all winter, working for A. S. Roberts, the sheep man and rancher.
I have been afflicted with rheumatism for fourteen years and nothing seemed to give any relief. I was able to be around all the time, but constantly suffering. I had tried everything I could hear of and at last was told to try Chamberlain's Pain Balm, which I did, and was immediately relieved and in a short time cured. I am happy to say that it has not since returned.—Josh. Edgar, Germantown, Cal. For sale by Williams & Brosius.
Mr. Albert J. Mason came up from Portland Saturday, met Mr. Batham at the train, drew up a contract at once for about 700 fruit trees, and Monday morning the trees were hauled through town on their way to Mr. Mason's Liberty Home fruit farm. They were a fine lot of trees and made a full load.
Our old friend, Van Johnson, gave us a call last week while we were working press and sat down and left the following note on our tablet: "Hood River has the one advantage that it has a place or a shop which not many other towns have. It is, namely, a GLACIER shop, where GLACIERS are manufactured to any amount if anybody so desires." The point to his note might more readily be seen in summer time, but it also has another side. He evidently means that it is a great privilege to have a local paper in a small community like ours and that everybody ought to subscribe for it and take a pride in paying for it. He keeps his subscription paid in advance.

Frank Noble had a runaway accident Monday. He was hauling out manure, when his dog, in a playful manner, jumped in front of the horses and got tangled in the lines. The team got frightened and, with the dog in the lines, was unmanageable. Frank jumped from the wagon, but fell, and one of the wheels passed over his hand, and as the wagon tipped over, a wheel struck him on the top of the head, making an ugly wound. The team ran towards the house and after overturning the wagon several times, was finally halted when the wagon got astride of an apple tree. One wheel of the wagon was wrecked. Frank's hand is still disabled and badly swollen. The dog escaped unharmed.

At the last meeting of Canby post a motion was adopted instructing the adjutant to purchase a record book, in which will be written the war records of each member of the post. The adjutant has procured the book and now asks members to prepare the histories of their service in the army during the war, taking their discharge papers for data, giving their full term of enlistment, where they served, the battles they were engaged in, and all other incidents that might be of interest, and he will record the same. Canby post is composed of old soldiers who saw long and active service and their different records will make an interesting book.

For the mining and irrigation convention at Baker City, March 29, 30 and 31, the O. R. & N. Co. will sell tickets at one and one-fifth fare. Delegates or others attending the convention, by paying full fare to Baker City on March 26, 27, 28 and 29, will be returned at one-fifth fare on presentation of certificates, on or before April 3, to O. R. & N. agent at Baker City, signed by the secretary of the convention.

Last Saturday the 12-year-old son of Mr. Graham of Mosier was brought to Hood River for treatment, having been shot in the eye. He was standing in front of Stewart's store, when a stray bullet, supposed to have been from a hunter's gun, struck him in the eye. Dr. Shaw, who treated the case, was unable to locate the bullet, but thinks the sight of the eye will not be destroyed.

Mr. O. L. Stranahan goes with his arm in a sling. While sharpening his planer knife, the whetstone slipped and his knuckles were slightly cut on the knife. He thought no more of it for several days, but last Saturday night the wound was very painful and has since been threatened with blood poisoning. But he is now improving.

Doug Langille returned from Portland Wednesday. Jas. Langille, J. R. Nickelsen, Will Graham and George Putscher are working on the Salem, the steambot that is being rebuilt for the Regulator company. Capt. Coe is superintending the work.

The Hood River Spring Water Co. contemplate substantial improvements at an early date. It is proposed to construct an ample reservoir and double the pipe capacity, so that all its patrons may have an abundant supply of water the coming summer.

At the school meeting in the town district, N. C. Evans was re-elected director and M. H. Nickelsen was re-elected clerk. In the Frankton district J. J. Luckey was re-elected director and Sam Smith clerk.

Presiding Elder Parker returned to Hood River during the week from Dufur, where he has been holding very successful revival meetings since the close of the meetings in the U. B. church here.

Rev. J. L. Hershner is convalescing nicely from his two weeks' sickness. It is uncertain whether he will be able to fill his pulpit Sunday or not.

Mrs. Barnhart and child and Joe Morris arrived from Arlington Tuesday morning and will stop for the present with Mr. and Mrs. H. Pugh.

The GLACIER acknowledges receipt of a pocket map of the state of Oregon from the Northwest Furniture Co. of Portland.

Mr. R. Pealer brought in a box of grapes to the institute last week, some of which he had kept through the winter in fine shape.

Walter McGuire and bride arrived from Seattle Tuesday and will make their home in Hood River.

The ladies of the M. E. church will give an Easter social on Saturday before Easter, April 9th.

Mr. J. J. Luckey has been quite sick during the past week and is under the doctor's care.

Mr. Angus went to Portland last Friday, where he will work at his trade, stone cutting.

