FRIDAY, JANUARY 6, 1899.

The city of The Dalles is in a fair way to lose the trade that has built up the city and made it the distributing point for a big portion of the Inland Empire during the past 40 years. The Columbia Southern railroad building from Biggs has reached Moro and in time will reach Antelope, with probably a branch to Prineville. This takes away the trade of that part of Sherman county that has been tributary to The Dalles, and the trade of Crook county and southeastern Wasco will be lost to it. The projected railroad from Lyle to Goldendale, if built, will take from The Dalles most of the trade of Klickitat county it now enjoys. The only hope for The Dalles to retain her supremacy as the chief city of the Inland Empire lies in establishing manufacturing. The Mountaineer has been pointing out the way, but the men who have the capital and own the real estate and who are most interested continue to hesitate.

Under date of Dec. 17, 1898, Governor Lord, by authority of section 2506 of Hill's Code, appointed the following named gentlemen as a state board of immigration: J. C. Cooper, Henry L. Pitcock and Wm. G. Gosslin. In view of the importance of the work to be undertaken, and the desire of the board to secure co-operation in every section of the state, as well as by every industry therein, it is deemed advisable to obtain a full expression of opinion. With this end in view a convention is called to meet in Portland, Jan. 21, 1899, at 10 o'clock a. m., to be composed of editors, mayors, county judges and commissioners, members of the legislature, and such representative citizens as may be appointed by mayors and county judges or commissioners.

The question, Where are we to get the soldiers to do garrison duty in our new possessions? has never yet been satisfactorily answered. But, presumably, the men who favor imperialism also want to do the soldiering. To be consistent, every man who favors the annexation of the Philippines should be willing to join the army to do garrison duty or fight if necessary to subdue the natives. No man has the moral right to help send others where he would not be willing to go himself.

Imperialist newspapers of the democratic stripe seem shocked at the proposition to increase the regular army to 100,000 men. More than this number of soldiers will be required if our government is going to hold all the territory now claimed as captured from Spain. The congressman who would vote for expansion and then oppose an increase of the regular army—the only means to carry out expansion—would show very poor statesmanship.

Canadians are becoming alarmed at the spirit of conquest shown by Americans and fear that their "free and independent government" will be traded off by England in consideration of Uncle Sam's alliance against the great powers of Europe. If Canada had a heathen population of several millions she would indeed be in great danger of being "absorbed."

Another Union Meeting.
As will be seen by a notice in the advertising columns of the GLACIER today, a meeting of the stockholders of the Hood River Fruit Growers Union is called for January 14, 1899. It is well known that the directors of the union are more or less handicapped by bylaws and rules that need amendment, and it is necessary that a meeting of stockholders should assemble to transact other important business. The board of directors held a meeting last Saturday and adopted the following resolution, which is to the point:
"Be it resolved by the Board of Directors of the Hood River Fruit Growers' Union, That a failure of the stockholders to attend the meeting on Saturday, January 14, 1899, and to amend the bylaws and transact such other business as may come before the meeting, so as to allow the board to conduct the business in the best interests of the fruit growers, shall be deemed by the board good and sufficient cause for discontinuing business the coming season."

White Salmon Side.
The dance on the 30th was a grand success.
The young folks are having great sport coasting.
Mrs. Edith Hensbary is confined to her bed with rheumatism.
The Columbia river rose rapidly last week, but now it is again falling.
Some one borrowed Mr. Dethman's hat last Friday night and has not returned it yet.
The snow, three feet deep in places, bothered the Chenoweth mail carrier Tuesday, and he did not get in till 8 o'clock.
The young folks of this place gave Mr. O. Jewett a grand surprise Wednesday night last week. He left Tuesday for his school in the Willamette valley.
The mail carrier found it difficult to cross the river Wednesday morning on account of running ice. He was one hour and ten minutes crossing, while ordinarily he makes the trip in 15 or 20 minutes.

There will be a partial eclipse of the sun January 11th, visible along the north Pacific coast.

The Sealing Industry.

HOOD RIVER, Dec. 30, 1898.—Editor GLACIER: Just at this time while the fortune seeker not only of our own country but many others are traveling their way towards the rich gold fields of Alaska and British Columbia—now if the discoveries of the precious metals already made under the trying conditions are any index to the future, who can predict the possibilities of the wonderful gold fields of this country—for instance, the Treadwell mill, with its thousand stamps pounding away at a mountain of quartz, with enough quartz in sight for the next hundred years and more, with some of the richest placer diggings ever discovered on the continent, and yet an empire of like gold fields unexplored. The object of this article is to notice one of the best paying interests at present, and will be for all time to come, if properly protected by wise legislation of congress—fur-bearing seals.

