FRIDAY, JUNE 17, 1898.

Hood River is invited to join with The Dalles in celebrating the 4th of July. The committee extending the invitation probably did not know that Hood River also had a committee at work making arrangements to celebrate at home, with the promise of a big excursion from Sherman county that will join us and help make the celebration a success. The Wasco people have been invited to bring along their band, which will be given free entertainment while here. The Isenberg band of Hood River will also furnish music. If the people of Wasco wish to make their stay with us for three days, we can assure them they will find something to entertain them each day. They will want to take one day to see our valley; the second day, Sunday, they can have their choice of three churches where they will hear good sermons; and on the third day, Monday, the 4th, we can all celebrate together. We have the orators with us, and no doubt our Sherman county friends will bring along enough of that kind of material to make up any deficiency that might occur in the home supply. Everybody is invited to come. Those who can should bring a well filled lunch basket. The programme will be published next week.

Hood River Strawberries are strictly in it this year. Others at a distance are finding out what has been known here for years, that Hood River can beat the world in growing strawberries. R. P. Ober, general agent of the Northern Pacific refrigerator car service, of St. Paul, was in Portland Monday. To an Oregonian reporter he said there was a big increase of the strawberry shipments from Oregon to Montana, the Dakotas and Minnesota this year. Notwithstanding the higher transportation charges from Oregon to Montana, Webfoot berries compete successfully with the Easterners that come into Minnesota and the Dakotas to meet them. The Oregonians stand shipment better, are of richer flavor and more inviting appearance than their competitors from Arkansas, Missouri, Illinois and Wisconsin. Mr. Ober yields the laurel, however, to the Hood River berry in competition with the whole world, and when to natural excellence is added good transportation facilities, the Hood River strawberry conquers easily.

The exposition to be held in Portland this year, opening September 22nd and closing October 22nd, promises to be the largest, best and most successful ever held. There will be given prizes, consisting of cups, medals and diplomas for all the best and meritorious exhibits of grain, grasses, fruit, (fresh and preserved) vegetables, etc. Space is free; exhibits will be transported without cost and there will be no expense to any exhibitor. Any one wishing to make exhibits or inquiries concerning the exposition will receive a prompt reply by addressing the secretary of the Oregon Industrial Exposition, Portland, Oregon.

The president has appointed Jay P. Lucas register of the land office at The Dalles and Otis Patterson receiver. Mr. Patterson is editor and proprietor of the Heppner Gazette. We are always glad to see a newspaper man get a good office. Editors never get more in the shape of office than they deserve. The retiring officials of The Dalles land office have won the esteem of all who have had dealings with the office during their term. Messrs. Moore and Biggs have served longer than the four years they were appointed for, which is proof that their work was well done.

Antelope still carries the banner as the leading republican precinct in the county. Geer received 128 votes and King 16 in that precinct.

The Oregonian doesn't often strike back at the little newspapers that keep continually "answering" it, but when it does, in the language of Mr. Dooley, it "crushes 'em at a blow."

Bicycle scorches and cigarette smokers are exempt from military duty.

A Patriotic Hen.

Over in Union county an ambitious hen has produced a war egg which lays every other one so far in the shade, says the Sumpter News. The old lady who owns the aforesaid hen went out one day to gather eggs and found one bearing the cabalistic letters G S H. The find created much excitement among the women of the neighborhood, and they quickly gathered. They all agreed it was prophetic of something, but what, puzzled them. One lady suggested that it meant "Give Sinners Help." Another suggested that it meant "God Send Help." Still another said it meant "God Save Heathers." Another declared that it meant that "God Sends Harmony." Finally, one old lady noted for her religious delirium, who had been saying little, sprang to her feet and vehemently declared the letters stood for "Give Spain Hell." All present agreed that her interpretation was correct.

Retrospection.