Judge Kent spent several days in The Dalles during the week on legal business.

Canby post, G. A. R. and W. R. C., will meet tomorrow, Saturday, at 2 p. m. sharp.

Dr. Brosius was called to Viento yesterday morning to attend Mrs. Fredenburg.

If there is a small boy in town without a penny whistle he ought to have one.

The patent office has issued a patent to Clarence C. English for his wrench.

Mr. C. M. Cook was called to Portland on business Tuesday morning.

Mr. E. W. Winans is grading his grounds in front of his residence.

Mr. E. D. Calkins returned yesterday from his Kliekittat ranch.

Mr. Bradley photographed Mr. Imbler's place Tuesday.

Miss Lucy Shattuck returned to Portland Tuesday.

East Hood River.
An effort is being made to divide school district No. 7.

W. G. Clelland is about to engage with an Eastern firm that he represented 18 years ago in Southern Michigan, Indiana and Northern Kentucky.

School will begin at Pine Grove March 21st, with Miss Copeland of Woodland, Wash., as teacher.

Politics are booming. Delegates for county conventions are budding, and candidates for public office will soon be in full bloom.

The Institute.
The farmers' institute held last Friday and Saturday in Hood River, under the management of Professors H. T. French, E. F. Pernot and A. B. Cordley of the State Agricultural College and Mr. E. C. Judson, industrial agent of the O. R. & N. Co., was the last of the series of meetings recently held throughout Eastern Oregon and the most successful in every particular. The perfect weather, instead of keeping the farmers at home at work, seemed to add greatly to the attendance. The discussions of the different subjects presented were always interesting and instructive, and much good is bound to result to our community from these meetings. Our visitors were captivated with our beautiful valley, and every one expressed a desire to make his home in Hood River.

The first session, Friday afternoon, was opened with prayer by Dr. Hines. The address of welcome was made by Mayor E. L. Smith, and was such a comprehensive review in a few words of our resources and truthful description of our valley that we requested a manuscript copy for publication and published it in full, as follows:

Gentlemen of the institute, in conformity with a pleasing custom that has obtained, and in consonance with the wishes and feelings of this community, I tender you a cordial welcome to our beautiful valley.

Your mission, as we understand it, is to develop new industries and to promote those already in existence. I think all recognize that every department of husbandry is passing through a transition state, that careless and ignorant methods are doomed, and that in its struggle for supremacy only the well organized and intelligent can survive. We have noted with satisfaction that your widely extended interests; we believe that your labors will be crowned with a grand fruition and that the interests of every citizen are due you who loves his state and desires its prosperity. And we are glad that you do not despise the day of small things. We are flattered in that you deemed this mountain valley, limited in area and scant of population, worthy of your presence, your time and attention. In order that you may better understand our situation and our wants, permit me very briefly to introduce Hood River valley.

In northern Oregon, as you are well aware, is the Columbia river, its eastern a high spur or divide putting out from Mount Hood, 2,000 feet or more in height, admirably protected from the cold winds of the north and the hot, destructive winds in summer that come from the east; its western boundary the timbered slopes of the Cascade range, while the broad base of Mt. Hood completely blocks the valley to the south. The arable portion of the valley is some twenty miles in length, with an average width of 10 miles, or 94,000 acres. I deduct 4,000 acres for bluffs and tracts too rough for cultivation, and we have 90,000 acres of tillage. Hood river receives all the drainage of the north and east side of Mt. Hood, and the melting snows of summer maintain a large and constant flow of water. The river has a descent of over 100 feet to the mile, and a canal eight miles in length would direct any portion of its waters to the agricultural plain just above and 350 feet above our rail road. Our available water power is fully equal to that of Spokane.

Commendable progress has been made in the construction of irrigation canals, in the erection of irrigation facilities, and a good commencement has been made on an irrigation ditch on the east side of the valley that will cover 15,000 acres of the most fertile soil. I have been describing but what may have its running bottom in the future.

The country adjacent to the upper reaches of Hood river is covered with forest growth, and the timber adjacent to the river has been estimated as high as a billion of feet in value. Last year we sent out some 15,000 crates of berries. This year, with an increased area under the forest, we are expected to export 25,000 crates, or 600,000 pounds of strawberries alone. We also have about 120,000 standard fruit trees, largely apples, in orchard here.

Such, in brief, are some of the characteristics of Hood River valley; but apart from these it has an aesthetic and artistic beauty overlooked. Here beauty and utility are added to wealth of forest and soil. Our climate is most salubrious, the air a luxury to breathe, the water pure and soft, the soil fertile and seemingly so near, rises the graceful, immaculate snow that all Oregonians love. To the north, the rugged peaks of Mt. Hood, or 12,000 feet above the sea, sovereign of all the lesser peaks, from Shasta to Rainier, while at your very feet flow in ceaseless measured the gardens, water of an empire. Modest and plain our homes, but grand and incomparable our surroundings; we welcome you to them.

