Will A. Peairs, traveling agent for the Chamberlain medicines, has been all over the world in the past three years. He traveled from Hong Kong to Singapore on the same boat with Aguinaldo, leader of the Philippine insurgents, and says of him: "He is a bit of a chap. Half caste, part Spanish and part Malay—quite the worst combination that could be produced or imagined. I have no faith in him whatever. He sold his countrymen for Spanish gold and then played the hog and refused to divide with his conspirators. The only thing that is needed to hold him in check is to face him against a stone wall and then put a squad of soldiers over him. We are going to have lots of trouble with Aguinaldo before we get through with him."

The San Francisco Chronicle says that cherries suitable for shipment can not be profitably raised and picked for less than 40 cents per ten pound box. In order that growers in California may receive this amount, cherries must sell at an average price of 85 cents per box in Chicago or 90 cents in New York. For stone fruits packed in the ordinary crates the grower gets nothing for his fruit unless it sells for more than 70 cents per crate in Chicago or Minneapolis; 75 cents in New York or Philadelphia, or 80 cents in Boston.

On the departure of Colonel William J. Bryan's regiment from Omaha it was greeted by fully 100,000 persons from Nebraska and adjoining states who had gathered to bid the boys goodbye. Col. Bryan was complimented on the grace with which he handled the regiment, showing that he had given close study to the tactics. The regiment is said to be the finest looking body of men ever under arms in Nebraska. They went to Florida and will be with the expedition to Porto Rico.

And now General Shafter is having trouble in keeping the blood-thirsty insurgents from entering the captured city of Santiago, for fear the inhabitants would suffer fearful atrocities at the hands of the Cubans. Fortunately for the people of this island our congress failed to recognize the insurgent military authorities as sustaining a government fit for humanity. Too much sympathy has been wasted on the Cuban "patriots."

Beginning with May 1st, or ten days after the war began, the American navy has met the navy of Spain and destroyed twenty battleships of the enemy and disabled or captured several small craft. The only serious damage done to our ships has been the disabling of a gun on the Baltimore. This is a record never equaled in naval warfare in the world's history.

The plan of sending the captured Spanish army home to Spain is a good one. We will not have to feed nor guard the prisoners, and their return to Spain on American transports conveyed by our men-of-war will be convincing proof that the war is not altogether one grand round of Spanish victories.

By the surrender of Santiago 5000 square miles of territory, all of the eastern end of Cuba, falls into our hands. The Cuban junta expected to step in and set up their government in the captured territory, but they will have some time to wait before they will be allowed to run things in Cuba.

The industrious and hardworked American bondholder is feeling the good effects of annexation. Hawaiian bonds to the amount of $4,000,000, which were heavily discounted, thanks to annexation are now up to par.

The new revenue law is not interfering much with marriages. Marriage certificates are exempt from the tax, but the ministers or other officials must put a 10-cent stamp on every certificate of marriage.

The Dufur Dispatch came to hand last week for the first time since the election. We had hoped to think it had turned up its toes.

Winfield Scott Schley—one man who, named after a great man, afterwards became great himself.

Hood River Still Leads.
Ranch and Range says there is a greater demand for Lake Washington berries than for Hood River berries. This statement is a little ambiguous. If home markets are referred to it must be admitted that Seattle eats more berries than Hood River. But if it is meant that there is a greater shipping demand, which seems to be the implication of the article, then we take issue with the statement. Lake Washington strawberries are undoubtedly very fine. It may be that some of the berries raised there are fully as good as those grown at Hood River, but when you get away from Seattle it is safe to say that more than a hundred persons know and want Hood River berries to every one who is familiar to the Lake Washington product. There are a very intelligent, enterprising lot of men engaged in the strawberry business in Hood River. It is safe to say that no other place in America has this year shipped 38,000 crates of strawberries, all of one variety and of as nearly uniform size as those sent out from Hood River. The same sort of berries have been going from Hood River for so many years that the variety is now known through a dozen states as the "Hood River" berry. The Hood River people are a very enterprising lot of folks and fully understand the value of advertising and have shown great skill and achieved remarkable success in getting their berries advertised. As the quality of their fruit justifies the advertising it has received, there is a demand for it peculiar to it. It is no disparagement to the merits of Lake Washington or Mount Tabor or Gravel Hill berries that there is no such widespread demand for them as there is for the Hood River berry.—Rural Northwest.

No "Concert" May Meddle.
No sooner does the news go out to the world that our successes are not confined to the sea, but that we have achieved a very important victory on land, than we hear again from Europe that the concerted powers will kindly relieve us from all the trouble of arranging the terms of peace. In particular we hear from Paris that the Matin has learned from its London correspondent, "who has unusual sources of information," that "the European chancelleries are now discussing the question of the eventual intervention of the powers in the Philippine islands."

From the same source of unusually correct information we learn that the ambassadors at Berlin have advised their respective governments regarding Germany's line of policy, "which seems quite settled." We are told that Germany would prefer the status quo, but if, as a consequence of the war, Spanish sovereignty disappeared American sovereignty must not be its successor. Which is sufficiently peremptory.

What is to be its successor will be determined by international agreement, and each of the powers concerned will be called upon to protect its own interests. "This," says the correspondent who knows it all, "is the logical outcome of the Monroe doctrine, the principle of which will be employed by Europe in order to protect itself against American interference, and unless appearances are deceptive Great Britain, in spite of the talked-of Anglo-Saxon alliance, will do the same as the other powers."

