MAY END THE WAR. The Probable Effect of Dewey's Victory

at Manila. Washington, May 8.-Washington is rejoicing tonight. Not since the dark days of a third of a century ago have the people of this city been so profoundly moved by war news as they were this evening.

The first battle of the Hispano-American war has been fought and victory lies with Admiral Deweey's squadron under the Stars and Stripes. That was enough to set the people of Washngton almost in a frenzy of enthusiastic rejoicing.

For days, they, in common with the people throughout the country, have been waiting news from the Philippines, as everything pointed to a battle at Manila that might be a decisive conflict of the war. When the news came, indicating a great victory for the American squadron, the enthusiasm of the people was let loose, and the streets of the city have rung with cheers throughout the night.

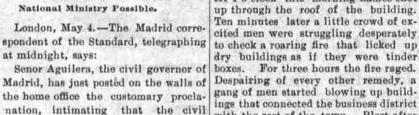

The first news of the battle received n Washington came in a brief cablegram to the press from Madrid about 8 o'clock this evening. As the night wore on, the cable continued to sing the news of victory for the squadron of Admiral Dewey, and the interest grew into tremendous excitement.

As bulletin after bulletin was posted in front of the newspaper offices, each successive one conveying information more gratifying than its predecessors, roarious. It was a spontaneous outburst of patriotic feeling that scarcely knew no bounds. Admiral Dewey's name was on every lip, and his praises were sung in the rejoicings of the people.

The absence of any statement of specific injury to the American vessels in the Madrid advices was constured as convincing indication that they had not suffered appreciable injury and this was especially pleasing to the students of the news.

Not only was the preservation of the American ships and men considered in itself a happy outcome, but was commented upon as indicating clearly that Admiral Dewey and his associate officers and the men under their command had discharged spendidly their several duties in directing and executing the fight. In this connection it was pointed out American squardon escaped without severe injury, because, notwithstanding the disparity in the naval forces, the Spanish fleet, assisted by the shore batteries, should have been able to effect severe damage before it was destroyed. Its failure to do so was explicable only upon the hypothesis of perfect and swift work by the American squadron.

All his energies were required to watch closely popular feeling, which is certain to explode and to require a propitiatory scapegost. After the bullfight tonight, very sensational news may be expected.

New York, May 4 .- According to a World cablegram from Singapore, the policy of General Aguinaldo, a leader of the Philippines insurgents, after the islands have been captured, embraces the independence of the islands, external affairs to be controlled under American and European advisers. SPANIARDS' CRUSHING DEFEAT.

That Is About All the Dispatches Make Clear.

London, May 8 .- While it is quite clear that the Spanish squadron has suffered a crushing defeat, the dispatches do not leave clear the interesting question whether the American squadron has suffered damage.

May End the War.

An opinion freely expressed tonight by naval officers is that the very decisive victory of Admiral Dewey's fleet will mean probably an early end of the war without further naval battles of importance. The American fleet, it is suggested, is now supreme in the waters of Spain's Pacific possession, and indications point strongly toward the wresting of the Philippines from their control. It is said that only by acceding to our demands in Cuba could this loss possibly be averted. Spain, it is argued, is confronted with a situation which promises naught save disaster in case he elects to force more fighting. The superiority of the American fleet has been demonstrated in the Pacific, and the same it is contended would be inevitable in the Atlantic in case the clash comes.

From whatever point of view it is considered, the policy of more fighting on the part of Spain promises nothing but more Spanish misfortune. Navy officers think this view must prevail with the Spanish government, and believe an end of the war, on the basis of Cuban independence, is to follow notable opportunity for the American navy to prove its power and distinguish itself.

It is regarded by some as likely that the decisive victory gained by Admiral Dewey's squadron may open the eyes of Spain to the seriousness of the conflict upon which she has entered.

In official circles it is regarded as almost certain that results of a most serious nature will confront the Sagasta cabinet within Spain's own borders. It is said that the Spanish people have been led to believe that their navy was invincible, and the bitter disappointment over the first engagement of the war is likely to precipitate internal disrension, if not revolution.

Probable Result of the Victory.

Another result of Admiral Dewey's victory, it is thought, may be action on the part of the powers of Europe to induce Spain to abandon what is regarded as a hopeless contest.