Prof. H. T. French, in response, gave a talk on the work of the agricultural institute and the Oregon experiment station and showed how these institutes being held in different parts of the state were beneficial. He showed by his talk on the subject of "Crimson Clover for Orchards" and in the discussion that followed that he was a practical farmer and very capable of teaching others.

At the Friday evening session a literary and musical programme preceded the work of the institute. Mr. Dell Rand sang a solo, accompanied by Mr. Henry York on the violin and Miss Aune Smith at the organ. Mrs. R. R. Allard gave a recitation that called forth much applause. Mr. Geo. Goodhue, editor of the Salem Poultry Journal, lectured on the subject of "Poultry Raising," which was interesting and instructive throughout. Prof. E. F. Pernot gave an illustrated lecture on "Breeds of Stock," with stereopticon views.

At the Saturday morning session Prof. French lectured on "Grasses and Forage Plants," and a general discussion followed.

At the closing session, Saturday evening, another excellent literary and musical programme was rendered. Miss Marian Cook recited "Raggedy Man" with such great success that she was called back to give another recitation. Miss Aune Smith sang a solo, accompanied on the organ by Mrs. Bartness and Mr. York on the violin. Mr. Dell Rand sang a solo. The list of the evening was the song by the A. O. U. W. glee club, composed of Dr. J. F. Watt, J. LaFrance, S. E. Bartness, J. E. Rand and Dell Rand, the words of which here follow:

FUNNY MEN.
There's a great combination,
Or rather, aggregation,
Traveling up and down the state—
From Baker to The Dalles
60 miles of boys and gals,
These gentlemen, so funny, do orate.
(Refrain)—
-ratic, do orate; o-ratic, do orate—
These gentlemen, so funny, do orate—
From Baker to The Dalles
Are delighted boys and gals,
These gentlemen, so funny, do orate.
They are right at home on wheat,
And the luscious sugar beet,
That grows up up the Grande;
They are full of new ideas,
How to raise the brindle steers,
And the frisky little lambs,
Understand, understand, understand,
As our cowboys now understand;
They are full of new ideas,
How to raise the brindle steers,
As our cowboys now understand.
It makes the herders weep
When they talk about the sheep,
The merino and the long combing wool,
And the frisky little lambs,
A-blowing their dams,

Wanting, like their owners, to get full,
Get full, to get full, get full, to get full—
They are wanting, like their owners, to get full,
And the frisky little lambs
A-blowing their dams,
Wanting, like their owners, to get full.
We can learn about our berries,
Our apples, prunes and cherries,
And we trust that they will not fail,
Some time before they go,
To kindly let us know
How to modify the tariff on the rail,
The rate on the rate on the rail on rail,
How to modify the tariff on the rail,
Some time before they go,
To kindly let us know
How to modify the tariff on the rail.

They raise the very chickens
With our poultry and our chickens
With their brooders and the wooden hen;
They know every bug
By the shape of his mug—
Oh, what a funny lot of men,
Funny men, funny men, funny men,
Oh, what a funny lot of men,
And they know every bug
By the shape of his mug—
Oh, what a funny lot of men!
[The song may be arranged to the tune of a negro melody, entitled "The Gospel Raft."]
The subject of marketing fruits was then taken up and discussed by N. C. Evans, T. R. Coon, A. H. Jewett, P. F. Bradford and H. M. Williamson. The meeting closed with an illustrated lecture on "Fruit Pests" by Prof. A. B. Cordley.

We regret that we are unable to give a full report of the proceedings of the institute. These meetings are becoming more and more popular. Hood River people will always welcome the return of the worthy gentlemen who so ably entertained and instructed us during the past week.

School Notes.
The school house was honored last Friday by the presence of Professors H. T. French and A. B. Cordley of the agricultural college, H. M. Williamson, editor of the Rural Northwest, Supt. Gilbert and Hon. E. L. Smith. The three departments gathered in Miss Graham's room and the visitors all made short addresses. Prof. French talked about the agricultural college, showing how the students worked and how they were instructed in useful occupations as well as in the higher branches of learning. Prof. Cordley talked about the study of nature and told an anecdote or two, which were well received. Mr. Williamson told how he had been educated for the law, but finding there were too many lawyers, he never followed it. He said that many were being educated for the professions and that it was better to learn a trade or follow other occupations and not all aim to fill the higher positions in life with the expectation of big salaries. Hon. E. L. Smith told of the days when he went to school and said children of the present day had great advantages in gaining an education that were not enjoyed by the girls and boys when he was young. Supt. Gilbert also addressed the school and afterwards, in the principal's department, gave a description of a trip across the continent.

So far during the first month of Prof. Allard's term there has been 30 visitors.