This is a very nice programme. The victor in this war is not to be consulted at all. That wretched league of impotent selfishness known as the concert of the powers is to come to the front and settle everything. Perhaps the sweetly concerted powers will discover before they get very far that Uncle Sam means to have something to say about these things himself and will make some little effort to demonstrate that this country differs in some important particulars from Japan and Greece and even from the rather sturdy invalid on the Bosphorus.

While it is true that a great many Americans, perhaps a majority of them, are opposed to imperialism and would greatly prefer not to retain more than a good naval station in the Philippines, it is not less true that they are pretty unanimously of the opinion that Uncle Sam will have to be consulted first in regard to the disposal of the Philippines and all other territory conquered from Spain in this war. They are pretty unanimously of the opinion that they will make out to put up a pretty tolerably harmonious concert of their own if the jangling European concert shall attempt to meddle with their affairs as it did with those of Japan after her war with China.—Chicago Chronicle.

The Observer Merchants.
East Oregonian.

D. C. Ireland & Sons are publishers of the Sherman County Observer, published in Moro. The Ireland family are workers and excellent newspaper men. About a year ago a few local merchants attempted to dictate the policy of the paper and the Irelands would not listen to such a proposition. The merchants joined forces and started a rival paper—in other words, the merchants became publishers. The Irelands could not be outdone, so they became merchants, with the result that this week a train load of 25 cars left Stockton loaded with goods for Sherman county farmers purchased and sold through the Irelands. The Moro merchants should now incline to believe it would have been best to have allowed "Dad" Ireland & Sons to run their newspaper business to suit themselves without dictation from those who knew nothing about the business. Here is to "Dad" Ireland & Sons, and to their independence and ability to help themselves!

Bridge Notice.
The old bridge which I built some ten years ago at the Forks of Hood River having been worn out by the public and become dangerous to use, I have concluded to build a new one, and hereby extend an invitation to all fair minded people who are interested in getting into the country tributary to the forks of the river to assist in building the new bridge, as it is quite an undertaking. Two days work, or $3 in cash, will be the smallest amount accepted; but parties owning real estate tributary to the bridge or contemplating doing business over the bridge will need to subscribe more. We would like to have the names of all fair minded citizens on the subscription list, thereby practically making the bridge and road a public one, and if a sufficient force responds to this invitation immediately to a finish; but should an insufficient number of people respond to this invitation, then it will not be undertaken. The bridge will be free to those only who comply with the foregoing conditions, as the climatic conditions and other environments are not conducive to the health of dead heads. This bridge will be built at the only place that will be a practical outlet for all interests between the forks of the river and the west side. Now, then, all that can meet the demand and who mean business should immediately sign the subscription list now in the hands of Grant Evans, or come to my place immediately and go to work. If sufficient help responds to this call we contemplate extending the road and trail to Lost Lake and other points of interest. W. R. WINANS.

Three Indians Drowned.
GRAND DALLES, Wash., July 14, 1898.—Editor GLACIER: Three children belonging to Bill Calwash, a Tum-Water Indian, were drowned in the rapids today, nearly opposite Seufert Bros.' cannery. One was a girl about 18, one a boy of 12, the other a baby about a year old. Five of them had gone in a boat to visit some Indians on a fish scow and were returning across the big eddy when the boat was caught in a swirl and sucked under. Two boys came up about thirty feet from the bluffs and swam in and were rescued, but the other three did not come up. Calwash is nearly distracted and has gone down the river, hoping the bodies of his children will come to the surface and he can get them. He wanted me to write to residents along the river to get them if seen, and he will pay for any service. It occurred to me if it were published in the GLACIER it would become generally known in your locality, where bodies of persons drowned here are most often seen floating, and if you will kindly make an item of it and notify me if the bodies are found, it will be a favor. J. T. RORICK.

Beauty is Blood Deep.
Clean blood means a clean skin. No beauty without it. Cascarets, Candy Cathartic clean your blood and keep it clean, by stirring up the lazy liver and driving all impurities from the body. Begin to-day to banish pimples, boils, blackheads, and that sickly bilious complexion by taking Cascarets—beauty for ten cents. All drugists, satisfaction guaranteed, 10c, 25c, 50c.

Our baby has been continually troubled with colic and cholera infantum since his birth, and all that we could do for him did not seem to give more than temporary relief, until we tried Chamberlain's Colic Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. Since giving that remedy he has not been troubled. We want to give you this testimonial as an evidence of our gratitude, not that you need it to advertise your meritorious remedy.—G. M. Law, Keokuk, Iowa. For sale by Williams & Brosius.

J. E. Cannon, who formerly resided in the Long Creek valley, but late a resident near Hood River, is at the McDuffie hot springs. Mr. Cannon is almost a cripple from a stroke of paralysis and will remain at the Ritter health resort for some time in hopes of regaining use of his legs.—Long Creek Eagle.

The busy man thinks the loafer has a constant picnic, with nothing whatever to worry his mind. In this the average loafer is misjudged. He has his task to perform and is kept busy these times. There is the war strategy board to look after and criticize, in addition to his regular duties of cussing the town council, settling political and financial questions, and when not otherwise engaged he runs down his local paper.—Welcome.