When Secretary Seward purchased Alaska from Russia in 1867, paying therefor $7,200,000, the wisdom of his act was almost universally questioned; more particularly was the price a matter of comment. As no one could understand the significance of the $200,000, it has recently come to light as a "state secret" that when war was feared with the mother country during a critical period of the rebellion, our good president and Secretary Seward secured a pledge of aid from Russia, who kept a number of her best warships on our northwest coast for a number of months, ready at a moment's warning to aid us. Happily the storm passed over. But the expenses of Russia was a debt of honor upon the nation which was finally settled by the cession of Alaska to the United States at a nominal price for the payment of this debt, which amounted exactly to the sum of $7,200,000. If this be true, Russia, in order to relieve herself and our state department as well from so embarrassing a position, really made us a present of her American possessions. By this purchase the United States acquired the exclusive rights to that portion of Behring Sea lying in Alaska, about 700 miles from the mouth of Yukon river. In this sea are two islands, St. Paul and St. George, which are the chief breeding grounds of the seal. It soon became evident to congress that if unrestricted killing was permitted the seals would become, as in all other places, exterminated. So in 1870 congress gave exclusive privilege in Behring Sea to the Alaska Commercial Co. By terms of this act the company pays the government an annual rental of $55,000 and $2.65 bounty on each seal secured; no more than 100,000 to be taken each year. From this the annual revenue is over $300,000, amounting in nineteen years to about $5,700,000. The lease expires next year. The cost of protecting the industry is about 5 per cent of this amount. Two government vessels are employed to guard the interest. And yet it is estimated that at least 30,000 seals are captured by independent sealers who take their chances of losing vessel and crew, besides destroying twice that number which are lost; yet they have more than doubled in numbers during this season. The seal is migratory in its habits. In October he goes south, just how far no one knows. In their return in the spring they strike the California coast far below Santa Barbara; passing north they destroy large numbers of salmon. An average seal skin is worth from $8 to $10 in native color, and, curiously enough, every seal skin taken has to be sent to London to be colored before going upon the general market. In this business we find the most complete monopoly in the world, for the process is known only to London artisans. Its value is increased many times by this process.

In conclusion, let the press of this country urge upon congress the importance of wise legislation (no exclusive rights or trusts), tenderly providing for the protection of this valuable interest; otherwise it will be destroyed, as in all other places; and as a consequence, for awhile cheap furs, then no furs at all.

A very pleasant social event occurred at the residence of Mr. Charles Castner on Thursday, December 29, 1898. In the presence of a number of the relatives and friends, Mr. Frank W. Angus and Miss Grace E. Belding were joined in marriage. Rev. J. W. Jenkins officiating. These young people have a large circle of acquaintances in Hood River who join in wishing them much happiness on life's journey and who will be pleased to learn that they purpose making their future home in the valley.

La Grippe Successfully Treated.
"I have just recovered from the second attack of la grippe this year," says Mr. Jas. A. Jones, publisher of the Leader, Mexia, Texas. "In the latter case I used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, and I think with considerable success, only being in bed a little over two days against ten days for the former attack. The second attack I am satisfied would have been equally as bad as the first but for the use of this remedy, as I had to go to bed in about six hours after being 'struck' with it, while in the first case I was able to attend to business about two days before getting 'down.' For sale by Williams & Brosius."

A Watch Night Social.
A social was given by W. P. Watson New Year's eve for the young folks. The evening was spent in playing games and a goodly lunch was served by Mrs. Watson for which all were thankful. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Watson, Grace Graham, Carrie Shutes, Lillian Shutes, Maud McCray, Vera Smith, Alice Graham, Ida Foss, Mrs. Watkins, Mrs. Shutes, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Clark, W. E. Slicer, Chester Shutes, Ed Williams, Charles Clarke, Wm. Graham, Joe Mayer, Dell Rand, Wm. Gregory, James Eggert. Most of them remained to see the old year out and the new year in. After wishing each a happy new year the guests departed for their several homes.

The Irish Fair.
There is to be an Irish fair in Portland from January 21st to February 4th, 1899. It comes in the merry month of January, after the holiday festivities are all evaporated and faded. There will be excursions, and all the surrounding country can take advantage of this occasion and be happy. It is for a most worthy charity—the home for the aged—but it will not be conducted on an order of church fairs. In all ways the Irish fair will be an exposition, and a most attractive one at that. It is an elaboration of the industrial exhibition, carried out on new ideas. Most of the booths will be illustrative of Irish architecture, and will be miniature productions, on a sufficiently large and massive scale to be beautiful, of the celebrated structures of the "green little isle."

The undersigned hereby desire to express their heartfelt gratitude to the members and friends of the Congregational church, who so generously brought material tokens of regard and helpfulness into their home by the occasion of the church's annual meeting. Many, many thanks.