HOOD RIVER, June 8, 1898.—Editor GLACIER: Permit an old pioneer to congratulate the people of Hood River through your paper on the fine showing they are making in homes and farms and fruit culture. Some may think they see hard times, but to us of a past generation we see you far advanced in prosperity. We were here from 1864 to 1866, and now, on our present visit, we see great change. The old people are gone and new faces meet us. Before, the adaptability of soil and climate to any line of agricultural or horticultural products was an unknown quantity. Now, through intelligent experiments, your fruits are widely known and appreciated, and by railroad conveniences even the strawberries are shipped to the Missouri river cities. Interstate and international commerce, even in perishable articles, has wonderfully changed. In retrospect, our first view of Hood River, in 1844, was under entirely different circumstances. Then it was a land of savages. We did not then think that this land might be a home for civilization. Our emigration of 1844 was but a handful of Americans, and we had crossed the plains from the Missouri river without seeing a house occupied by a settler of white people. Even forts and missions were rarely seen. The year before, in 1843, the first immigration of wagons and families, breaking a road 600 miles this side of Fort Hall, commenced that wonderful tide which peopled this coast. There were some white people here before, but not as colonists and settlers. Trappers, missionaries and adventurers were on this coast. The situation, as told by Rev. Wilson in a speech on Dr. Whitman, shows us that in 1842 there were not more than 150 American men and about 20 white women, mostly missionaries' wives, on this coast. Migration still waited. So it is seen that without women, in 1842, an American settlement, as such, could not have existed. The families in 1843, having about 80 wagons, was the first immigration proper to Oregon. In 1844 we followed with about 150 wagons. But this was not United States territory, and we were over 2,000 miles away in a strange land. A vague title to Oregon by both the United States and Great Britain gave both governments a joint occupancy here until 1846. When we came, in 1844, we found an actual settlement by British subjects in the French settlement of the Willamette valley. Could we then hope that Hood River or any other Pacific lands would be a part of the United States? Pardon us for making such a lengthy statement, but we have done so because some now argue that Great Britain did not expect any lands south of the Columbia. Really, her actual settlements were south of the Columbia river then, and if the treaty of 1846 had been made in 1842, or even in 1844, she would have gained her line down to Mexico, on the 42nd degree of latitude. Our two immigrations, with that of 1845 following us with about 500 wagons, so swamped up the French prairie that we were in actual possession in 1846, and the treaty gave us Oregon. Thus Hood River is under the Stars and Stripes, with the best government, the greatest privileges and most glorious prospects the world can give.

Our party of four men and about 50 head of stock, of the immigration of 1844, came in three days from The Dalles, over Indian trails, but here on Hood river we lost all signs of further trails down the river, so we swam our cattle across the Columbia and went down to Fort Vancouver on that side. We were out of provisions here, and it was six days more before we met the families at the Cascades and procured more. The families had gone down the river. Indians were plentiful and we purchased roots and wormy salmon skins with clothes and trinkets. Besides, it was in November, with snow and rain in abundance. The party behind us killed a dog and ate it. Our memory of Hood River was that of privation, exposure and danger. Now, peace, plenty and strawberries. Now, the Sabbath rest, cultured society and the good Indian when not intoxicated. Once we were glad to get news of the states once a year. Now, on Hood river, we read the news of the present war and of the world as they do in New York, London, Paris and Hong Kong, as events transpire. You ship your fruits by rapid transit and special care to the markets of the world. I remember in my lifetime when Ohio was the wild West subject to Indian atrocities and the vast plains to the Pacific an unknown home of the veriest savages, for I was born in 1821. I shall leave the world with the United States spreading itself with a new progressive policy and Hood River not quite a paradise.

Hon. W. H. Biggs spent Sunday in Hood River, the guest of Col. O. B. Hartley. After a drive over the valley he expressed himself as delighted with our country and said he might become a citizen with us at no distant day.

O. B. Hartley has 7 head of first class milk cows for sale.

Mr. and Mrs. S. S. Noteman have rented the Rigby cottage, where Mrs. Noteman will give vapor baths for ladies.

Roy Shoemaker, now devil on the Goldendale Sentinel, is home for his vacation. Roy has worked at the case for six months and is not yet sorry he learned the trade.

The editor had his picture taken yesterday. Learning that the artist of the Gem photo gallery would take a view of Oak street, we made it a point to be in the procession. It's a cold day when we get left.

We see by the Oregonian that Sam Elliot, a Hood River boy, took first prize, $30, for best declamation, offered in connection with commencement exercises at Portland academy.

Bradley's photograph gallery has been kept quite busy of late; but there is always room for more. His work is advertising itself.

Haynes & Luckey are running the blacksmith shop of Nickelsen & Haynes for the summer.

Mrs. S. L. Taylor came up from Troutdale last Friday. Mrs. Northway and daughter coming with her. Mr. Taylor had reported strawberry pickers scarce, and Mrs. Taylor brought along several of her neighbors' boys to pick berries.

Five members of Battery A. National Guard, from Portland, are picking berries for O. L. Stranahan. They would like to stay to handle the big gun of Canby post on the 4th.
